Balsam Grove, Sept. 19.—A very pleasant afternoon was spent at the home of Mrs. I. J. Murchison on Thursday last, it being the regular monthly meeting of the Women's Institute. The weather was all that could be desired, and the attendance was large. The meeting opened in the customary manner and two very instructive papers were given by Mrs. John Smithers and Mrs. Duncan Tolmie, on "the value and cooking of meats and fish." An interesting discussion followed. Miss May Murchison gave two selections of instrumental music in a pleasing manner. The meeting closed by singing the national anthem. All returned to their homes feeling that they had spent a profitable and pleasant afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. W. Imrie attended.

The open season for duck shooting opened Thursday the 15th. When the first shots came bounding over the river that morning in the gray dawn it roused the writer from his sleep and happening to think that it might be duck shooting time, having seen parties make up a camping outfit the day before. I awakened my old girl and said, "Do you hear that noise?" "What noise?" she said, for she must have been dreaming. Just then some more shots came booming over and I said that some fellows were very likely out shooting ducks. "Ducks!" she said. "Ducks!" my ducks, and

Poultry Show Will on Jan. 17, 18, 19

A meeting of the Lindsay Poultry and Stock Association was held on Monday in the town clerk's office, the following gentlemen being present: President B. L. McLean, Port Conquerwood, J. O'Reilly, R. Trotter, A. W. Eck, W. Hoar and Bert Letts. Considerable routine business was transacted, and judging from the tone of the discussion the fair this winter, which will be held on Jan. 17, 18 and 19, will be the best ever held in this section of the Province. Already a large number of poultry fanciers have signified their intention of exhibiting birds at the fair this winter, and the directors propose offering better inducements to exhibitors in the matter of special prizes, etc. It was stated that Mr. Enos Methersell, of Mariposa, would be a large exhibitor at the coming show, and also Mr. McGregor, of Bobcaygeon, who exhibited at the Peterboro fall fair. The question of improving the coops was discussed at some length, but no action will be taken this year. In all probability a new lot of coops will be secured next year, similar to the coops used at Toronto and elsewhere. Messrs. J. P. Ryley, D. C. Trew and T. R. Trotter were appointed a committee to bring recommendations and to regard to the improvement of the GLENARM.

Glanarm, Sept. 19.—Rev. G. S. Steel was called to Toronto on Tuesday morning of last week, having received news of the death of his uncle, Mr. Steele, president of the Steele, Briggs Seed Company. He returned on Thursday of last week.

Miss Cameron, of Toronto, was recently the guest of her friend, Mrs. Donald Spence, for a few days.

We understand Mr. Neil Sinclair, of Balsam Lake, has rented Mr. Ronald McEachern's farm south of the village, and now occupied by Mr. Angus and Mr. Archie McKinnon. We will welcome Mr. Sinclair and his family to our midst, but deeply regret the departure of McKinnon brothers.

Miss Ester Elford of Islay, was a guest at the home of Mr. Argue on Sunday of last week.

Miss Trueman visited friends at Kirkfield on Sunday the 11th inst. Misses Margaret and Bessie McMillan were business visitors in Lindsay on Thursday of last week.

Miss Effie McMillan, of Palestine, also Mr. Willie McMillan, have returned to Lindsay to resume their studies at L.C.I.

We are pleased to state that Mr. Dan Campbell's little daughter is now recovering from her recent illness.

Many of our residents attended the fair at Woodville on Friday of last week, and are loud in their praises of same. The baseball tournament attracted a large crowd. What's the matter with our Hartley team? Well, don't be discouraged, boys, try again.

Miss Annie McMillan, daughter of Mr. James McMillan, recently spent a few days with friends in Toronto.

Rev. Mr. Mann, pastor of the Presbyterian church, of Woodville, took charge of the services in the Presbyterian church here on Sunday last, and his excellent sermons, delivered in a very eloquent manner, were listened to by large congregations. Mr. Mann may always be sure of a hearty welcome to Glanarm. He also occupied the pulpit of the Methodist church at Hartley in the afternoon.

The attendance at the young people's meeting on Friday evenings has for the past few weeks not been as large as usual, possibly owing to the farmers being too busy to attend. We sincerely hope that now when the evenings are becoming longer, that the young men will make an effort to be present. At the meeting last week, interesting papers were read by Miss Mabel Curries and Miss May Tolmie. Mr. Stee's and Mr. Dan Sinclair also spoke on the topic for a few minutes. The meeting for next week will be in charge of three young ladies of the congregation, and an interesting and profitable meeting is anticipated. Let the attendance be as large as possible.

Mr. and Mrs. John Nesbitt and son spent a few days at the National Exhibition.

Miss Mammie Parkin is at present visiting with friends at Norland.

Some Notes on the Eldon Fall Fair

Woodville, Sept. 19.—Woodville's great fair is now a thing of the past, but nevertheless will never be forgotten. The Eldon Agricultural Society Fair has always been one of the very best township fairs in Ontario, and this year it has outdone all previous records, in quantity, quality and in the attendance, this year there being over 2,000 good-natured and good-looking people on the grounds. The exhibit of horses far exceeded anything ever seen in Victoria county. The show of cattle, swine, sheep and poultry was far in excess of anything in the previous history of the fair. The grain and vegetable exhibit was the best ever seen in the township, and very few county fairs can equal it. The ladies' department was of the very best, and the show of butter was far above the average, while the show of pickles, canned fruit, home made wine and jellies was worthy of special mention.

56 Years Ago Battle of Alma Fought

Monday was the 56th anniversary of the Battle of Alma.

Alma was the first serious clash between Russia and the combined forces of England, France and Turkey in the Crimean war, and in it two of the town's citizens, Major Martin and Mr. S. Tucker, took part. It was their initiation into the scenes of warfare, their first battle in the Crimea, which was destined to be the ground of two years hardships and bloody fighting.

It may prove interesting at this time to give a brief description of this fierce encounter in which two of the town's grand old veterans took part. The following description is adapted from Fyffe's History of Modern Europe, a history replete with many vivid battle pictures:

"It was determined that the landing should be made in the Bay of Eupatoria, thirty miles north of the fortress of Sebastopol. Here, on the morning of September 14, the Allied forces, numbering about thirty thousand French, twenty-seven thousand English, and seven thousand Turks, effected their disembarkation without meeting any resistance. The Russians, commanded by Prince Menschikov, lately envoy at Constantinople, had taken post ten miles further south on high ground behind the River Alma. On September 20 they were attacked in front by the English, while the French attempted a turning movement from the sea. The battle was a scene of confusion, and for a moment the assault of the English seemed to be rolled back. But it was renewed with ever-increasing vigor, and before the French had made any impression on the Russian left Lord Raglan's troops had driven the enemy from their positions. Struck on the flank when their front was already broken, outnumbered and badly led, the Russians gave up all for lost. The form of an orderly retreat was maintained only long enough to disguise from the conquerors the completeness of the victory. When night fell the Russian army abandoned itself to total disorder, and had the pursuit been made at once could scarcely have escaped destruction. But St. Arnaud who was in the last stage of mortal illness, refused in spite of the appeal of Lord Raglan, to press on his wearied troops. The Russian leader abandoning the hope of checking the advance of the Allies and anxious only to prevent the capture of Sebastopol by an enemy supposed to be following at his heels, retired within the fortress and there sank seven of his warships as a barrier across the mouth of the harbor.

"The English lost in the battle of Alma about two thousand men, the French probably less than half that number."

At the time of this battle Major Martin was a private only eighteen years old. Mr. Tucker fought with the sea force.
