

Fire at Woodville Sunday Afternoon in the Queen's Hotel Hotel was Badly Gutted

Woodville, Sept. 19.—A disastrous fire broke out here Sunday afternoon in the Queen's hotel, and for a time it looked as if the entire hotel as well as a number of surrounding buildings would be consumed by the ravaging flames. However, owing to the gallant work of the bucket brigade the fire was kept under control and the blaze extinguished.

The fire broke out about 2.30 o'clock in the afternoon between the ceiling and the roof, and in a very short time a large portion of the roof was burned. The villagers quickly assembled and a large bucket brigade was formed and pails upon pails of water were thrown upon the burning building.

The upper story of the hotel was badly gutted and the ground floor was also badly damaged by smoke and water. In fact the hotel was so badly damaged that the proprietor, Mr. Duncan J. McRae, and his family were forced to move out and at the present time they are occupying the old Royal Hotel.

The villagers kindly assisted Mr. McRae in taking out the furniture, and this was done without much breakage.

The cause of the fire is unknown, but it is suspected that it originated from a fire in the kitchen stove. It appears that after the fair of last week a large quantity of waste paper, some of it saturated with grease, was buried in the stove. The kitchen is not attached to the hotel, but sparks may have escaped and set fire to the hotel.

The hotel was insured for $1,600 in the Anglo-American Insurance Co., but Mr. McRae's loss is a heavy one.

During the fire Mr. Preston, Manager of the Standard Bank, who was assisting in fighting the flames, fell through the ceiling into the room below. He was somewhat scared, but came out of the accident unhurt.

The village of Woodville is now for the time being without any hotel accommodation.

LOST VALUABLE HORSE.

Mayor Begg lost one of his gray team this morning through pneumonia. The mare, which was the darkest one of the team, was loose in the stable on Saturday night and got a mouthful of flax seed. The seed got down on her lungs and inflammation set in. In spite of all veterinary skill the trouble could not be checked, and this morning at seven o'clock the animal died.

The mare was six years old, and without blemish. Mayor Begg declared that $200 would not buy her because she was quiet and in every way a model horse. He did not know where he could fill her place.

Peat Bogs in Victoria May Yet be Developed

There are peat bogs in the County of Victoria which will in all probability net some enterprising promoter a mint of money some day. Some years ago the peat works in the vicinity of Victoria Road were doing a thriving business, but it is understood that a lack of funds prevented the proper marketing of the peat.

To the village of Maitland, five miles east of Brockville, belongs the honor of introducing to the world one of the most important inventions of modern times, the manufacture of light, heat and commercial power from peat.

A Brockville despatch says: R. G. Harvey, while in Quebec last summer, came across a man with an entirely new idea in regard to the use of peat. Instead of trying to dry it and press it to burn like coal, his theory was that peat being full of cells charged with different gases, and these gases being very inflammable as is proved by the natural phenomena of lights floating over bogs known as will o' the wisp, why
