AMONG THE CHURCHES

Rev. L. S. Hughson, B. A., says something about Lindsay School Children

Rev. D. W. Best of Beaverton, and moderator of the Presbyterian church in this district, preached recently on the tramp nuisance and as a remedy advised people to refuse them food.

At the Queen-st church on Sunday evening Rev. Harvey Strike preached his third and last sermon on the recent Epworth League convention at Detroit.

At the Baptist church Rev. L. S. Hughson, the pastor, preached on Sunday morning on the value of a child, basing his remarks on the incident in which Christ assured his disciples that so far from getting any advancement as his followers, they lay in having the spirit of children.

rior rises between them and their parents, so that the parents are the last to say the very things that they most want their children to hear. That should not be.

There is a lack of respect for their elders among the children of Ontario today that shows a defect in our method of child-training, and lies at the very foundation of irreverence for religion and God.

It is a pretty hard thing for the pastor to get near the children nowadays. When he calls the children usually at school, or if at home, are in some cases kept out of the way. No minister should, however, lose sight of the fact that young children can get a knowledge of religious things and retain it throughout life.

AT ST. PAUL'S. In the absence of Rural Dean Marsh who is holidaying at Clarksburg, the service at St. Paul's on Sunday night was conducted by Curates Hallam and Bell. The former preached. His text was: "I am the good shepherd, etc." John 10: 13-15.

That was likely because of the tenor of his patience with and care for the silly sheep and helpless lambs the shepherd always appeals to human hearts, and the sentiment has readily become associated with Christ who called himself a good shepherd.

Guidance was a chief duty of the shepherd to which the preacher drew attention. By the shepherd the sheep are directed into places that are safe and productive of pasture. So, it was declared, Christ gives inflexible direction to every man.

Having announced those very suggestive parallels between the work of the shepherd and Christ, the preacher did not expand them at any length, but rather turned to rebuke his hearers for not accepting these ministrations of Christ.

Both Mr. Hallam and Mr. Bell are apparently young men of excellent spirit and good ability. The service lacked nothing of the dignity, impressiveness and devotion that should characterize the occasion of worship.

FORMER VICTORIA COUNTY FOLKS ARE DOING WELL OUT WEST

Mr. Geo Jordan Talks of a Trip Through the Canadian Northwest.

"I have just returned from a business trip through the Canadian Northwest" said Mr. Geo. A. Jordan the other day, "and while away I was pleased to meet a good many former citizens of Victoria county, and very glad to find them all getting along so well.

At Calgary, by the way, I met a number of acquaintances not from the east but from the west—men from beyond the Rockies, whom I had known when I lived in Vancouver. We had a pleasant time together. But about the people you know:

At Winnipeg a lot of them called on me. Among them were Rev. J. W. Macmillan, who is here, and Mr. W. L. Orde, brother of E. D. Orde. At Brandon I met Rev. W. H. Enslay who was once pastor of the Cambridge-st. Methodist church here. He has a fine church and splendid congregation. He likes a good horse as well as ever, and gave me a drive about town. The Model Farm at Brandon is a capital institution that gives the multitudes of American farmers now coming into the west an idea both of what can be grown in the country and how to go about growing it.

At Calgary I met Mr. Bruce Smith. He is town solicitor and prosperous. But Messrs. Patrick Burns and C. J. Duggan are the kings of that district. They are the great ranchers, who together control the cattle trade of that part of the west. British Columbia and the Yukon. Mr. Burns is from Kirkfield, and his partner is a Fenelon man. That firm pay $25,000 a year in railway freights. They wintered a great many cattle last season, and lost very few in the spring storm. Their abattoir will hold 500 dressed carcasses. It took a million feet of lumber to build it.

Mr. Burns lives in a mansion at Calgary. I met there also, a Mr. E. H. Crandell, who is a prosperous business man formerly of Eastern Canada.

At Stratheona I came across Mr. J. J. Duggan, his brother William of Fenelon, Dr. McIntyre of Rosedale, Dennis Twomey of Fenelon Falls, and Malcolm McIntyre, who is in the customs department up there. I met also a Mr. Suddaby of the north country and likely some relation—perhaps a son—of Mr. Sam. Suddaby, Burnt River. Mr. J. D. Hutby, a prominent citizen. I was told to see the Victoria boys doing so well. They are all contented and healthy. The Duggans are putting up a big block at Stratheona, and if as some people there hope it will, the C. P. R. locates its shops there, that is going to be a great town. Edmonton is a beehive. It will be a distributing point for the great Peace River district that is filling up so rapidly now. Processions of American prairie schooners are going in there all the time. Several new towns are springing up such as Wetaskawin, Red Deer, Lacombe and Ledue."

Mr. Jordan was west in the interests of the Big Bend Lumber Company, of Arrow Head, B. C., of which he is a director. This is one of the recent big lumbering corporations formed in the Pacific province. Mr. Theodore Ludgate, the best-known lumberman out west, is president of the company, and Mr. Adam Hall, Peterboro, vice-president. The other directors besides Mr. Jordan are Messrs. R. R. Hall, Peterboro, Jas. Ludgate, Parry Sound, and G. S. McCarthy, Revelstoke, B. C. The enormous mills on Arrow Lake are almost completed and will start to run in a couple of weeks. They are situated on Arrow Lake, to which the product of the company's limit can be brought by water and from which the railway takes the finished product.

There is on the limits 250 million feet of pine. The capacity of the mills is 40,000,000 or 50,000,000 feet of lumber a year besides lath and other small stuff. Cutting can go on 11 months in the year.

"I was looking over the ground in the west with a view to our market here" said Mr. Jordan. "I had no difficulty in appointing agents at the chief points and the prospect for a big trade are good. You see the Territories must buy about 11 their lumber. Our mills are 400 miles nearer to them than any others in British Columbia so we shall have a big freight advantage. We have great hopes of the property."

Mr. Jordan came east because of the illness of his wife, who is now recovering; and expects to resume his work out there in a few weeks.

THE FIRST STOVES.

They superseded the Roman Stuba in the Eighteenth Century.

A heating apparatus called a "stuba" (stove) was widely used among the higher class of Romans before the beginning of the Christian era. This class of heaters was fixed and immovable, besides being in several other respects wholly different from the modern stove. In Germany and Scandinavia they were used in bath rooms and hot-houses during the middle ages. They were usually constructed of brick, stone or tile and were of immense size. They sometimes covered the whole side of a twenty or thirty foot room and often extended out into the room as much as ten feet, in which case the smooth, flat top was used for a bedstead, the heated surface imparting an agreeable feeling of warmth during those cold nights of long ago when such things as covers were quite rare.

Cardinal Polignac of France was perhaps the first to attempt the construction of a stove wholly of iron, this at about the beginning of the eighteenth century. The first real improvement over the old Roman "stuba" was brought about by Franklin in the year 1745. One of his efforts produced a typical base burner, almost perfect and a model of workmanship. Stoves were not used in private houses to any great extent prior to the year 1830.

A Piscatorial Gunner.

The jaculator fish, the piscatorial gunner of the Javan lakes, uses his mouth as a squirt gun and is a marksman of no mean ability. Go to a small lake or pond filled with specimens of jaculators, place a stake or pole in the water with the end projecting from one to three feet above the surface, place a beetle or fly on top of the pole and await developments. Soon the water will be swarming with funny gunners, each anxious for a shot at the tender morsel which the experimenter has placed in full view. Presently one comes to the surface, steadily observes his prey and measures the distance. Instantly he screws his mouth into the funniest shapes imaginable, discharges a stream of water with precision equal to any sharpshooter, knocks the fly or beetle into the water, where he is instantly devoured by the successful Nimrod or some of his hungry horde. This sport may be kept up as long as the supply of beetles and flies holds out.

Odors of Flowers.

It is a remarkable fact that although there are nearly or quite 100,000 flowering plants known the relative number having odor is wonderfully small, not more than 10 per cent, in fact. In connection with this it is noteworthy that because one species of flower is endowed with sweet odor it does not necessarily follow that all or nearly all or even a fair proportion of the other species of the same family will be as favorably endowed. An illustration of this is found in the familiar mignonette. There are some fifty species of this genus known, and of them all, but one has any fragrance. Nor is it certain that the most insignificant looking flower has the greatest fragrance or the most gorgeously colored likely to be without odor, thus seemingly disproving the theory that color and fragrance are given flowers for the purpose of attracting insects to assist in cross fertilization.

Buying a Wife.

In Uganda a man can buy a handsome wife for four bulls, a box of cartridges and six needles, and if he has the luck to go a-wooing when woman happens to be a drug in the market he can buy a suitable damsel for a pair of shoes. A Kaffir girl is worth, according to the rank of her family, from four to ten cows, and in Tartary no father will surrender his daughter unless he gets a good quantity of butter in return, and in certain parts of India no girl can marry unless her father has been pacified by a present of rice and a few rupees.

The N. Hockin Shoe Store ...LINDSAY'S GREATEST SHOE HOUSE...

"Dorothy Dodd"

....The Luxury of Wearing this Delightful Shoe....

When your foot is tired from long walking or standing, you rest it mostly by holding it in your hand and compress it firmly around and beneath the instep. That is exactly what the "Dorothy Dodd Shoe" does for you all the time—it is like a soft hand firmly grasping the "waist" of the foot and supporting the arch. You will never realize how much of your daily fatigue can be relieved until you try a "Dorothy Dodd."

A "Dorothy Dodd" retains its arched shape and sets closely to the foot after it has been worn for months. No other shoe is made like it. Other shoes bend at every step you take, thereby tiring the foot. Why be foot-miserable when the remedy is so simple?

We are opening up today our first shipment of early Fall Novelties of this Famous Shoe.
