The Song of the Hair

There are four verses. Verse 1. Ayer's Hair Vigor stops falling hair. Verse 2. Ayer's Hair Vigor makes the hair grow. Verse 3. Ayer's Hair Vigor cures dandruff. Verse 4. Ayer's Hair Vigor makes the scalp healthy, and keeps it so. It is a regular hair-food; this is the real secret of its wonderful success.

LEARN TO REST

A TIME FOR CREATING LABOR. THE NECESSITY FOR REST. THE BEAUTIES OF REST. RENEWING STRENGTH.

(The Christian Guardian)

We have been speaking a good deal about work; perhaps it is just as well to look at the other side. It is a necessity that men learn how to work, and that they practice all they know; but it is just as necessary to true success that we learn to rest. In the great struggle of life the bow must be bent, and the string must keep twanging as the arrows seek their mark; but if that bow is to retain its power it must learn to unbend. Leisure is not merely a luxury; it is a necessity to highest human development.

All nature rests. The mighty albatross sleeps on the swinging waves. The wakeful deer, if denied his needed sleep, is run down by the unmounted Indian. The very surges of the sea seem to sleep at times, and the restful winds do not always blow. Even the human heart, forbidden sleep, yet beats less often in its hours of rest.

The hours of hushed activity are hours of blessed meaning to men. The voice of wisdom echoes its words of long ago, "Come ye aside and rest awhile." Even highest toil and loftiest endeavor are subject to this law. Now, we are not pleading for a slower pace, for that is not in our control; but we are pleading for the regular and frequent unbending of the bow, which is within our power.

The mother must cease to be a mother for an hour or two, and she will be a better mother afterwards. The busy man, with a thousand irons in the fire, must forget both fire and irons for awhile, and he will return to them with added strength. Rest a while!

But some one says, "I cannot rest. Business cares, family cares, social worries, surround me, even in sleep." It may be we have forgotten how to rest, but we will have to learn. Somewhere, in our rooms, by lakeside or quiet stream, where the ripe grain waits the reaper, or where the woody silences are full of magic cures for care, somewhere, we should drop our burdens and lose our wearied, over-burdened selves.

Rest hours are never wasted. The days we forget our work may be more fruitful than the days we toil. Let us outgrow our hurry. One would judge sometimes, by our strenuous earnestness, that the very world depended upon that sung, or speech, or letter. It is not so. We are not as big as we think we are; and our labor is not just as important as we deem it. The world does not stop even when its greatest die. The sun will not cease to shine even if we should cease to toil. Let us learn our true place in nature; let us learn to do our work; but let us learn also to unbend the bow. We are not speaking now of vacation quiet or of lengthy periods of inactivity, but of the regular unstringing of the bow.

Sometimes such an unbending comes with a good story and a hearty laugh. There is often real helpfulness in a good laugh. It clears the air. It relieves the tension. It lengthens life. Only last week a good brother told us of the help he got from that despised column of our paper called "Wise and Otherwise." To some a comical story is a thing to be despised. Probably their sense of humor is still in the rudimentary stage. But in busy times there seems no doubt that there is healing medicine in every gleam of pure and genuine humor.

Sometimes we need simply a social chat. It is strange how nervous tension relaxes when one talks freely with friends. It is true that there are companions whose presence is a strain; we do not refer to these, but to those others, often of the light-hearted, merry type, whose presence is a nervous tonic. Such companionships mean real rest.

Sometimes a book, even a useless book, will give the needed rest. A book that is foolish, that is one we almost despise, may sometimes be the one that will best relieve the strain. Well for use to understand the need and the cure.

Then sometimes, perhaps oftenest, it is best to get alone somewhere, and talk with God. It may be where the lofty, silent stars look down upon us; there, alone with God and nature, we look up and breathe new life. In this higher air earth's fever leaves us. Night's cool hand has calmed into restful quiet many a fevered brow; and the great hush of God's peace has stolen upon many a wearied soul like some magic river of peace, that has carried them swiftly and silently beyond the reach of their petty, earthly cares. True, it is only for a brief space; but in that restful hour, the jaded spirit gathered fresh strength for its work. These hours, or half-hours, of strainless life these periods of relaxed tension, are not only helpful to men, but they seem to be a necessity if the toiler of to-day is to do his best work. Let us learn to rest as well as toil.

Wealth vs. Happiness

Bobcaygeon Independent: Never lose sight of the fact that wealth is good only in moderation. An English writer says that many people look with jaundiced envy on the Carnegies and Rockefellers and Pierepont Morgans of the world. They think a millionaire's life is all motor cars and champagne. They yearn to dress in rich attire and siller hae to spare, forgetting that man, unlike the happy, hump camel, has only one stomach, one mouth, and can only ride in one automobile at a time. Thoughtless, purblind, silly persons. Listen to the wise and wealthy—Andrew of Skibo, and assimilate his words! Thus the steel laird. I have lived under the conditions both of wealth and poverty and I firmly believe that wealth decreases happiness. The millionaires who laugh are rare: You see gold paralyses the guffaw muscles stiffens the tee-hee glands and fractures the funny-bone. Never laughs! Alas! my poor rich brother! The skeleton is ever at your costly spread, the death's head and crossbones flout your well-stuffed wallet, the thought that your cheque-book can't prolong your life one poor scruply of time, buzzes in your billionary brain. Let us form ourselves into a Society for the Supply of Cacchination to Mouldy Millionaires. Assist me, says this English writer, to organise the Association for Pumping Merriment into the Wealthy, or the Fraternity of Funmakers for the Propagation of Draught Humor among the Rich.

When Andrew Carnegie says that millionaires who laugh are rare he states a fact that should be a warning to every man who is striving to amass a fortune.

It is well to lay up that which ensures moderate comfort for the period in life when the powers are waning, but as you value your happiness don't accumulate more than sufficient for moderate comfort.

MARIPOSA COUNCIL

PROCEEDINGS OF MEETINGS ON SEPT. 9th, 1907.

The members were all present except the Reeve who was detained a short time.

Mr. Shaver was elected chairman pro tem. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

The Brooks drain report was read, but on account of protests and discouragements, the scheme has been fully abandoned for the present at least.

Messrs. Albert Davidson, Leslie Webster, Robert Eakins and Foster Thompson desired the eastern end of concession seven opened up.

Mr. Wm. Coad desired some improvements on the eastern end of Con. 10, as the road across lots 23 and 24 is very bad.

Messrs. J. J. Glass, J. Martin, O. Yerex and G. McKague were applicants for the collection of taxes.

Messrs. H. McMillan, N. McArthur, and Henry Fowler desired to have the McArthur drain cleaned out.

The Clerk read a communication from Messrs. Weeks and McDiarmid pointing out the duties of Councils in regard to cleaning out municipal drains. Mr. G. Graham wished an inspector for the Dundas drain.

Mr. Stacey reports that he has finished putting on the concrete flooring for the bridge on Lot 18, con. 10, and his statements shows the total cost to be $58.40.

The Reeve presented communications from R. J. McLaughlin threatening action if the Council did not repair the road and bridge at Lot 19, Con. 5.

Mr. J. J. Glass stated that the judge required him to produce the assessment roll of Mariposa at the county revision of the assessment rolls in Lindsay, Sept. 10.

Mr. John McKay desired to be refunded his payment toward the expense of survey of the Grant drain.

RESOLUTIONS PASSED.

Motions by Messrs. Michael and Varcoe, that upon Messrs. A. Bagshaw, T. Levy, G. Dacre, J. Lillicarp, and A. McNabb, withdrawing from the Brooks drain petition the sum of $279.15 expenses already incurred be charged against the lands of those persons who signed the petition as provided by Chapter 226, Section 18, of the Municipal Drainage Act, 1897.—Carried.

The Reeve was authorized to sign agreements with the contractors for the different parts of the Dunn drain, as per contracts let by the engineer at Oakwood on Sept. 3, 1907.

The Clerk was authorized to issue an order for $650 payment of the steel bridge at lot 18, con. 10. The Clerk was ordered to deliver to Mr. Glass the assessment rolls for use at the County Revision.

Mr. Richard Rich was appointed Inspector of the Dunn drain at $2. per day of actual service.

Accounts aggregating $290 were ordered to be paid, including lease for gravel pit, part of lot 6, con. 4, $75; printing and postage, also Mr. P. S. Mark, 13½ days' inspecting roads and bridges, and 32 days building bridge abutments, etc., at $2.00 per day. Commissioners' accounts, aggregating $304.81 were paid, including $96 for cement.

Mr. John McKay was refunded the sum of $10.59, payment of expenses of survey on the Grants drain. Mr. G. McKague was appointed tax collector for the north half of township at $50, and Mr. David Yerex for the south half at the same price. The Clerk was ordered to notify the parties interested in the McArthur drain to have their respective shares cleaned out forthwith and in case of neglect for 30 days the engineer will be called in to let the work at their expense. By-law 616 was introduced and read the usual times appointing Mr. McKague and David Yerex tax collectors for 1907.

The resolution of the Council passed in 1906, referring to improving the road and bridge at lot 19, con. 5, was rescinded, and proper legal steps will be taken to close that part of the road from the south limit of the drain to the north side of the present bridge. Messrs. Shaver and Varcoe were appointed a committee to investigate the unopened part of the road at the eastern end of concession 7, lots 23 and 24. The Council then adjourned till the second Monday in October.

J. B. WELDON, Clerk.

Mystery of Pontypool's Coal Field's Explained

The despatch published recently referring to the finding of coal near Pontypool, recalled to the memory of an old resident, how the fuel got there. Some forty years ago when all that district was heavily wooded and long before there was any thought of a railway running through, coal was much cheaper than it is at present. There were a few farmers scattered among the tall pines, and one who lived in his log cabin conceived the idea that coal was on his farm, if not it should be. He dug several holes in the crest of the hill but found nothing, so then he bought a large quantity of coal and dumped it into the holes and covered them up. Sometime afterwards he got hold of some American prospectors and took them out to his coal mine in the woods. The prospectors were dubious from the start, but Mr. Farmer was enthusiastic, and he took his shovel and walked right over to one of the holes he had filled, and after digging a few minutes he brought out a shoveful of coal, all ready for use. It needed no washing and did not need to go through a breaker.

The prospectors, who had been winking at each other all the time, burst out laughing, and said, "You —— fool, what do you think we are? This is not the first time we have seen a coal mine." With that the visitors took the farmer in hand and gave him a sound threshing. From that day until his death, the fellow was known to everyone as "Coal Hill Johnny."

Advantages of a Book

Of all the advantages which can possibly be imagined for a hardworking man after his daily toil, or in its intervals, there is nothing like reading an entertaining book—supposing him to have a taste for it, and supposing him to have a book to read. It calls for no bodily exertion, of which he has had enough, or too much. It relieves his home of its dulness and sameness, which, in nine cases out of ten, is what drives him out to the ale-house, to his own ruin and his family's.....It accompanies him to his next day's work; and if the book he had been reading be anything above the very idlest and lightest, gives him something to think of beside the mere mechanical drudgery of his every-day occupation—something he can enjoy while absent and look forward with pleasure to return to. But supposing him to have been fortunate in the choice of his book, and to have alighted upon one really good and of a good class, what a source of domestic enjoyment is laid open! What a bond of family union! He may read it aloud, or makes his wife read it, or his eldest boy or girl, or pass it round from hand to hand. All have the benefit of it, all contribute to the gratification of the rest, and a feeling of common interest and pleasure is excited. Nothing unites people like companionship in an intellectual enjoyment. It does more, it gives them mutual respect, and to each among them self-respect, that corner stone of all virtue.—Sir John Herschell.

Baby's Danger

More little lives are lost during the hot weather months than at any other time of the year. In the summer months little ones are the victims of diarrhoea, cholera infantum, dysentry and stomach troubles. These come suddenly and without warning, and when a medicine is not at hand to give promptly the short delay may mean death. During the hot weather months Baby's Own Tablets should be kept in every home where there is a young child. An occasional use of the Tablets will prevent stomach and bowel troubles. Or if the troubles come unawares a prompt use of this medicine will bring the child through safely. Mrs. J. Renard, New Glasgow, Que., says: "I cannot speak too highly of Baby's Own Tablets. One of my children had a severe attack of diarrhoea which the Tablets promptly cured." Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Proof of Honesty

To illustrate a certain type of honesty, District Attorney Jerome, at a dinner in New York, told the following story:

'There was a man,' he said, 'who applied for a place in a dry goods house. His appearance was prepossessing, and references were demanded. After some hesitation, he gave the name of a driver in the firm's employ. The driver, he thought, would vouch for him.

'A clerk sought out the driver, and asked him if the applicant was honest.

'Honest?' the driver said. 'Why, his honesty's been proved again and again. To my certain knowledge he's been arrested nine times for stealing, and every time he was acquitted.'—'The Circle.'
