By-elections have been ordered for East Elgin and North Renfrew, the dates were fixed for October 4, but espectately the North Renfrew election was postponed until the 9th. Both seats were held by Conservatives. The government has selected two constituencies among large number of vacant seats, apperently with the idea of concentrating the resources and patronage of the government in the contests. It a habit of the late Ontario government to set the machine at work one or two by-elections at a time, that the same crowd of operators INTERPROVINCIAL CONFERENCE and more had been spent on wharv could be moved from place to place and collected at particular points. The dexterous and delicate work required could not be duplicated and experts could only be in one place at once. It remains to be seen whether the operations which made West Elgin a historic constituency are to be repeated in the eastern ridfor whether a famous provincial contest in North Renfrew is to be a nettern for the one about to take place. Had the Laurier government bought on all the by-elections at once there would have been less cause for suspicion.

He is still not quite sure that he will be qualified to sit parliament during the next seven years. There is a report that he will

SUCCESSFUL CONSERVATIVE The leader of the Opposition has returned from Nova Scotia where he addressed a series of large and thusiastic gatherings. The closing meeting took place in Truro on Saturday of last week and was a magnificent open air demonstration. Hallifax and Truro papers state that from seven thousand to ten thousand people were present, and Mr. Borden says that it was the largest meeting he ever addressed. The electors eurs a statement showing the amount! Nova Scotia are much interested in the disclosures of administrative corruption and extravagance made before the committees of the House, and in the Commons and Senate during the last session. Besides dealing with general questions of policy Mr. Borden discussed a few of these matters such as the North Atlantic Trading Co., the "Arctic" expedition and the western land scandals.
