The Part Rural Telephone Plays in Victoria County—Crop Prospects are Very Bright

Oakwood, Ont., July 23.—Tired after a heavy day's cutting and hauling in hay, a Mariposa farmer went into his house the other evening thinking of his daughter who works in Toronto and wondering why the usual letter from her had not come that day. He found his wife in the same state of mind and a little blue. "Let's ring her up," was the idea which struck both of them at the same time, and no sooner was the thought expressed than it was put into action. Six years ago but a few farmers in Ontario would have known even what those few words meant. In less than ten minutes from the time when the call was put in at the rural telephone in the farmer's house for the well-remembered Toronto number the farmer and his wife were chatting with their girl, relieved to find that it was only because she had "been to the show" the evening before that they had not received her letter.

A motorist, his speedometer registering forty-two miles an hour, came to grief, his car turning turtle and throwing him in the side of the road. Going to the nearest farmhouse he called up a certain person in a village about forty miles away. In a few minutes his face lit up. "Is that you Peaches? . . . My car's in the ditch. . . . Yes, all smashed up. . . . Oh, just feeling a little stiff. . . . No, only fourteen miles an hour. That's straight. . . . Well I'll try to get the train to-night, but if I miss it I can't see you till Monday morning. . . . Oh, well, I can talk to you anyhow, can't I?"

EVERYBODY'S DOING IT.
Being interpreted, these two little incidents mean that with but two or three exceptions every farmer in Mariposa township has connection with a rural telephone line. And not in Mariposa only, but within a radius of fifteen miles around Lindsay the farmers of Victoria County are linked to each other and to the world at large by magic wires. By these wires the farmer transacts business. He arranges for getting help from his neighbors in harvesting his crops. He calls up the implement agent in town when he wants to know how to put a machine together. He lets the live stock dealer know how many cattle and hogs he will sell this week. His wife and daughters hold long gossip conversations with the neighbors and arrange details for church socials and other pending events just like city folks.

The farmer has a decided advantage over the city man in the matter of telephones. They cost him less both to install and to maintain. There is no trouble between subscribers and shareholders or directors because the subscribers are the shareholders and the directors. Most of the local telephone companies are co-operative companies organized by the farmers among themselves and the idea of paying dividends to for their own benefit and not with shareholders.

SMALL COST TO SUBSCRIBERS.
There are about two hundred telephones on the several lines radiating from Oakwood and the central switchboard is in a house in the village. Each farmer installs his own instrument at a cost varying from $20 to $30, according to the length of wire and the number of poles necessary to reach his house. After that, the average subscription cost is from $2 to $10 per annum. It seldom reaches the higher figure. The regular subscription charge is $2 per annum to cover the cost of operation. Each farmer pays his share of maintenance and keeps his own telephone in repair. If there is anything left over at the end of the year it goes into a contingent fund.

They all have connection with the Bell Telephone Company and so can get long-distance connection with any point in the Province. In cases where a long distance message originates outside, the co-operative company charges nothing for the use of its line. In this regard the farmer figures it out that if anyone outside wants to speak to him it is usually as much to his advantage as it is to the other fellow's and accordingly he sees no reason for charging a toll.

MOVEMENT HAS GROWN.
Around Lindsay there are such telephones as those in operation at Little Britain, Oakwood, Cambray, Fenelon Falls, Dunsford, and several of the villages farther north. The movement for the organization of these co-operative companies was started about six years ago and since then the number has been gradually growing until it has attained its present proportions with about 1,200 rural local telephones through the county, as well as 109 rural telephones of the Bell Company.

Rural mail delivery is also becoming more and more a general thing. Two routes are already in existence. Several are now being advertised, including one through Oakwood and Little Britain, and several others have been mapped out in other parts of the county. So that taking all these things into consideration, the farmer of Victoria has no excuse for being behind the times and can keep in touch with the daily happenings in the world as well as the next man.

CROP PROSPECTS ARE BRIGHT.
Since the rain things have grown in Victoria. Before it came the outlook was rather gloomy, as the crops were in danger of being dried up by the sun. Now, however, all that is changed. Crop prospects with a few exceptions are of the brightest. Hay in particular has been an abundant crop, clover being the heaviest harvested in some years. A large amount of alfalfa is grown around here, and while the acreage is smaller than usual this year the yield will be heavy. Haying is nearly over now, and the cutting of wheat is about to commence. Great fields of red winter wheat are to be seen already turned a rich brown color. The yield of wheat will be high in Mariposa but farther north, unfortunately, there has been a certain amount of rust in the fields, and the yield for the whole of Victoria County is estimated at two-thirds of a full crop, or an average of about 25 bushels to the acre.

BIG ACREAGE OF BUCKWHEAT.
Since the rain oats promise to be up to the average, but they would have been very short had the dry weather continued. There are many good fields of barley to be seen, but on the whole the main yield will be rather light. Corn for fodder is late, but may be an average crop. Peas, on the other hand, which are usually largely sown around here, are not likely to be better than half a crop or an average of ten bushels to the acre, so many fields were drawn out in the spring. Owing to the great amount of rain in the spring many farmers were unable to get their ordinary spring crops planted, having to wait until June before they could get on the land. By that time in many cases there was nothing left for them to sow buckwheat, and the acreage of buckwheat is exceptionally large this year. So far the crop promises well.

RANCHING IN THE NORTH.
Victoria is not noted as a live stock county, but rather as a producer of grain of high quality. There is a small amount of dairying and what beef cattle are fed are wintered for grass feeding on the ranches in the summer. The adaptability of the northern part of the county and adjacent counties for cattle-grazing seems to be gaining greater recognition and several cattle raisers have been going more extensively into ranching in that section. The movement as yet has not attained any great proportions but there is a beginning. Pasturage seems to be about the only farm growth that is suitable for this rough north country, and there is no part of Ontario where the pastures are more luxuriant. One cattle-raiser is heard of who has recently extended his ranch near Cobocock to upwards of eight thousand acres.—Jeffrey Eaton, in Toronto Globe.

law. It was, whatever one may think of the logical matter, mastery in its logical manner. It had also another characteristic of the law courts. It had been carefully prepared for in the previous debates. Mr. Borden had been able even to put Sir Wilfrid Laurier on the witness stand and draw from him admissions which admirably served his purpose. The questions were clearly lawyer's questions: They were logically knit together as by bars of steel, and they showed keen appreciation of the practical aspects of the situation.

"Suppose a Canadian ship meets a ship of similar armament and power belonging to an enemy," asked the (then) leader of the Opposition, "will she attack?"

"I do not know that she would fight," answered Sir Wilfrid. "I do not know that she should fight either. She should not fight until the Government by which she is commissioned have determined whether she should go into the war."

Mr. Borden did not reply. He merely asked another question. "Would our ports and harbors be neutral like our fleet," he asked. "until an order-in-council has been passed."

"I do not understand," responded Sir Wilfrid, "what my honorable friend means by asking if they would remain neutral. If he means after an enemy has come into our harbors, then it will be time to resist them with our fleet."

"But if our ships do not attack their enemy when they meet the enemy on the high seas, on the same principle may not the enemy's fleet come into our harbor without resistance or attack?"

"That," was the (then) Premier's response, "would be a question to determine any time that a warship

TO PETITION THE GOVERNMENT

To Build New Bridge Between Two Counties

Peterboro, July 24.—Should the city pay a share of the cost of the proposed repairs to the old bridge at Pigeon Creek or of a new one, which may be erected there between the Counties of Peterboro and Victoria.

This question is now before the city, and while it is generally admitted that there should be a good bridge for traffic at this point there is some discussion as to whether the city should pay seven-twentieths of the cost. The C.P.R. tapping Bobcaygeon has diverted a large part of the trade that used to come to Peterboro and the value of the bridge to the city in that respect has been partly lost.

A conference of representatives of Victoria and Peterboro Counties and of the City of Peterboro was held on Monday, Warden James Steele and County Councilors J. J. Devitt, J. A. Michael, A. B. Bottom, and J. F. Fee were present.

From the City of Peterboro there were Mayor Bradburn, Ald. Johnstone, City Clerk Armstrong, Ald. Duffus and Ald. Buller.

From County of Peterboro: Warden Porter, and Councilors Garbutt, Howden, Kileen, Ferguson, Braul, Shaw and the County Solicitor, A. Peck, Esq.

Moved by Mr. Shaw, seconded by Mr. Kileen that Mr. Bottom of Bobcaygeon, be chairman.—Carried.

Mr. Devitt, Reeve of Victoria, pressed himself as being in a position to solicit the Government for aid in the construction of the bridge.

Mayor Bradburn stated that after an estimate had been made he was in favor that the Government be approached by way of a strong deputation from the three Municipalities interested.

PREMIER BORDEN'S GESTURE
Entering Parliament from the court-room, the Premier carried with him many of the characteristics of his earlier field of action. I suppose no one who has heard him speak, either in the House of Commons or on the hustings, has failed to notice his peculiar habit of lifting his shoulders. It is not a shrug. It does not seem to be a conscious gesture at all. It is simply the persistence of an old habit which was useful in his previous habitat, where his gowls kept slipping down as he argued, and it became necessary for him to lift it up into position again. Other tricks of manner, too, he brought with him. The gestures of pleading before a court. He has acquired since his entry into politics, other desartean movements with which he presses a point on the attention of a political audience, but these gestures are clearly acquired; he is not at home with them—at least, not yet.
