Race on Monday Was Unfinished
—Wind Died Out.

THE RELIANCE AGAINST TIME

Shamrock III Miles Behind the Reliance, Which Failed to Cross the Line Before Time Limit Had Expired—Slow Progress Made During the First Half Hour—Reliance Within Half Mile.

New York, Sept. 1.—An autumnal storm which had kept Reliance and Shamrock for 72 hours within the shelter of Sandy Hook Bay, had blown itself out sufficiently yesterday morning to enable the two racers to venture once more into the open sea for a continuance of their races for the America's Cup. The gale, however, had left as a token of its strength a very heavy swell, so that when the two boats turned the point of Sandy Hook they at once began to roll and wallow like a couple of log barges.

When the Regatta Committee boat reached the lightship it was found that to start a race from that point 15 miles to leeward or windward would be impossible and a signal was hoisted postponing the start until a line could be established sufficiently south of the lightship to send the yachts off to windward.

Half a minute before the starting gun was fired the topsails were broken out on both boats. The starting gun was fired at 11.45, with the yachts to the leeward of the line. They immediately trimmed in their sails and went across the line on the starboard tack, Reliance a little to windward. The wind at the start was blowing about seven miles an hour, and both yachts at once headed towards the Long Island shore.

Each carried large club topsails and intermediate baby jib topsails. During the first half-hour after the start the yachts made three tacks, and, the wind being light, at 12.15 they had scarcely covered more than two miles of the course. Reliance seemed to gain steadily, and at 12.20 was apparently leading by an eighth or a quarter of a mile.

At 1.50 p.m. the yachts were both heading inshore. Reliance's position to windward having been considerably increased by a change in the direction of the wind. When both boats straightened out for the board towards Long Beach it was easy to see what a great advantage Reliance had established. Barr was over a mile to the windward of the Lipton boat.

Within one mile of the mark Reliance made two short tacks to fetch the mark. She left the mark on the starboard, and gybing over as she went around at 8.00.45 (unofficial). As she headed straight for the finish, 15 miles away, she had just two hours and 15 minutes within which to reach the finish line in the time limit. When Reliance turned Shamrock was still over two miles from that point.

At 8.10 Shamrock was on the starboard tack, heading in towards the Long Island shore, and about three-quarters of a mile from the mark. Shortly after she crossed the wake of the Reliance, who was homeward bound, though slowly, she did not seem to vary far, and at 8.16 took the port tack, Shamrock pointing for the mark, and at 8.21 she rounded the mark. She immediately let her balloon jib top-sail, broke out her main and started her long chase. Reliance was nearly three miles away.

Reliance failed to register her third victory because the wind died to nothing, and the time limit of five and a half hours expired before she could reach the finish line. She was less than half a mile from the finish when the gun sounded. Shamrock was fully two and a half miles astern.

The time at the outer mark was:
Reliance.....3.00.37
Shamrock.....3.21.00

Will Race Again To-Day.
The Regatta Committee of the New York Yacht Club announced last night that the yachts would race again to-day.

Directors in the Dock.
Newark, N. J., Sept. 1.—Seven wealthy and prominent men appeared yesterday in the Essex County Court for trial on an indictment charging them with manslaughter. On Feb. 19 last nine Newark High School students were killed in a collision between a Clinton avenue trolley car and a Lackawanna express train. Indictments were returned against the directors of the North Jersey Street Railway Company. The indictment of these officials followed a verdict by the coroner's jury fixing responsibility on the North Jersey Street Railway Company.

St. Thomas Engineer Scalded.
St. Thomas, Sept. 1.—By the bursting of a throttle valve on the engine at the Sutherland-Innes stove factory at 8.15 yesterday morning, Charles Hood, the engineer, was so severely scalded that he may not recover. When the valve burst, Mr. Hood was enveloped in a cloud of steam, and for a time he could not be rescued. He is over 60 and the accident may prove fatal.

Hit by a Street Car.
London, Sept. 1.—Charles Blow, an elderly bachelor, was struck by a car last evening. He was hurled a distance of three feet and was terribly injured, and lies unconscious in Victoria Hospital. It is thought he will die. Spectators say the car was running 20 miles an hour.

Want Premier Disqualified.
Winnipeg, Sept. 1.—Liberals have filed petitions against the return of St. Walker, Winnipeg North and Premier Roblin, Daferin, and ask for the disqualification of the Premier.

THE QUEEN'S TRIBUTE.

Funeral of Lord Salisbury Marked by Simplicity—King and Queen Sent Wreaths—Great Statesman Buried.

London, Sept. 1.—The body of Lord Salisbury was interred yesterday afternoon beside that of his wife in the burial ground of the Cecils, at Hatfield. The arrangements were of the most private and simple character. All the children of the deceased were present, as were also Fremont Balfour, Lord Selborne and a few intimate neighbors. Otherwise the mourners were made up of the dead statesman's tenants, retainers and inhabitants of Hatfield. The coffin was carried to and from the parish church by old servants.

The only floral tribute on the coffin was a wreath sent by Queen Alexandra. Other wreaths sent by the King of Portugal and others were used to decorate the graveyard. The Archbishop of Canterbury officiated at the funeral service.

Attached to the Queen's wreath was a card bearing the words: "To the memory of Lord Salisbury, universally loved and mourned as one of England's best and greatest statesmen. From Alexandra."

The King sent a wreath with the words: "As a mark of deepest regard, greatest respect and sincere friendship."

Simultaneously a memorial service was held in Westminster Abbey, which was attended by representatives of King Edward, Emperor William and other members of royal and Imperial families, Cabinet Ministers, former Cabinet Ministers, diplomats, and members of Parliament and others.

Thrift is generally acknowledged to be one of the leading characteristics of the natives of Fife, and it never was more forcibly exemplified than in the person of David Hatton, a native of Dunfermline, who actually proved that even mice could be made not only to earn their own living, but also to yield a respectable income to their owners, says The Scotsman. About the year 1820 this gentleman actually erected a small mill at Dunfermline for the manufacture of thread—a mill worked entirely by mice. It was while visiting Perth prison in 1812 that Mr. Hatton first conceived this remarkable idea of utilizing mouse power.

In an old pamphlet of the time "The Curiosity Coffee Room," he gave an account of the way in which the idea dawned on him. "In the summer of the year 1812," he wrote, "I had occasion to be in Perth, and when inspecting the toys and trinkets that were manufactured by the French prisoners in the depot there my attention was involuntarily attracted by a little toy house with a wheel in the gable of it that was running rapidly round, impelled by the insignificant gravity of a common house mouse. For a shilling I purchased a house, mouse and wheel. Inclosing it in a handkerchief, on my journey homeward I was compelled to contemplate its favorite amusement. But how to apply half-ounce power, which is the weight of a mouse, to a useful purpose was the difficulty. At length the manufacturing of thread seemed the most practicable."

Mr. Hatton had one mouse that ran the amazing distance of eighteen miles a day, but he proved that an ordinary mouse could run ten and one-half miles on an average. A halfpenny's worth of oatmeal was sufficient for its support for thirty-five days, during which it ran 736 half miles. He had actually two mice constantly employed in the making of sewing thread for more than a year. The mouse treadmill was so constructed that the common house mouse was enabled to make atonement to society for past offences by twisting and reeling from 100 to 120 threads a day. Sundays not excepted. To perform this task the little pedestrian had to run ten and one-half miles and this journey it performed with ease every day. A halfpenny's worth of oatmeal served one of these treadmill culprits for the long period of five weeks. In that time it made 3,350 threads of twenty-five inches, and as a penny was paid to women for every hank made in the ordinary way, the mouse, at that rate, earned 9 pence every six weeks, just one farthing a day or 7 shillings and 6 pence a year. Taking 6 pence off for board and allowing 1 shilling for machinery, there was a clear yearly profit from each mouse of 6 shillings. Mr. Hatton firmly intended to apply for the loan of the old empty cathedral in Dunfermline, which would have held, he calculated, ten thousand mouse mills, sufficient room being left for keepers and some hundreds of spectators. Death, however, overtook the inventor before his marvellous project could be carried out.

At Death Stanley's Mr. McCarthy used to meet many famous men and women. In which connection he recalls how on one occasion the Dean, taking the hand of a new arrival, said: "Come here, Matt, and let me bring you face to face with the man who says you are only a miniature Goethe." The new arrival was Matthew Arnold, to whom Mr. McCarthy had applied this expression in his history. But it was somewhat embarrassing to have the fact recalled in this way. Matthew Arnold, however, happily relieved the situation by the observation: "If you could only convince me that I am a miniature Goethe, how proud you would make me!"—Westminster Gazette.
