THE RESTLESS COUNTRY BOY

AND HOW TO HELP IN KEEPING HIM ON THE FARM.

(Farmers' Advocate)

Restlessness is a characteristic of all healthy boys and should never be a source of worry. A young colt may be perfectly happy if only he have plenty of grass and shade and liberty. But a boy with forming hands and a contriving mind is restless because he finds stirring in him the possibilities of the infinite. It need not be wondered at, then, if the country father finds himself wrestling with a very live problem when he undertakes to guide his growing boy.

There are various things that contribute to the restlessness of the country boy. In the first place, his familiarity with country life, his dulled senses to its charm. The delights of rural surroundings, by reason of his daily contact with them, have become mere commonplace. On the other hand, he sees the town only occasionally, and knows professional life only from the outside. The farmer, to his way of thinking, works only half an hour a week; in town does little but drive behind a milk-stepping horse while the electric is a delightful time handling light poles, sheltered from the hot sun and the storm.

Further, the boy is exposed to the enervating effect of the class of literature that belittles country life. In many of our papers and books the young people the hero is represented as one who finds no scope for his talents amid farm surroundings, and who comes to his own only upon leaving the old home for a life of adventure. The country boy feeds on this, and soon comes to believe it.

Again, as 'The Farmer's Advocate' has been reminding its readers, no school system does not foster a life for farm life. However, we want for it, our schools do not encourage our boys to make their

THE PRESIDENT ON THE FARMER

WHAT THEODORE ROOSEVELT, KING OF YANKEELAND, HAS TO SAY ABOUT H. M. THE FARMER.

Theodore Roosevelt, the versatile president of the United States resembles Emperor William of Germany in this point (among others) that he has something to say about everybody and everything that can come before him. Here is his expression made recently on the farmer:

"There is but one person whose welfare is as vital to the welfare of the whole country as is that of the wage-worker who does manual labor; and that is the tiller of the soil—the farmer. If there is one lesson taught by history it is that the permanent greatness of any State must ultimately depend more upon the character of its country population than upon anything else. No growth of wealth can make up for a loss in either the number or the character of the farming population. In the United States more than in almost any other country, we should realize this, and should prize our country population. When this nation began its independent existence it was as a nation of farmers. The towns were small, and were for most part sea-coast, trading, and fishing ports. The chief industry of the country was agriculture, and the ordinary citizen was in some way connected with it. In every great crisis of the past a peculiar dependence has had to be placed upon the farming population; and this dependence has hitherto been justified. But it cannot be justified in the future if agriculture is permitted to sink in the scale as compared with other employments. We cannot afford to lose that pre-eminently typical American, the farmer who owns his own farm.—President Roosevelt.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE. SOME SEASONABLE RECIPES.

To clear out the flies try the following:

NO MORE FLIES.
To clear the kitchen of any apartment from flies close all the windows the last thing before leaving the room at night. Darken them all but one. Place a dish of wet chloride of lime in the light window. In the morning you will find the flies in the window dead. This lime also makes an excellent disinfectant.

SMALL BOX SEAT.
Take a common wooden cracker box. Paste wrapping paper inside for lining. Get 5 cents' worth of large figured calico. Tack over edge inside box, then bring over sides and ends. Draw tight and tack on bottom of box, using one straight piece of cloth. Take the rim from lid and cover the lid in same manner. Put on two small brass hinges and you have a useful and ornamental box. It may be used in bedroom instead of a chair.

TO MAKE THE PANTRY ATTRACTIVE.
Wash the shelves. When dry give each shelf a coat of white paint, also the window frame and the inside of the pantry door. Let all dry overnight. This can be washed, and the pantry always will be fresh and clean. It also will do for the inside of the refrigerator.

IRON RUST ON WHITE GOODS.
To remove iron rust from white goods which have been spotted by the wash kettle, rub a cut lemon over the spots to wet them fully with juice. Then rub on salt and hang

THE MEN WHO ARE UNFIT

WHAT SIR WILFRID THINKS OF HIS FOLLOWERS AND THEIR ABILITY.

(Mail and Empire.)

Before selecting George Graham to become a Cabinet Minister Sir Wilfrid Laurier went over the list of his Ontario supporters with a view to discovering whether there was one among them fit to be a Minister of the Crown. Not one could Sir Wilfrid find. It therefore became necessary to pass to the Provincial Legislature, and to choose a man there. This is the second time the roll has been called during the present Parliament. Two years ago Sir Wilfrid Laurier looked through the names of members from Ontario in search of a successor to Sir William Mulock. The required man was not in the House, Mr. Aylesworth was for this reason, called upon.

It will be interesting to the electors to know the Federal politicians whom the Premier regards as inferior to George Graham, of the Ontario House, and as not so fit in the Dominion Cabinet. Here are the more important of the collection, with the constituencies from which they come:

Belcourt, N. A., Ottawa.
Caldwell, T. B., N. Lanark.
Calvert, W. S., W. Middlesex.
Campbell, Archie, Centre York.
Clark, A. F., S. Essex.
Comtee, Jim, Thunder Bay.
Deryshire, Dan., Brockville.
Dymont, A. E., E. Algoma.
German, W. M., Welland.
Grant, G. D., N. Ontario.
Guthrie, H., S. Wellington.
Hall, R. R., W. Peterboro.
Harty, Wm., Kingston.
McCarthy, Leighton, N. Simcoe.
McColl, J. B. W., Northumberland.
McCool, C. A., Nipissing.
McIntyre, G. H., S. Perth.
Miller, H. S., Grey.
Pardee, F. F., W. Lambton.
Ratz, V., N. Middlesex.
Schell, J. T., Glengarry.
Schell, M. S., S. Oxford.
Smith, Geo., N. Oxford.
Sutherland, R. F., North Essex.
Telford, W. P., N. Grey.
Wright, A. A., S. Renfrew.
Zimmerman, A., Hamilton.

Each one of these gentlemen was carefully examined as a Cabinet possibility and was promptly turned down as useless. It may be argued that George Graham was preferred because his organizing work in Eastern Ontario, his prominence in the Ross Government, and his association with Lott and Shibley unite to commend him to Sir Wilfrid as an expert in "ways that are dark." But such an explanation of the choice only serves to render it the more open to criticism.

The main feature of the passing over for the second time of the Liberals who are in the House is the official opinion uttered with reference to them. Sir Wilfrid announces that notwithstanding the fact that they have been in Parliament, some of them for ten years, they are no good, and are absolutely inferior to a man who was never set in the House of Commons, and is a stranger to the House of Commons, and is a stranger to the business of the Dominion. Every constituency represented by one of the "unfit" politicians knows what, in Sir Wilfrid's opinion, its representative is worth as a public man. The valuation has been set upon the politicians in question, not by opponents, but by the leader, who we are told, never errs.

GREEN TOMATO PRESERVES.

Select rather small tomatoes and cut in slices crosswise. If larger, quarter the halves. To each pound fruit allow three-quarters of a pound of sugar and a half lemon cut in thin slices. Use lemons that do not have a bitter rind. Put enough water to the sugar to dissolve it, and when it reaches the boiling point, add tomatoes and lemons. Simmer gently until the tomato is clear and tender, then seal.

USE OF GOOSEBERRIES.
As adessert fruit the gooseberry is almost unknown in this country, although for centuries almost the most important small fruit of Northern Europe. It is almost universally known and used in the acid, immature state when the flavor, raw or cooked, is little better than rhubarb. A basket of ripe gooseberries in market would be a curiosity. This premature use of one of the most delicious of garden fruits is surely the direct cause of its limited consumption and the relatively slight interest taken in it. Nothing can be more agreeable and satisfying than ripe and well-flavored gooseberries eaten in the garden or at table. It is one of the very few fruits to be eaten without sugar, as the flavor is perfect in itself. The taste for ripe gooseberries increases with indulgence and we find them displacing other reasonable fruits for home use. For culinary purposes the mature or nearly mature berry is so obviously superior to the rankly acid green ones that we wonder why the latter are ever used at all. Of course, it is not possible to induce people who actually prefer green grapes to ripe ones to change their views, and the same may be true regarding users of unripe gooseberries, but it may be said to those who have never tried fully developed gooseberries that may be cooked or preserved in every style possible with the green berry with infinitely better results and far greater economy in the amount used of sweetening material. Rankly green grapes may make more desirable jelly than ripe ones, but this is distinctly not the case with gooseberries.

GOOD SLEEP ESSENTIAL TO GOOD HEALTH.

In order to have good health, one must have good sleep, and good sleep presupposes good beds. Ventilation, not only of the room, but of the mattresses, is essential, and for this purpose the mattress should be raised from each end and given a shaking, and an upward push from the sides, turned over and from end to end every day. If it could be beaten between windows with switches, or a rattan furniture beater, every two or three days, to dislodge the dust, so much the better.

BETTER TO SLEEP ALONE.

Do not put an old person and a young person to sleep in same bed or even in the same room unless there is good ventilation. Every one should have a bed to him or herself, for hygienic reasons. Especially is this true in hot weather or where one or both is the victim of restless nerves. A healthy person should not be put to sleep with a sickly one.

REMOVING SKIN TROUBLE.

Cosmetic jelly is, says the editor of the Women's Department of the Chicago Record-Herald, very good for the complete elimination of eczema. Formula is: Seven ounces of rose water and thirty grains of gun tragacanth; let soak for three days, then strain forcibly through muslin, and add one ounce of glycerine and one ounce of alcohol and a pinch of pure borax. Apply several times a day. Zinc ointment is also helpful, and both this and the jelly may be used. Too much bathing won't do; water only increases the annoying irritation.

TOMATO MARMALADE.

To two pounds tomatoes, scalded and peeled, add two pounds sugar. Boil slowly for an hour, skimming

A Baden-Powell Story

Major-General Baden-Powell is rarely at a loss for repartee, and his most humorous sayings are generally spoken in a low, even voice, and with a serious look, only belied by the twinkling of his eyes. At a luncheon party on one occasion a celebrated doctor was chaffing him. "And how do you feel when you have killed a man professionally?" he asked. "Oh," said Baden-Powell, "I don't mind it. How do you feel under the same circumstances?"—Tit-Bits.

"LOVE AT HOME."

(An old favorite reproduced by request.)

There is beauty all around.
When there's love at home;
There is joy in every sound,
When there's love at home.
Peace and plenty here abide,
Smiling sweet on every side,
Time doth softly, sweetly glide,
When there's love at home.
Love at home, love at home,
Time doth softly, sweetly glide,
When there's love at home.

In the cottage there is joy,
When there's love at home;
Hate and envy ne'er annoy,
When there's love at home;
Roses blossom 'neath our feet,
All the earth's a garden sweet,
Making life a bliss complete,
When there's love at home.
Love at home, love at home,
Making life a bliss complete,
When there's love at home.

Kindly heaven smiles above
When there's love at home;
All the earth is filled with love,
When there's love at home;
Sweeter sings the brooklet by,
Brighter beams the azure sky,
Oh, there's One who smiles on high,
When there's love at home.
Love at home, love at home,
When there's love at home.
