Said in Few Words

ronto: "I am out a week's holiday, but it is a very bad time of year for us to get away. The telegraphing done by people away on holidays, makes our business very large now. Of course our very best time is during the Toronto exhibition."

Mr. D. M. Pearce : "The weeds along the streets wouldn't make a very good impression on the big crowd we had on circus day. If these weeds were cut each year before the seed matured they would soon disappear."

DUNOON'S Drug Store

In Saturday's Montreal Star there appeared several stanzas under the above heading and over the signature "Inverlochlin." The fact that "Inverlochlin" is the name of Col. Sam Hughes' cottage on Cameron Lake, and that Lochlin was the family name of the colonel's mother-these facts together with the colonel's enthusiasm for Lord Dundonald, furnish a strong clue to the author of the stanzas which are as follows:

Our ain Dundonald gaes awa'; Frae scenes and friends beloved he's 5 May choicest blessings on him fa'! He'll aye be welcome back again !

O'er Egypt's sands, up ancient Nile, In desert waste our "Hielan' man, On burning plain, in deep defile, Won laurels rare, as in Soudan.

State When wild ward 'larms, frae Orange And frae Transvaal thrilled Britons

Dundonald's lord, with soul elate, His sword for Queen and country

On toilsom march, 'mid battle's roar A kindly hand and word he gave True gallant lads, frae every corps, He freely risked his life to save.

Unconquered White, proud comrades

Dundonald saved, in sorest need, Frae fair Natal, war's conflict rolled To Transvaal, won by valorous

Through valleys deep, o'er mountains "Strathcona's Horse" Dundonald

The watchword, "Aye to do or die. Britannia mourns these honored dead.

Dundonald e'er we'll welcome back Nae "foreigner" or "stranger"

While floats the British Union Jack, Canadians will his name revere.

One prayer to him frae warm hearts Canadians, "sodger lads" and a', With fervor breathe this fond appeal-"Forget us not, though far awa',"

CERTAINLY, SAVE THE BIRDS. (Fenelon Falls Star.)

Now that summer is here once more something should certainly be done to prevent the boys from shooting birds. There are not nearly enough birds in Canada and agricultural experts have proved that without birds no crops would grow, as birds live on those insects which destry grain. So apart from the beauty of birds, and their sweet notes, their usefulness should protect them the senseless cruelty of boys. Another phase of the matter is the bad effect produced upon the dispositions of boys by permitting them to indulge in useless destruction of life. ' If it cannot be stopped in any other way, boys should be fined for carrying air guns and they should certainly be prosecuted for destroying bird 'life or bird's
