A Woman's Rights.

A woman, as the English statutes are at present, cannot act as a solicitor. She can, however, according to the statements made in the courts recently, act as Queen, marshal, champion of England, sexton, churchwarden, constable, workhouse governor, returning officer and overseer of the poor. C. A. Buckmaster, assistant secretary of the Board of Education, also stated that there were instances of a woman acting as keeper of a prison, gate house and as keeper of a jail. It was stated also that Anne, Countess of Pembroke, as heredity sheriff, sat at the Assizes with the judges on the Bench, and although it is not said in the books that she administered justice, that was obviously meant.

The foregoing list of a woman's activities was mentioned during the hearing in the Chancery Division of the action brought by Miss Gwyneth Marjorie Bobb to obtain from the Law Society a declaration that she is a "person" within the meaning of the solicitor's acts and entitled to be admitted as a solicitor.

Mr. Buckmaster submitted that there was nothing in the solicitors' acts repugnant to the inclusion of a woman within the meaning of the word "person," and instanced other countries in which women practice law.

BETHANY.

Bethany, Aug. 4.—On Thursday, July 31st, a gloom was cast over our village by the very sudden and unexpected death of one of our most popular young ladies, in the person of Miss Gladys Driver, eldest daughter of Mr. Alfred Driver. Miss Driver had attended the Orange walk at Port Hope with a friend, and was to all appearance well but for a slight headache, which became so troublesome on Tuesday last that Dr. Hamilton was called in, and he pronounced it typhoid fever. On Wednesday Dr. Hamilton had a nurse come from the Ross Memorial Hospital, Lindsay, and everything was done to relieve Miss Driver, but she passed away five minutes past twelve Thursday morning. A very sad feature of the case was that Mr. Driver and his two eldest sons had gone to take up land in New Ontario last sprinb, and although a telegram was sent immediately, Mr. Driver did not get home until Sunday, an hour before the funeral. Miss Driver was a member of the Methodist Sunday School and Mission Circle; also a member of the choir, and will be very much missed. Rev. P. H. Neville conducted the service at the house. The floral tributes were many and beautiful. An anchor from the Methodist S. S.; star, choir; wreath, L.O.L. 1022; wreath, Miss T. O'Brian; wreath, Mrs. W. McCartney; wreath, the Misses Freeman; spray, Mr. W. Wilkinson and Miss O. Lamb, besides numerous boquets sent by friends of the family. The pall-bearers were: Messrs. Walter Rowan, Stanley Hadden, Harry Coulter, Harry O'Brian, Frank Jamieson and Frank Bigelow. The burial took place at St. Mary's cemetery, Manvers, on Sunday, Aug. 3rd. The family has the sympathy of the entire neighborhood.

Dr. Claude Brerefon (son of the late Dr. C. H. Brereton), of Carnduff, Sask., is visiting with friends in the village.

Mrs. Henry Smallback, of Indiana, is the guest of Mrs. Geo. Dainard.

Dr. Frank Lee, of Grand Rapids, has returned to his home after spending a few weeks with his sister, Mrs. Jamerison.

Miss Ella Staples took an auto trip to Peterboro with Mr. Elias Lowes one day last week to see her sister, Mrs. Lowes.

Mrs. Clarence Buller, of Brantford, is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Reynolds.

Mr. Fred Reynolds, of Toronto, spent the weev-end with his parents.

Mrs. H. Price has spent the last week with her mother in Toronto.

Mr. James McKinnon has returned home from attending the funeral of his aunt, Mrs. Carrel, of Cambray.

Mr. Geo. Price spent Sunday with her son George at Orono.

We are sorry to report that at the time of writing that little Ruth Hamilton, daughter of Dr. Hamilton, is very ill. Dr. McCullough, of Lindsay has been called. We hope for her speedy recovery.

Labor's Spokesman.

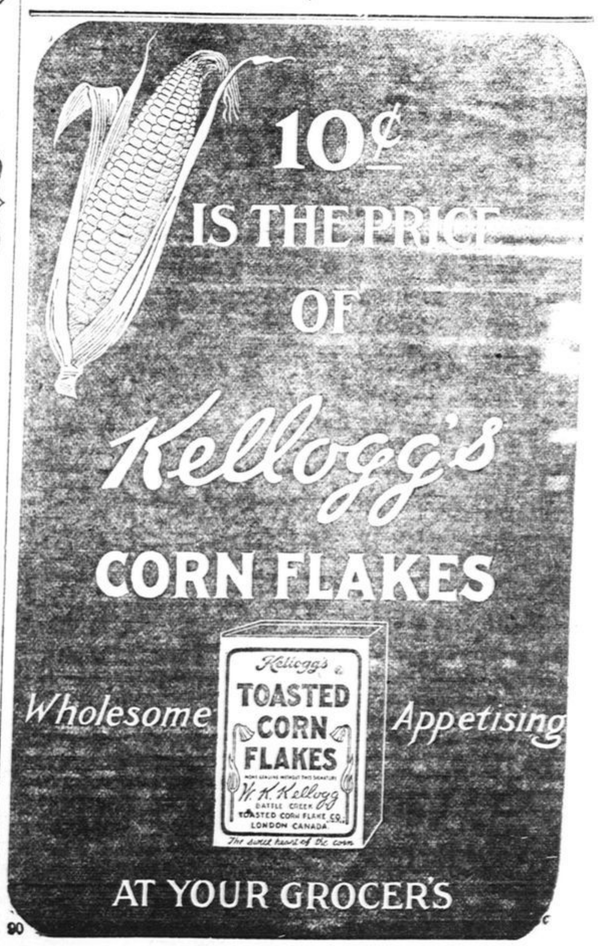
The return of Mr. Ramsay Macdonald to the House of Commons, after his tour in India, has added greatly to the debating strength of the Labor Party, for whom he is usually the official spokesman. Mr. Macdonald created a very good impression on prominent Indian Civil Servants by his cultured manner and his general abilities, and he intends to write a book on his experiences.

Mr. Macdonald is the son of an Elgin farm laborer, and began life as a pupil teacher. He then became a clerk in a private warehouse. He obtained his insight into political affairs whilst acting as private secretary to Mr. T. Lough, M.P., and after working hard in the cause of Socialism, he was elected member for Leicester.

The King's Bodyguard.

The King's review of the Household Cavalry recently was the first when has taken place since Queen Victoria reviewed them in 1880. The Household Cavalry consists of the first and second Life Guards and the Horse Guards. It is their duty to guard the royal residences and attend upon the King when he appears in public.

On state occasions also the picturesque Yeomen of the Guard are employed as a royal bodyguard. They consist of a little over one hundred officers and men, and wear the quaint uniform that has been worn since this corps was first established by Henry VII.

Talking and Walking.


A good story is told of Mr. Winston Churchill's youthful days. When a boy at Harrow he did not distinguish himself in any special way, but he was noted for his gifts of conversation and his inquiring mind. One summer afternoon a visitor noticed a small boy running round and round the cricket field. The headmaster being asked for an explanation, replied: "Oh, that is Lord Randolph Churchill's son. We always make him run round the field when he talks too much."
