BIG BLACK WAS BADLY MUSSED

W. W. Naughton, one of the best posted boxing critics in the United States, who was at the ring side on Thursday when Johnson and Flynn fought, speaks of the black as a "somewhat bedraggled champion."

That Johnson had scored the most punches and had brought the most blood was something that could not be denied, but to say he looked a winner at the time of the interference is a different matter. It was the opinion of the majority of the spectators that if Flynn could have kept his temper and fought cleanly he could have worn Johnson down. Flynn evidently was the more finely trained. He was full of fight and ginger at all times. Johnson was a somewhat bedraggled at the start of the sixth round champion. His stamina had been affected by the constant pegging of Flynn's gloves against his stomach, and it was noticed he no longer maintained the grin which he wore in the preceding rounds.

By the way Flynn rushed from his corner it was apparent he had seen evidence of Johnson weakening in the preceding rounds. The fireman tore at his quarry like a bull at a gate and had Johnson against the ropes before the champion had taken two steps from his corner. Johnson clasped Flynn's forearms and leaned his elbows in the hollow of Flynn's arms in such a way that Flynn was as powerless as a man handcuffed. Flynn lurched and twisted violently in his efforts to free himself, and finding he could not do so, used his head as a battering ram on Johnson's throat and chin.

Johnson still held on and glanced appealingly at the referee. And in the meantime Prof. Wason Burns, the champion's principal second, jumped upon the ring ledge and shouted at Smith: "Can't you see that Flynn is butting?" Johnson added his voice to that of Burns and there was a look of concern in the champion's eyes.

Referee Smith pulled the men apart and shook a warning finger at Flynn, Flynn, whose fighting blood was up, yelled excitedly: "He's holding me; he's holding. Why don't you make him quit and fight as a champion should?"

Smith turned to Johnson and told him that the charge against him was true and that while he was not as culpable in the matter of unfair fighting as his opponent, he was departing from the agreement entered into as to a fair stand-up boxing match. Then Smith waved them together again and when the order to resume fighting was given, Flynn went at the champion head-on.

Once again Johnson clasped Flynn's arms and pinioned him and try as he might the fireman could not free a glove to deliver a blow. He was mad clear through and he immediately resorted to butting again, while Johnson shouted to the referee for help, and Prof. Burns, on the ring ledge, waved his arms and cried aloud about the unfairness of things.

Not once but four times, did Smith have to pull the men asunder and shake a warning forefinger at Flynn. As often as he did so, Johnson stood there in a noticeable limp condition, and Flynn, with his fighting spirit at fever heat, gesticulated and bellowed: "What am I to do? What am I to do? I am licking the big stiff and he is holding me."

And this was a significant point, for those who knew Johnson and know of his past battles and past spells of training know that when he was himself he never allowed anyone to take liberties with him. An extra hard punch either in a practice bout or in a real fight brought retaliation from the champion in the shape of a volley of hooks and uppercuts.

But here-to-day he allowed a man lighter and several inches shorter than himself to take liberties with him. If he had followed his usual custom he would have shook himself free and batted Flynn's head from side to side with crashing punches. Instead, he clung to the undersized fireman like a creeper to a fence and wanted to be declared winner on a foul.

HYMENEAL.

O'KEEFE-BISSETTE.

A very pretty wedding was celebrated at St. Mary's church this morning by the Ven. Archdeacon Casey at 7.30 o'clock, when Miss Bissette and Mr. A. P. O'Keefe were united in the holy bonds of matrimony. A brother of the groom and sister of the bride assisted the young couple through the happy event. The young couple will take up their residence in Lindsay.

BOBCAYGEON MOONLIGHT.

A large number of young people from Bobcaygeon visited Lindsay Monday on a moonlight excursion. The Bobcaygeon band was on board and rendered several selections. The boat reached Lindsay about eleven o'clock, and many citizens were aroused from peaceful slumber when the band struck up "We Won't Go Home Until Morning." About ten of the young people missed the boat and remained in town over night.

Ex-Lindsayite Died Suddenly in Toronto

The friends of Mr. Anthony J. Walsh, a former resident of Lindsay, were shocked when the news of his sudden death at Toronto reached Lindsay on Sunday at one o'clock, death being partially attributed to the excessive heat. Mr. Walsh called on Lindsay friends on Tuesday last.

Mr. Walsh was in his usual health when retiring on Saturday night but on awakening about six o'clock Sunday morning complained of having an oppressed feeling. Medical aid was summoned but despite the efforts of the attending physician he passed away at ten o'clock a.m. on Sunday, four hours afterwards. Mr. Walsh was well known in Lindsay having spent his boyhood years in town previous to going to Toronto. While in this town he was engaged in the shoe trade which business he followed in Toronto. The deceased is survived by his wife, three sons and one daughter, namely: Joseph, of post office staff, Toronto; Howard and Norbert, students at De la Salle Institute and Miss Florence at home. The deceased had many relatives in this vicinity. Mr. T. Miller, of Ops, being a half brother. Mr. Frank Dennis is a brother-in-law; Mrs. W. Sadler, a sister-in-law.

Fenian Raid Veterans Apply For Grant

Ottawa, July 8.—The department of militia continues to experience no little difficulty over the Fenian Raid grants. It now looks as if nothing can be done towards filling any of the thousands of applications received until after parliament meets next autumn.

No vote for any amount to cover the grant was made last session, neither has any royal warrant been issued. Already 3,500 applications have been passed as genuine. It is doubtful, however, if these can or will be paid until Mr. Borden returns from Great Britain. This was intimated last night by Col. Sam. Hughes, minister of militia.

Ops Council Not Blocking The Scheme

Mr. James Robertson, reeve of the township of Ops, was in town this morning, and in conversation with a Warden man took occasion to object to an article which appeared in The Warden last week. In the article referred to it was stated that Ops council refused to help in the construction of the new road from Cameron to Lindsay. To a Warden reporter Mr. Robertson stated that the township council took the stand that the county of Victoria and the Government should foot the cost of the road, and the township of Ops and Fenelon would then pay their share equally. As a township Ops refused to aid, because to do so would mean the buying up of considerable right of way at a large expense, while the township of Fenelon, which would really be the largest benefactor, would have very little to pay. Besides, Mr. Robertson understood that the farmers living in Ops, who would have to sell their property, are not all willing to sell. "Ops will willingly pay her share as a municipality of the county, in

Heat Killed Seven People in Chicago

Chicago, July 6.—Seven dead, a score of prostrations and a number bitten by heat maddened dogs was the summary early this morning in Chicago at the close of the hottest day thus far this year.

Excessive humidity, registering above 80 and a maximum temperature of 92 degrees, resulted in great suffering. Thousands of people in all parts of the city slept out of doors on roof tops and in the parks at night. Lake steamers were crowded with people seeking to escape the great heat in the city. Crowds at the bathing beaches refused to go home at the usual hour for closing and many remained on the shore all night.

Sudden Death of Miss Millar on Saturday

Death came suddenly to Miss Isabella Millar on Saturday last at the residence of Mr. W. Hodgson in Cambridge-st. south. Miss Millar had been in her usual health and was in the act of placing a fly screen in the uplifted window, when she dropped backward to the floor and expired. Dr. Vrooman who had been in attendance on Mrs. Hodgson, niece of the deceased at the home, was called in, but found all trace of animation forever suspended.

Coroner Dr. Blanchard was notified by phone and concluded that the deceased died of heart failure, which might have been superinduced by the extreme heat or anxiety, and no inquest was necessary.

Miss Millar was about 50 years of age, and was a resident of Lisard, township of Clark, previous to coming to Lindsay, where many members of her family reside.

Orangemen Attended Service on Sunday

The members of the Orange Order, of Lindsay, attended divine service at the Cambridge-st. Methodist church Sunday morning, there being a large turnout of Orangemen and friends. Rev. Dr. Shorey, pastor, delivered a very appropriate sermon, taking his text from the gospel according to St. Matthew, 10th chapter, 34th verse, "Think not that I am come to send peace on earth; I came not to send peace but a sword."

"The words in the text were uttered over 2,000 years ago, and to-day we can look back and see how true they are," stated the speaker. "The means by which a thing is accomplished and the end itself may be very different. The freedom we have to-day has been attained through conflict and is retained to-day by careful watchfulness," and Dr. Shorey commended the actions of the Protestant bodies and the Orange societies, who sought to maintain their freedom and the freedom of their fellowmen. Peace was the object all were striving for, "but the time has not yet come when we can lay down the warfare. The Protestant attitude is one of all kindness to Romanists as fellow citizens but a barred door to popery. We give and concede to them all their rights, and then we will say thus far and no further. Let us in all loyalty give no cause for offence."

CROPS NEED COOLER WEATHER

Mr. A. O. Hogg Says Country Needs Cool Weather

That cooler weather is necessary to good field crops in the eastern counties of Ontario is the opinion of Mr. A. O. Hogg, chairman of the grain section of the Toronto board of trade, and formerly of Oakwood, who has just returned from a two weeks' trip through York, Ontario, Durham, Victoria, Hastings, and Prince Edward counties.

Hay Crop is Not Very Promising

Peterboro Examiner: Among the usual Monday morning visitors to the market to-day were several who declared the hay crop disappointing. One Douro farmer whose crop last year was one of the heaviest, stated that the hay on his place for the most part was no higher than a boot top, and as far as he was concerned there was not much to be expected this year. Last week's rain was timely, especially for roots, and potatoes have materially gained since the moisture came.

TEN DON'TS FOR HUSBANDS.

- Some time ago "Ten Don'ts" for wives were given out by a clergyman. Here are "Ten Don'ts" for husbands from a layman:
- Don't marry a woman for her money—but for love.
- Don't have a smile for every woman you meet—only your wife.
- Don't think that the way to have a happy home is to be out five nights a week.
- Don't tell your home troubles or private affairs to other men—they only laugh at you when your back is turned.
- Don't find so much fault with every thing your wife says and does.
- Don't find fault with the dinner—especially if you have some guests. It is bad enough when you are alone to talk that way.
- Don't beat your son of 15 for smoking in the cellar—when you have been smoking stinking cigars for the last two hours at the Club.
- Don't be a town saint and a home devil. Avoid hypocrisy.
- Don't call on women when their husbands are out—it looks bad.
- Don't forget what a nice fellow you were before you married your wife. Strive to be just as pleasant now and you will see then what a good woman you have got. — John Henry Smith in the New York Times.
