NUMBER 37

Ye Citizens of Lindsay and of Victoria

September is at hand, and with its advent, the fall also.

Do you realize this, in a couple of short weeks the chill season will be on you? This is the best of all the year for enjoying the many excursions that are at hand all over the country.

You need to be well and suitably dressed to travel; the dust and dirt of summer are laid low and you may feel at home in a fresh new costume. The manufacturers show exceedingly smart goods this fall for street suits, tailored gowns, and dressy house wear.

We have opened so many cases of choice Dress Goods that you may be the best dressed woman on the street for the least outlay.

This a black season especially, and we have elegant blacks in every style and quality at every price.

Blues, Greys and Greens are also very popular but will rank seconds. Don't be at all afraid to call and examine our goods, which we are only to pleased to show.

Plaids are once more among the fashionable fabrics. New York, Chicago, and all centres of good style have already adopted them; and for them to lead leaves us but to follow.

We are handling some very handsome coats this year, and it will repay you to have a look at them.

House-keepers ever with a vigilant eye to house comfort, we ask you to come and view our Comforters, Blankets, Wool Tie-downs, and Flannel Sheetings, also Flannelette Blankets and Sheetings all new and fresh this season.

Remember that this house is known for the good quality of its Furs, and we have on hand a stock equal to last year's, if not superior to it.

It is not economy to buy spices for quantity. It's strength you want. Not how much, but how strong. Much of the spice sold is not any better than so much old wood. We are as particular about spice strength as we are about drug quality. If you buy spices here you will get them with all the life, sharpness and delicacy of flavor that goes with perfect purity and freshness.

Our Spice Stock is Complete.

THE HEAVENS IN SEPTEMBER

Henry Norris Russell, Ph. D., writing for the Scientific American, says: If we look directly upward these evenings we see the fine constellation of the Swan—a great cross of stars in the Milky Way. West of it, and near to it, is the Lyre, with one very bright star, Vega.

Following down the Milky Way to the southwest, we come to the Eagle (Aquila), whose brightest star, Altair, is nearly equal to Vega. Below this is the brightest and finest part of the Milky Way, which is almost startlingly brilliant on a thoroughly clear night. Even an opera glass shows that it is full of groups and clusters of stars, and those who have telescopes, of whatever size, will find it a happy hunting ground, full of magnificent fields. It extends far down to the southwest, where the constellations of the Scorpion and the Archer are beginning to set.

In the western and southwestern sky are the Serpent Holder (Ophiuchus) and the Serpent, which, like Hercules to the north of them, can be studied better from the map than from any description. Below Hercules is the Northern Crown, and beneath this the Herdsman, with the great red star Arcturus. The Dragon and the Little Bear are to the left of the Pole, and the Great Bear is below them, so that the Dipper lies along the northwestern horizon. Cepheus and Cassiopeia are on the right of the pole and above it, toward Cygnus.

East of the Milky Way stretches a row of fine constellations. Due east, and about half-way up to the zenith, is Pegasus, which can be known at once by the "great square," whose four stars are all of the second magnitude. The northeastern one belongs not to Pegasus, but to Andromeda, which extends far to the northward and eastward. Still further on in the same direction we reach Perseus and then Auriga, the Charioteer, whose brightest star, Capella, is just rising.

The most interesting object in Andromeda is the great nebula. It is visible to the naked eye, and conspicuous in a field glass, but the marvelous concentric spirals which form its outer portions are revealed only by photography.

Below Andromeda is the small group of the Triangle, and the smaller but brighter one which marks the head of Arles, the Ram.

The Zodiacal constellations of the Fishes (Pisces), the Water Bearer (Aquarius), and the Sea Goat (Capricornus), which lie in the southeastern sky, contain no bright stars. The planet Saturn is now in Aquarius, and is much brighter than any star near it. It lies almost on the line of the western edge of the great square of Pegasus, extended southward. Farther down, in this same line, is a solitary bright star, Fomalhaut, in the Southern Fish.

THE PLANETS.

Mercury was morning star at the beginning of the month, rising at about 4.30 a.m. On the 4th he was in conjunction with Mars. On the 7th, at a distance equal to one-third of the moon's apparent diameter. Both planets are near the bright star Regulus and soon pass north of it at a distance of less than a degree.

During the latter part of the month Mercury is invisible and on the 24th he passes behind the sun and becomes an evening star.

Venus is evening star in Virgo, and is very bright. On the 20th she is at her greatest elongation—that is, her apparent distance from the sun is greatest. She is, however, far south of the Sun, and is not nearly so conspicuous as at a spring elongation, but sets at about 7.30 p.m.

Mars is morning star in Leo, rising about 4 a.m. Jupiter is in Gemini, and rises near midnight in the middle of the month.

Saturn is in Aquarius, and came to opposition on the 4th. He is now in a better position for observation than for several years past, and will well repay any one who turns a telescope upon him. The Earth is getting near the plane of his rings, so that we see them much more nearly edge-wise than last year. A few years ago they appeared as an oval about half as wide as it was long. Now the length of the ellipse is ten times its breadth, and the rings seem to stick out on each side of the ball of the planet like handles. In another year we will see them edge-wise, and they will disappear entirely, except in very powerful telescopes, to broaden out again in the year following, when we see their opposite side.

The brightest of Saturn's nine satellites, Titan, may be easily seen with a small telescope. It is west of the planet on the 5th and 21st, and east of it on the 13th and 29th (its period being sixteen days.) When it is north or south of the planet it now seems so close to it (less than the planet's diameter) that it will be hard to see it with a small instrument. Uranus is in Sagittarius, and is in quadrature on the 28th, coming to the meridian at 6 p.m. Neptune is in Gemini, and can be observed before sunrise.

THE MOON.

Fool moon occurred at 6 p.m. on September 2, last quarter at 4 p.m. on the 10th, new moon will occur at 7 a.m. on the 18th, and first quarter at 1 a.m. on the 25th. The moon is nearest us on the 21st, and was farthest off on the 9th. She was in conjunction with Saturn on the 2nd, Jupiter and Neptune on the 12th, and will be in conjunction with Mars on the 16th, Mercury on the 17th, Venus on the 21st, Uranus on the 24th, and Saturn again on the 30th. The conjunctions with Saturn are close, and occultations are visible in the southern hemisphere.

At 6 p.m. on the 23rd the sun crosses the celestial equator and enters the sign of Capricorn, and in the old expression of the almanac, "autumn commences."

Railway Route to Newfoundland

The project for the tunneling of the Straits of Belle Isle and the construction of a railway, via the proposed tunnel across the interior of Labrador and traversing a portion of Newfoundland to the east coast of the Island, where it will connect with a fast line of steamships to Europe is now fully provided for by charter and engaging the attention of prominent railway men.

The Quebec & Lake St. John Railway will form the Quebec link of the proposed scheme, and has already obtained important privileges from the Government of Newfoundland, including charters, for the construction of a railway from the boundary of the Canadian and Newfoundland Labrador at Blanc Sablon to the Straits of Belle Isle and for tunneling the Straits. This franchise gives twenty years in which to do the work. Newfoundland will give a subsidy of $75,000 annually for the scheme.

The Quebec & Lake St. John Railway also has a charter for the construction of a line of railway through the Labrador Peninsula to the eastern boundary of the Province of Quebec, and it is altogether likely that this charter will be utilized in the execution of the present project. The promoters have personally ascended some of the large streams running south into the Gulf of St. Lawrence and have brought back with them an interesting series of photographs illustrating the character of the country in the interior of Labrador and the forest wealth existing in the parts of the country to be traversed by the proposed line of railway.
