THE POWER OF THE SMALL POCKET-BOOK

The Financial World.

In no other country has the science of investment been cultivated to such a fine point of nicety as in France. They do things over there altogether different from our way of doing. Instead of appealing solely to men of wealth who have the means to purchase securities in large denominations, in France bankers also never seem to go with offerings to even the smallest investors. It is because of this that over there even porters and char-women are the proud possessors of some bonds or stocks in denominations within reach of their limited purses.

While of themselves these small investments amount to little, yet in the aggregate they reach an enormous total. Frequently, not only is our wonderment aroused, but also our admiration as we read about the enormous over-subscriptions in France to some popular security of Government owned railroads brought out a 300,000,000 francs loan, and before the day was over, the bankers wire-

Two Downeyville Girls Had Thrilling Experience

Downeyville, July 9. — At 3:30 p.m. Thursday, July 4th, the girls Theresa and Florence O'Brien were suddenly aroused from an afternoon nap at the home of the latter by a terrific crash in the next room which on investigation, proved to be the destruction of a window, the result of the fierce electrical storm which swept through the vicinity on that date.

How to Treat Your Horse in Hot Weather

- 1—Load lightly, and drive slowly.
- 2—Stop in the shade if possible.
- 3—Water your horse as often as possible. So long as a horse is working, water in moderate quantities will not hurt him. But let him drink only a few swallows if he is going to stand still.
- 4—When he comes in after work, sponge off the harness, marks, and sweat, his eyes, his nose and mouth, and the dock. Wash his feet, but not his legs.
- 5—If the thermometer is 75 degrees or higher, wipe him all over with a wet sponge, or a vinegar water if possible. Do not turn the horse on him.
- 6—Saturday night, give a bran mash, cold, and add a tablespoonful of salt peter.
- 7—Do not use a horse-fly unless it is a canopy-hat. The ordinary bell-shaped hat does more harm than good.
- 8—A sponge on top of the head, or even a cloth, is good if kept wet. If dry, it is worse than nothing.
- 9—If the horse is overcome by heat, get him into the shade, remove harness and bridle, wash out his mouth, sponge him all over, shower his legs and give him four ounces of aromatic spirits of ammonia, or two ounces of sweet spirits of nitre in a pint of water, or give him a pint of coffee warm. Cool his head at once, using cold water, or, if necessary, chopped ice, wrapped in a cloth.
- 10—If the horse is off his feed, try him with two-quarts of oats mixed with bran, and a little water; and add a little salt or sugar. Or give him oatmeal gruel or barley water to drink.
- 11—Watch your horse if he stops sweating suddenly, or if he breathes short and quick, or if his ears droop, or if he stands with his legs braced sideways, he is in danger of a heat or sunstroke, and needs attention at once.
- 12—If it is so hot that the horse sweats in the stable at night, tie him outside, unless the owner objects during the night, he cannot well stand the heat in a stable.

Death of a Former Lindsay Resident

From the Niles Daily News, Niles, Ohio, U.S.: "After an illness which extended over three and one-half years, during which she suffered greatly from cancer, Mrs. Ann Kelly, an expected resident of Lindsay, died at 3:30 p.m. on Wednesday last. Her husband, although her life had been weakened of entirely for several weeks, the announcement of her passing away was received with regret by her neighbors and friends, who had learned to love her during the twenty years' residence in the city. Mrs. Kelly was a native of Lindsay, Ohio, where she was born Oct. 14, 1833. She knew well the history of Lindsay, and the building up of the province in which her parents took an active part. Her girlhood days were spent in learning the art of spinning, and in the accomplishment of every mother in those days. She was married to John Kelly, who died in 1885. She was born in California, Ont. Two boys were born to them, Francis, who died in infancy, and Edward, now editor of the Daily News, who survives. She was a devoted mother and a kind friend. Her death is a loss to this city. She was a highly respected resident in the township.

Shakespeare's Tragedies

Whenever "Macbeth" is put upon the stage, very nearly a fourth of it had to be omitted, for, although it is the shortest of the tragedies, it would take fully three hours to read it out loud without gabbling. "Hamlet" thus read would take nearly two hours more, and this seems to bear out the contention of Swinburne, among others, that much of the play, and indeed, of other tragedies, was written by Shakespeare for the study, and not for the stage. A six or seven hour performance must have been too much even for an audience of Elizabethan's spacious times. —London Graphic.

When He Went to the Front

"Did you hear that George went to the front yesterday?" asked the brother of Ethel. Ethel's face blanched. "Why, what do you mean, Jack? He never told me."

Verdict of Guilty Handed out to the Camorristi

Viterbo, Italy, July 8.—The jury in the Camorra trial to-day found a verdict of guilty against all the prisoners except two. Eight of the men were found guilty of actually taking part in the murder of Gen. Guciccolo and his wife, and all the others were found guilty of being associates of the slayers or members of a criminal band. Scenes of the wildest excitement followed the announcement of the verdict, and court was adjourned until the prisoners could be calmed sufficiently to hear their sentences later in the day.

The prisoners were not brought into court until the foreman had handed up the signed verdict to the judges. The prisoners entered single file, and Errico Alfano, who was in the lead, realized that the verdict was unfavorable and shouted, "What is the use of bayonets?"

Other prisoners burst into tears. Giovanni Rapi nearly collapsed, and the excitement spread like wildfire, until all the prisoners were shouting and shrieking wildly.

After a recess, during which the prisoners calmed down, the judge delivered the sentences. Errico Alfano, Corrado Sortini, Giuseppe Salvi, Antonia Cerrate, Giovanni Rapi, De Marinis and Nofici were each sentenced to thirty years at hard labor, and after three years of police surveillance after their twenty years at hard labor. Sixteen other prisoners who were found guilty of criminal association were sentenced to five years of hard labor and three years of police surveillance. Ascritorio was sentenced to nine years at hard labor. Father Vitozzi, the priest who was found guilty of "criminal association" was let off with the loss of his civil rights. All the prisoners were ordered to pay damages and costs.
