

Mrs. John's Early Fall Shopping

Why Good-Morning Mrs. John: I had no idea you returned to town yet? I see it is not necessary to inquire if you had an enjoyable season. You look better than I've seen you for some time. Children all well? Yes, undoubtedly there was nothing could have been more beneficial for them in anyway, than such an outing. Beach is certainly a popular resort for both the young as well as their elders.

Why fall dress goods? O yes, indeed its not a particularly good season to be provided, supposing the cool weather is a trifle later than we expect.

What a handsome and serviceable piece of serge at just the material for a school girl's back dress. And a good one too, nothing more suitable for an early fall and quite reasonable at that, only 50c to 1.00 yd. Dressy wear I don't believe there are many things as good as this San Toy. The very latest color too. They will be one of the dominating shades.

Stockings, hosiery, belts, handkerchiefs: yes, we have a satisfactory assortment in many novel and attractive designs. Wide patent leather belts, for instance, are having a vogue in New York and all the leading centres. This lot we are selling at the low price of 25c a pair. Now here is something dressy and extremely convenient. You may wash these chambray gloves as easily as a handkerchief. A great boon for an outlay of three pairs did you say, very well.

Just the kind for the chilling temperature of this way for the medium weight hosiery and undergarments. The Beautiful Farm and Ranch of Mr. Wm. Mackenzie, at Kirkfield

The following article and large illustration tells a short but nevertheless interesting story, about Mr. Wm. Mackenzie's magnificent farm and buildings at Kirkfield. The article appeared some time ago in the Farmers' Advocate, and the cut was kindly loaned to the Watcher by the same publishing company.

One of the pleasing features of modern times on the American continent is the desire and tendency of people of the city of Toronto, Kirkfield, a quiet and pretty village, is a station on the Cobocok branch of the Grand Trunk, and ten miles from Beaverton, or Gamebridge, on the Canadian Northern. Here, in a modest and unostentatious manner, is conducted a combination of farm and ranch, comprising something over 1,200 acres of land, about one-third of which is arable and fertile, the balance being somewhat rough, and on rocky foundation, but most suitable for permanent pasturage, through which runs the Trent Valley Canal, and on which cattle and sheep thrive and grow fat, the whole being capably conducted by Mr. W. J. Mitchell, the efficient superintendent. The principal features of the farm proper are the dairy and the splendid herd of imported and home-bred Jersey cattle, which are the particular interest of Mrs. Mackenzie, and which, though founded but recently have already acquired a widespread reputation for superiority of character and quality, winning honors at principal Ontario exhibitions. The dairy, a handsome and commodious structure, besides being furnished with a complete cleanery outfit, comprises steam heating, pasteurizing, refrigerator, separator, butter working and cream-cheese making apparatus, under the efficient superintendency of Miss Cresse, a graduate of a British dairy school, is also fitted out with the unusual accompaniment of living rooms, including kitchen, dining room, parlor approved type, is headed by the splendid imported bull, "Pearl" of Kirkfield, a prominent prize winner in connection with the aristocracy of the breed at the Royal Show of England, and the first and grand championship as best bull of the breed, any age, at the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto in 1907 and 1908, as also at the London and Ottawa exhibitions recently. Bred by the Marquis of Win-

Ops Council Proceedings

At a meeting of the Ops Council held on August 8th at the members' residence, the following resolutions were read and adopted:—

Resolved, that the members of the Ops Council be authorized to read the report of the Ops Council from J. Cooper, Stewart and from Tax Collector.

Resolved, that Messrs. Walden and Clerk be authorized to sign the petitions for removal of gravel from the road-side and in recompense for the damage done he asked the council to give him three iron gates and 180 rods of wire fence. Council requested Mr. Long to state in dollars what he considered the amount of the damage, but as Mr. Long would not do so Commissioner Deyell was instructed, on motion of W. Walden and F. W. Hickson, to ascertain the amount of the damage done and report to the council.

Council adjourned to meet September 19th at 10.30 a.m., for the purpose of appointing a collector and transacting other business.

Gordon Vaughn was sentenced to imprisonment, with the lash, at Berlin, Ont., for assaulting a young girl. This is the fourth case in which the lash has been prescribed for prisoners at Berlin within a month.

ple who have been successful in commercial enterprises to secure a farm and establish a country home, where relieved from the restraints and conventionalities of the city, they may enjoy the freedom of country life, and the fruits of the land, and at first hand. Prominent among those whose tastes have turned in this direction are Mr. William Mackenzie, of Toronto, president of the Canadian Northern Railway, and his estimable wife, the early years of whose lives were spent on the farm in the neighborhood of Kirkfield, in Victoria county, some seventy miles northeast and on rocky foundation, but most suitable for permanent pasturage, through which runs the Trent Valley Canal, and on which cattle and sheep thrive and grow fat, the whole being capably conducted by Mr. W. J. Mitchell, the efficient superintendent. The principal features of the farm proper are the dairy and the splendid herd of imported and home-bred Jersey cattle, which are the particular interest of Mrs. Mackenzie, and which, though founded but recently have already acquired a widespread reputation for superiority of character and quality, winning honors at principal Ontario exhibi-

(with open fireplace) sleeping chambers, and a capacious veranda on the sunny side. Here the milk product of the herd of some sixty head of Jerseys is converted into first quality goods, and is shipped to the city home and to special customers in neat and attractive packages. The poultry section is liberally provided for, in extensive buildings with roomy yards and runs, and up-to-date fixings, while the fine flocks of White Wyandotte and Buff Orpington fowl have all the appearances of health and thriftiness.

The Jersey herd, which is high class in breeding and uniformity of chester, and sired by the noted Distinction's Fox, Pearl of Kirkfield is a "prince of the blood" in breeding, style and quality, and is universally conceded to be the model representative of the ideal modern type of the butter breed, as found on its Island home. And his prepotency as a superior sire is amply attested by the quality and character of his progeny in the herd, among which are several typical young bulls, the produce of deep-milking dams, which will make high-class herd headers, and should find ready
