TWO FAMOUS CITIZEN

Mr. J. D. Flavelle and Col. Sam Hughes Advertise Us Well

A correspondent of the Orillia Times signs himself "Tourist" under column of comment on Lindsay. Part -or any other." of his letter is as follows:

Taken as a whole the streets are Sam's capital are kept in repair by and too far. Paving, lighting draining, and supplying with water, soon send the taxes up

Lindsay is in darkness at present with the exception of a few gas ness more visible. The corporation fathers and the Electric Light Company have had some trouble, and the company turned off the light. We don't know whose fault it is, or whether it is anybody's fault, but darkness prevails all the same. Lindsay is well advertised by two of her citizens. Whenever men read the reports of high-class curling matches they see the name of Flavelle, and if they ask where this man of many curling trophies lives, the answer is, "In Lindsay."

Col. Sam. Hughes is the other man who advertises his town. He has advertised it from South Africa to the Yukon. After all that has been said about the gallant colonel and his letters the plain, palatable fact remains that the Lindsay man was one of the most successful officers in South Africa. He ran up against ish War Office, and found it much Lindsay has about the best lecture course in the Dominion. The most prominent men in the House of Commons come up every winter and deliver high-class lectures to large audiences. , We don't know of any town that sustains such a course of lectures as Lindsay does. We don't believe any other town does it.

The burnt cork artist may have good houses in other towns, but Lindsay is the place to hear the highest talent in the Dominion. The talent comes because they are sure of a good house. In summer many of the Lindsay people move out to Sturgeon Lake. Sturgeon Lake is their summer resort, and the nine miles of a river sail out there is said to be good. It may be to a man who has never sailed around Orillia

Lindsay has fifteen doctors, thirteen lawyers, three editors, and a large number of preachers of ability-Lindsay is a big-hearted town. The people do not put on any superfine, exclusive airs, but they have hearts as large as a park lot. A man who has had one good taste of Lindsay hospitality is always sorry to leave the place, and glad to get a chance to go back again. Some towns excel in one thing and some in another, but for genuine whole-souled kindness and hospitality give us Lind-

Canadians Should Stay at Home, The industrial condition of the United States is not what it was twenty or even ten years ago. those days there were ample opportunities for all who wanted work. At the present time nearly all branches of business are centralized, the great rusts are in control, labor-saving machinery has displaced hand work, wages have been cut down, and thousands of men and women are now walking the streets of the great cities, who would, if they could, eagerly embrace the opportunity to earn a few dollars a week to keep th wolf from the door. The enormous immigration from Europe, especially from the southern part, has glutted the lahor market and been a powerful fact or in lowering wages. From Italy alone about 1,500 immigrants are arriving every week at the port of Boston, while probably double that number land at New York, Philadelphia, and southern coast cities. These people can live in luxury on wages that would drive an American to the peorhouse. The supply of laborers is therefore greater than the de-

WHAT FALL PAIRS ARE FOR

The Law by Which They Exist Expects Certain Things of Them-Judges are to be Sent

Mr. G. C. Creelman, superintendant of agricultural societies has sent out a press letter in which he says : The Ontario Department of Agriculture is endeavoring this year to assist the fall fairs of the Province. A great many of these shows have entirely departed from the original in tention of their promotors. The Act is organized." It is not necessary to state how far our annual exhibitions have departed from these rules. We hope to assist them in regaining their old staus by advising weeding out many of the so-called special attractions and replacing them with educational features. Expert judges have been selected to place the awards." THE LOCAL JUDGES

The letter gives a list of these expert judges who are to judge at the different fairs in the province. Those who will judge at Oakwood on September 17th are : In horses. W. Kydd, Simcoe; dairy cattle, and sheep M. Cumming, Guelph: beef cattle and swine, G. B. Hood, Guelph. At Lindsay on Sept. 26th., the judges will be : In horses, J. M. Gardhouse, Highfield; beet in the and sheep, A W. Smith, Na, le Lodge; dairy cattle and swine, Wm. Jones, Zenda.

Mr. John Campbell of "Fairview wood's Magnzine. Farm" is a judge on sheep and beef in division 11 which includes Walkerton, Palmerston and seven other towns in Western Ontario.

Navigation Notes -

Along the front, between Colborne and Toronto, the Argyle is the most popular steamer afloat. She belongs to the Lake Ontario Navigation Company. That fast and commodious excursion steamer traverses the lake in all directions during the whole season, carrying crowds of people out for the day, and at excursion rates. Two or three times a week she makes regular trips along the coast calmand and much distress consequently ling at all the main docks. The eastexists. My advice to the young men liest and cheapest way for local peoand women of Canada is: Stay at ple to get a sniff of the lake breeze home! Their opportunities are bet- is to get the Argyle some morning ter there at the present time than at Port Hope and take a little run up, down or across the lake. Particulars can be had from the company's offices. Toronto.

Navigation Company with headquarters at Gravenhurst, is every summer at the service of as fine a class of tourists as come to Canada from American soil. There is no more popular stamping ground for the holiday crowd than the Muskoka heights and their far-famed lakes. These lakes are plowed by the handsome boats of the Muskoka Navigation Fix a high mark for your cows Company, and from their decks thouthis winter. Are Hely Land! -Edgar Allan Poc.

The Judas Tree. The Judas tree is a native of the southern countries of Europe, and is a handsome low bush with a flat, spreading top. In the spring it is profusely covered with purplish pink blossoms, which burst out before the leaves begin to unfold. The blossoms have an agreeable acrid taste and are made into salads and sometimes fried. There is an ancient tradition that Judas hanged himself from this species of tree. A tree called the Judas tree is common to some parts of the American continent. It differs somewhat from the one described, but the blossoms are made into good pickles, and the young twigs are bought by dyers for the brownish pigment contained in them. The Judas tree draws great numbers of bees around to feed on the sweets contained in its blossems.

To Prevent Paint From Scaling. To prevent the paint on iron or wood from scaling off when exposed to the weather first thoroughly wash the parts to be painted and then brush over the surface with hot linseed off. By following this method, especially with iron articles, no scaling of the paint will occur. In cases where the articles to be painted are small and can be readily heated it is better to heat them and plunge them into the oil. The thin liquid oil when hot enters into the pores of the metal, absorbs the moisture, and the paint then applied so firmly adheres that frost, rain or air caunot effect a separation.

Moor Baths.

The moor baths which are provided at many Austrian and German health resorts, were first used at Franzensbad. In 1823 Dr. Poschmann, a physician there, believed that he had found in them a new curative medium, and they have since become popular. Some physicians still question their efficacy. while others in Austria and Germany rely upon them to render good service in many maladies. Though the bath is composed of peat, or moor earth, to which enough water has been added to make a thick paste of the mass, yet the peat is different from that which is extracted from a bog in Ireland or Scotland. In both Ireland and Scotland the peat is used as fuel. At Franzenshad the mineralized peat will not serve such a purpose. The bog from which it is extracted has been saturated throughout countless ages with mineral water, and the product is a strong chemical compound. Thus a moor bath is a mineral bath in a concentrated form, and effects are produced upon the system by taking a course of these baths which cannot be produced, according to experts, by any mineral water.-Black-

When a dairyman sees a TUBULAR DAIRY SEPARATOR he is sure to be favorably impressed. If he examines the Tubular carefully he will find it so free from the objectionable features to be found in other separators that no argument is necessary to refute the statements made by competitors who have nothing better to offer than their old style patterns of separators with inumerable complicated parts to be cleaned, and which taint the cream giving it that "discy flavor" during the warm weather season. No argument is necessary to convince the dairyman that it is easier to pour milk into the low down supply can of a TUBULAR than it is to lift it over his head as must be done to pour milk into the supply can of other separators.
