FRANCIS ST. EAST OF RIVER CEDED TO MADISON WILLIAMS CO.

Teamsters Pay Raised to $3.50 per Day—Poll Tax Collector—The St. Paul Street Walk Opposed

The town council met on Monday night in regular monthly session. The mayor and all aldermen were present, and transacted the usual routine business. Directors of the Madison Williams Machine Company were present to ask that Francis street be closed up entirely, as they wish to use all the property for their works, and have made an arrangement to give right of way to Mr. Dovey from whom they purchased some land. Action on this was deferred until later in the meeting, when the by-law in course of passage would be dealt with.

afterwards Mr. Kent was heard on the subject, and members of council thought the teamsters ought to have what they ask. Mr. Kent: "We wish the council to raise the wage to $3.50 because we can't live and feed our horses and keep up a rig for $3 a day. Rents and provisions are higher than they were. The men with pick and shovel have been raised to $2, and that is better than $3 for a man who furnishes a team." Mr. Rea being asked his opinion said that he had been spoken to several times by these men, and they say the men get $4 a day for similar work on the railroads. "Do you work as hard for the town as they do for the railway?" inquired the mayor of Mr. Kent. "Harder," was the reply. "You should say 'Just as hard,'" coached Mr. Begg. "How many loads do you haul in a day?" asked the mayor. Mr. Kent answered, "Six loads." "Could you haul seven if we gave you the raise?" asked Alderman Rea, but Mr. Kent thought the men were working to the best of their ability and the horses would work more cheerfully if they could "bur their better feed."

Alderman Begg: "The petition is fair. The pick and shovel men have been increased and the teamsters have not." said Mayor Vrooman, they should have the increase, and other aldermen acquiesced in that opinion. A petition was presented by residents on the east side of St. Paul street in east ward, asking the council not to continue the granolithic walk at present in construction. A letter was received from Messrs. John McCrea, E. H. Socheran, and Wm. McWatters explaining that the granolithic walk to be continued on the east side of St. Paul street was advertised three years ago, when they were in the council, with the understanding that the railroad was going through there, but it went further west, and in the opinion of these gentlemen the walk should be re-advertised, considering the understanding at that time between residents and council. Mr. McWatters was present and explained the transaction verbally. E. H. Socheran is the largest property owner on that side of the street presented his views. He was willing that the walk should be built as far as the foundation stone is laid, but thought that before it should be built across the creek the residents at the north end of the street should build beginning at their end. The board walk can be put in repair so as to make it safe. Alderman O'Reilly moved that the petition of Mr. Fee and other residents against continuing the walk be filed. He thought the cause had been misrepresented by the petitioners. When the walk was advertised to be built it was thought the C.P.R. was going through there, and that walk was advertised to be built from Queen street to Denison, and on Queen street from Cassville to Lindsay streets. The walk on St. Paul street was fairly good then, and the residents didn't want the granolithic walk built for three years. They were then satisfied to have it built after the three years.

give it too thorough consideration." Mr. Stewart: "I have, perhaps, not made myself sufficiently clear. Here before this piece of ground has not been looked upon as public property. When I spoke to the council before, I did not know that the petition had to be built there." Mr. O'Reilly: "In regard to Mr. Dovey's rights, he has sold his interests and the lane will only be used for an entrance to the rear of his private property." Mr. Eyres expressed his sympathy with the deputation, but thought the question should be further considered and settled at an adjourned meeting. Mr. McFadden: "I never knew there was a street there. Here is an enterprise coming into the town to do some good, and to cover the unused ground with useful machinery." "Is it in our power to close up the street?" asked Mr. Rea. "Members of the council thought it was in their power to close as well as open it, so that no damage were done thereby." Mr. Carew: "The reason why we want it is to use it and there is nothing that will benefit the town more than what we are proposing to do with it. We want to be in shape to enlarge the factory. I come here in the interests of the town as well as in the interests of the company, and am always anxious to do something to help Lindsay. There is no use

Ministers and their Salaries

A very interesting symposium has been running in the columns of The News, of this city, on the above subject for the past several weeks. The editor of our leading secular papers should think it worth while to solicit contributions on such a theme from leading ministers and laymen throughout the country is an indication that the subject is one of general public interest and of some importance. And it is quite natural that it should be so viewed. It is not altogether that people are specially interested to see that ministers more than any other class, should receive adequate remuneration for the work they do, but it is seen that that remuneration bears a somewhat definite relation to the success or otherwise of the minister's work, and the question of his success after the highest fashion is acknowledged a matter of great importance to the public at large.

An accurate summing up of the opinion expressed by the profession of the ministers mentioned as to whether ministers as a rule are sufficiently paid is hardly possible, and yet it is safe to say that a great preponderance of conviction favors the proposition that they are not. It was pointed out by several writers in comparison with the average man in the congregation, but evidently a majority of those taking part in this symposium have the opinion that he is not. As we have intimated, if it were only a question of the minister suffering the privations of a common income in the same way that many others have to endure them, it would be a matter of very secondary importance, but there is the further very important question to be considered—can the minister do anything like his best and most effective work while hampered by a lack of funds adequate to his needs, even as looked at from a somewhat liberal point of view? If that lack be found really to exist, it is in every way to be regretted, for to ask the question is really to answer it. Take it in the one item of books, which are really the tools with which the minister does some of his most important work, a serious lack of resources means a crippling and a weakness that must be fatal to the very highest usefulness. Of course, it is no argument to say that some preachers would not buy and read good books, no matter what their income was. It is the average man we have to deal with, and the average preacher is too fond of books to suit the size of his pocket-book, as many ministers' wives can testify. In connection with this question there is a mystery that perhaps some lay mind can explain. We have noticed that a great many good and apparently sincere people think it is quite safe to trust laymen with very liberal salaries, but that to give the preacher anything like equal remuneration is to run the risk of utterly demoralizing him. And yet there is no man in the community whose expenditure could bear closer inspection than his, be his salary large or small.—Christian Guardian.

Series of Sermons at Baptist Church

Rev. L. S. Hughson preached in the Baptist church here last Sunday morning and evening, and will also occupy the pulpit next Sunday. He is giving a series of discourses on the following topics, the first two of which were taken up last Sunday: 1. Sorrows of Christ for Man. 2. Sorrows of Man for Christ. 3. Joys of Christ through Man. 4. Joys of Man through Christ. His many friends in the congregation were glad to welcome him last Sunday, and they were much pleased with his able presentation of the subjects.

TORNADO AT KINMOUNT.

A severe electrical storm and tornado of wind and rain passed over here on Sunday last and did quite a lot of damage. Fruit and shade trees were snapped off like pipe stems; barns were unroofed and fences blown down. Mr. Ralph Byrne had two cows killed by lightning and Mr. Wm. Shaw, a farmer living four miles east, had a valuable team killed the same way. The storm also did a lot of damage to standing crops of oats, corn, etc.
