

CONSERVATIVE CONVENTION

The East Victoria Liberal Conservative Association will meet in convention at Fenelon Falls on Wednesday, Sept. 11th, 1901, at 11 o'clock a.m.

THE MAKING OF GOOD ROADS.

Good roads must necessarily cost money, but there is no reason why waste should be permitted in the construction of the same.

Mr. Jackson explained that this matter had been considered carefully by the Finance Committee, and it was found that after the completion of extensive works now in hand there were certain monies at the disposal of Council that would go far to pay for this necessary acquisition to our road machinery.

AFTER THE HON. JOHN DRYDEN

The Hon. John Dryden, minister of agriculture, has troubles of his own just now. It has leaked out that the Minister of Agriculture has for some time past been investing the emoluments of his office and other sundry cash in ranching speculations in North Dakota.

"How in the name of common sense is the rank and file of the Liberal party in Ontario to keep its feet if alleged leaders of the party will insist upon doing foolish things which are bound to act to its detriment?"

"It is difficult enough for the rural constituencies to keep the party in power without having cabinet ministers furnishing powder and ball to the enemy; and yet it would seem that some of our cabinet ministers think they can do as they please, and that none of their doings should be questioned.

ates in the Cabinet to engage in other deals that may come up in judgment against the party at election time.

Sturgeon Point Notes

—Mr. J. C. Grace, sec-treasurer of Toronto street railway arrived Tuesday evening and will spend a few days here.

—The "hop" given by the bankers in their cottage was a success. About 20 couples were present, and a pleasant time is reported.

—Yesterday Gordon and Rod Porter who are camped at the east end had their first lunge fish. They returned with a 9-pounder and the boys are naturally proud of their achievement.

—One day last week a party comprising Mr. and Mrs. J. Bucknell, Mrs. F. Knowlson and others, about 20 in all, enjoyed a sail through the lakes per steamer Kawartha.

—Saturday evening a reflection in the eastern sky denoting a fire nearby alarmed the residents at the west end just as the Esturion was arriving at the upper wharf, and there was a lively foot race in the direction of the fire.

—The evenings are getting long and chilly, and light overcoats and wraps are in demand. Rising at 6 a.m. to catch the Esturion has also lost its charms to many.

—Fishing is good. Last week a fine 16-pound lunge was caught by the veteran Indian fisherman Charlie McHugh, and a few days later three 10 pounders were captured at Emily Creek.

—On Monday last the Marie Louise brought to town from the lake shore a scow load of gravel for the granolithic pavements now under construction.

—Last week we had a visit from a Lindsay tonsorial artist—a dead game sport. He is a recent arrival in town but had heard of the famous fish caught in the Kawartha lakes and was anxious to give them a tussle.

Pleasant Point Notes

Your correspondent visited Pleasant Point on Monday evening last and was well attended by the citizens there. After some fishing a fine bon fire was lighted in front of Mr. Alex. McCrimmon's cottage and blazed cheerfully through the quiet hours.

Tragic Drowning Accident at Newcastle particulars learned it appears that Messrs. Charles and John Farncomb, sons of the Rev. John Farncomb, rector of St. George's, New York City, and Mr. E. Beacham, of New York City, went bathing on the Beach with Mr. Bert McIntosh and a number of young ladies from Newcastle.

The Farncomb boys were two of the brightest and finest lads of Newcastle, and were nephews of the Rev. Mr. Farncomb of Fenelon Falls.

A SKETCH.

A builder's yard, a ship upon the ways, The groan of straining planks, the snap of stays, The cheering of a crowd: "She moves! She's off!"

A storm swept, foam tossed sea, a howling gale, A ship half lost in foam, a rag of sail, The tolling of a bell, now lost, now clear—"The shore! The shore!" She strikes in crashing waves to disappear.

A summer's eve, a calm and wailing tide, A dismal stretch of sand that tries to hide, The bones of some great vessel, prow on high, Outlined against the sunset's last faint glow Athwart the sky.

—Julian Hinckley in Outlook.

QUEEN ELIZABETH'S FAULTS

She Was Very Vain and Inordinately Fond of Fine Dress.

Yet Elizabeth was never really successful with her wardrobe as a more feminine woman might have been. Her dresses were never beautiful, only ludicrously and most inappropriately magnificent—laden with jewels, weighted down with cloth of gold, stiff with silver embroidery and so heavy that even her big, powerful frame must, without supporting vanity, have felt the fatigue of carrying them about.

Elizabeth's hands were her especial pride, and, judging from her portraits, they were certainly beautiful. They were laden with jewels, and it was her habit in public to pull her rings off with absent artlessness and push them on again, moving those white hands about in the most obvious way.

In connection with this last characteristic of cruelty vanity is not at all unprecedented. Indeed, if one observe closely one will notice that excessively vain persons have almost always a strange inclination toward cruelty.

Slavery Protected the Negro.

If the negro had been forced to compete for existence in America, he would have been crushed out by the civilized power, as the Indian has been, says Albert Phelps in The Atlantic, but the peculiar institution of slavery protected him not only from this competition, but also, by artificial means, from those great forces of nature which inevitably weed out the weaker organisms and which operate most unrestrainedly upon the ignorant savage.
