An Explanation

Last week a statement appeared in the church notes of this paper which has caused Presbyterians considerable anxiety. It was to the effect that Rev. Mr. Cook had said in a recent sermon that none of their denomination have as yet appeared in heaven. Regarding that statement Mr. Cook writes us as follows:

SIR, -I notice in your issue of last week a reference to a statement made by me in the pulpit of Cambridge-st. Methodist church on the 13th inst. viz: There will be no Presbyterians in heaven. Now those who were there will understand what was meant when I said also there will be no Methodists there; there will be no Episcopalians there; there will be no Roman Catholics there; but all who have the spirit of Christ will be there; meaning that all denominational distinctions will be left sight of. But when your paper is read by others both in the town and country, quite a different view may be taken from the remarkable anxiety expressed by the readers of the paper, as being very narrow-minded and unscriptural in his views, whereas he believes that "Christ will gather his own from every kindred and tribe and people and nation." Yours respectfully, W. H. COOK.

We gladly publish the above both to put the preacher right with those who read of his sermon, and especially to relieve the mental anxiety of our report must have occasioned the disciples of John Knox. In regard to the same report it may be explained that in spite of copy and proof correction the compositor made us say that the preacher "spurs his hearers to great mental effort" whereas we actually wrote that Mr. Cook was an ideal hot-weather preacher because he "spurs his hearers to great mental effort." It is only just to say that Mr. Cook's sermons were original and helpful discourses and were much enjoyed by those who heard them, and made the preacher many friends in this town. We trust no one took the discomfure of our Presbyterian friends too seriously.

The laws say that no partridges may be sold this year, and thus sportsmen may be sold only by means of a license themselves. This will stop the general slaughter. The same rule applies to quail.

The duck shooting season sets in Sept. 1st, and any time from then up to Dec. 15 the birds may be taken.

Deer shooting commences Nov. 1st and lasts until the 15th inclusive in Ontario, and from Oct. 15th until Nov. 15th in Quebec. It is permitted this season to kill with a scabbard and pointed animal which sportsmen have been forbidden to kill since 1891. Moreover, the privilege is given of selling snipe, woodcock and wild turkey. This would not be the case if these birds were scarce. The snipe season extends from September 15th to December 15th, and wild turkey time from October 15th to December 15th.

Drowned in Michigan

Our Kilmount correspondent writes as follows: News has arrived here of the sad drowning of Mr. Geo. Schell, son of Mrs. John Schell, sr., of this place. He, in company with two young men named Kroes, went in to bathe in Clam Lake, Cadillac, Mich., where they were swimming. One of the boys, Schell being good swimmer, rushed to the rescue. Unfortunately, the two sank together, and when the third also attempted to help the others all went down to stay. The bodies were soon recovered, but not till death had done its sad work. Mr. Schell was formerly a resident of this place, his mother and two brothers besides other relatives living here. A wife and six young children mourn his untimely end and are left scantily provided for, as he belonged to no society and carried no insurance. The local lodge of Orange-men, of which body he was once a member, took charge of the burial. Mr. Schell was born in Port Hope, Ont., Feb. 24th, 1865, and married Miss Lucretia Lattimore on July 13th, 1885. A few years ago he moved to Michigan and settled on a farm near McBain. By hard work he succeeded fairly well, but was about to commence the threshing season again before starting he wished for a holiday, and on July 4th went to take the same by picking huckleberries. A bath in the cool waters was first suggested and in this part of the day's program three young boys, who had been invited to accompany the Kroes boys as an eye-witness to the sad affair. Much sympathy is expressed here for the aged mother, who mourns the loss of a brave-hearted boy, who sacrificed his own life in trying to save another.

L. C. I. Notes

According to the regulations in force last year, only those students are allowed to go on for Junior Leaving Part I, who have done a satisfactory year's work in the subjects of Form I, and are so certified to by the staff of the Institute. In accordance with this regulation the following have been recommended: F. Jeffers, B. Thurston, R. H. Hopkins, N. Menzies, B. Sylvester, E. H. Nelson, N. Eggeson, S. Meehan, J. H. Hartman, Rose Dyer, E. Graham, A. Nesbitt, A. Nugent, M. M. Ross, I. Thurston, A. Woods, W. Workman, B. Heltzer, E. Williamson, E. Kennedy.

The following will be the requirements for students taking Part II, Junior Leaving, in 1901 or 1902: English grammar and rhetoric, English composition, English literature, ancient history, arithmetic and mensuration, algebra, geometry, physics, (of the High School course, Forms I and II), Latin, and one of the following subjects: Greek, French, German, chemistry; all candidates, irrespective of any former regulations, must comply with the requirements herein prescribed for the requirements of Junior Leaving standing. In other words the special privileges allowed certain candidates for several years in their cases under the provisions of the regulations in force before 1896, will not be continued after 1900.

As the first Monday in September is Labor Day, a holiday throughout the province, the Collegiate Institute will re-open on the following Tuesday morning at nine o'clock. New pupils should be in their places the first day, and work will be taken up immediately on opening. As quite a number of the subjects taken up in the Collegiate are new subjects to those who come in for the first time, it is very essential if these are to make good progress and do satisfactory work that they attend the commencement, as good work can only be done in a subject when the ground work is thoroughly mastered, and no amount of cramming, after missing the first month at a new subject, can make up for the lost ground. Accordingly we would strongly recommend all our young friends who intend to take a Collegiate course the coming year, to make arrangements to commence when the school opens in September and thereby get the benefit that comes from making a good start.

CLARKE-WELLSTOOD.

On Thursday, the 16th inst., the residence and grounds of Mr. Chas. Wellstood, Kilmount, were gaily decorated upon the occasion of the marriage of his eldest daughter, Miss Minnie, to Rev. W. Herbert Clarke of Plevna, formerly of Tuttsville, Rev. Thos. Manning performed the nuptial ceremony, assisted by Revs. G. McConnell of Kilmount and Jos. Whyte of Minden. Under the trees upon the south lawn, art squares had been spread, and there, surrounded by ferns and flowers artistically arranged, the ceremony was performed. The bride was presented by her father and looked charming and dainty in a beautiful gown of cream brilliantine with pearl trimmings. She wore a veil fastened with a wreath of bridal roses and carried bouquet of white flowers. Rev. T. H. Foley, B.A., Stanhope, supported the groom, and Miss Clara Wellstood acted as bridesmaid. Little Miss Merle Cole, dressed in white muslin, made a charming mascot of the occasion. At seven o'clock the party passed on to the lawn to the accompaniment of Mendelssohn's wedding march, and the ceremony was proceeded with. Afterward those present adjourned to the dining-room, where all sat down to a dainty dinner, served in excellent style. The wedding was one of the most brilliant that has taken place in this neighborhood for years, and was attended by about seventy guests.
