GREENLAND'S ICEBERGS.

Their Progress Southward Lasts From February Till August.

Those monsters of menace to navigation, icebergs, are formed from huge pieces broken from the glaciers of the north, which the Arctic currents carry southward until they melt away in the warmer waters of the gulf stream. The terrible procession begins in February, and not until the end of August is the ice season supposed to be over in the north Atlantic.

Each year brings its regular reports of thrilling sights and collisions and losses in the ice fields from the incoming steamers during the spring and summer months. Certain years stand out as unusually bad ice years, but the general story is much the same. Once, during the month of May, 143 icebergs were sighted off Cape Race in a single day.

One of the largest icebergs on record towered 830 feet above the surface of the sea. As hardly more than one tenth of the berg is out of water, this would mean a mass of ice 7,000 feet (one and one-third miles) from top to bottom. Its volume was calculated to be about 580,000,000 cubic feet and its weight some 16,000,000 tons!

Icebergs need not be extraordinarily high to be stupendous. Lieutenant Peary reported a berg 12,500 feet long (over two and one-half miles), 11,600 feet wide and 186 feet high. It was estimated to weigh 1,292,398,000 tons. Another measured farther north contained 27,000,000,000 cubic feet of ice and weighed no less than 2,000,000,000 tons.—New York World.

BOGUS GEMS.

Imitation Diamonds of Paste Are the Best Counterfeits.

It is always wise when buying a white topas to purchase it from a reliable dealer, inasmuch as rock crystal and even lead glass are often sold under that name.

Colorless beryl yields a very brilliant and diamond-like stone when properly cut. Indeed, many gems and even phenacite and rock crystal often passed in former days as diamonds even under the scrutiny of experts such exact tests as refraction and specific gravity being unknown until comparatively recent years.

No imitation of the diamond, however, is so brilliant as a skillfully cut piece of the kind of lead glass known in the trade as "paste." The play of color in these counterfeits is often very beautiful, but the glass "diamond" possesses no luster, this term being applied to the light reflected from the top surfaces of a gem. The flashes of light and color that give brilliancy come from the interior, being thrown from the rear surfaces of the stone.

The glass diamond is soft and is attacked chemically by a number of things with which it comes in contact by wear, for both of which reasons it soon becomes dulled. — Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post.

Striking a Bargain.

Charles M. Schwab at a luncheon at Loretto said of a youthful millionaire:

"It's no wonder he has become a millionaire quickly. His readiness at a bargain is wonderful. They tell a story about him and a great captain of industry.

"When some ten years ago he was struggling along in the insurance business he called on the captain of industry and said:

"'Can you spare me a few moments, sir?'

"'Young man,' the captain of industry replied, 'my time is worth $1,000 an hour, but since you come well introduced I don't mind giving you thirty minutes.'

"'That's $500,' said the young man. He paused, then added quickly, 'I'll save you $250, sir, by just taking a quarter of an hour in cash.'"—Washington Star.

Careful.

A young Clevelander who is always generous with his touring car tells us that he offered to take the old colored janitor of the apartment in which he resides downtown the other day.

"No, suh, boss—no, suh, thank you suh," grinned the ancient functionary. "I reckon I'll wait and go on de street cyah."

"What's the matter, uncle? Are you afraid?"

"No, suh—me afraid? No, suh, I got to wait."

"Uncle, have you ever been in an automobile?"

"Nevah but once, an' den I didn't let all ma weight down!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Improving.

She—Are you satisfied with my singing?

He—Oh, it's improving! Today, in fact, I left the cotton out of my ears.—Heitere Welt.

His Revenge.

"Yes; she quarreled with Jack and returned all his presents."

"And he hers?"

"Every one of them. Why, he even went so far as to send her half a dozen boxes of face powder with a note explaining that since he first met her he must have taken that much more on his coat."—Boston Transcript.

HOME HINTS

Dusters made of cheese cloth are excellent for dusting old china and bric-a-brac.

Zinc or Tin, if badly discolored, may be cleaned with a paste of whiting and paraffin.

Traces of Mud may be removed from black materials be rubbing with slices of raw potato.

Elastic Stockings may be cleaned with hot flour. Rub it well in, and then brush off when cold.

Steel on a kitchen range should not be blackleaded. It can be easily polished with a mixture of whiting and oil.

Before Laying Carpets spread newspapers over the floor, and if you have any fear of moth, scatter some pyrethrum powder about.

When Frying Fat Catches Fire, do not pour water on it, as it only spreads the flame. A handful of earth or flour will quickly quench the flames.

Looking-Glasses should be kept perfectly bright by cleaning with a rag moistened with methlated spirits This will remove fly marks and all other stains.

Wrap Stale Loaves in a cloth, dip in hot water for half a minute, take off the cloth, and bake for a quarter of an hour in a steady oven This will make them like new bread.

The Smell of Cigar Smoke can soon be dispelled from a room. Put a few red-hot coals on a shovel and then sprinkle some ground coffe over The fumes will purify the room.

Never Sweep Dust from one room to another, nor from upstairs to the lower part of the house. Always take it up in a dustpan where you have previously plaeed some damp tea-leaves.

Kitchen Chairs should always have wooden, not cane, seats; then if anything greasy is spilled, they can be scrubbed. They should be kept in good condition by an occasional polish with beeswax and turpentine.

Turn Pillow Slips when they are beginning to wear, and they will take a new lease of life. Unpick the bottom seam, and before framing it up again fold the case so that the seam at the side goes down the middle. In this way the whole pillow slip wears evenly.

To Preserve Patent Leather shoes and boots, rub the leather with a little fresh butter as soon as the boots or shoes are removed from the feet, and leave the butter on them till next required for wear. Then polish with a soft duster. Treated in this way the leather, will never crack.

To Clean Carpets, rub the surface then rub dry with clean cloths. Dissolve one qparter of a pound of soft of the carpet clean with this mixture soap in one gallon of warm water, then add two ounces of liquid ammonia. Bottle for use. Only do a small piece of the carpet at a time, and constantly change your flannel.

A Steamy Bathroom is not a pleasant place. Fit about two feet of india rubber tubing on to the hot tap. As soon as the water covers the other end the steam will cease to rise. This adds greatly to the comfort of the bathroom, and saves the walls as well.

All Insects have a rooted antipathy to the smell, of torpentine, therefore it is a valuable thing for preventing the ravages of moths ants cockroaches and other pests. If applied freely to the joints and crannies of bedsteads it will drive away all sorts of pests.

Where He Was Born.

Bill Fogarty was one of the most popular men in Newport News. One evening he introduced to a small crowd of his friends a big, brawny stranger thus:

"Gentlemen, this is my friend, Tim Murphy of Chicago. He is a good fellow, one of the finest, but Tim is a sport. Don't bet with him on anything or he'll rob you."

"Bill's roight. That's me," said Tim. "I'll bet on annything at anny time. For example, I'll bet tin dollers wid anny man or wid ivra man that there ain't no man in this crowd that kin guess within a t'ousan' moiles av where I was born."

Inside of ten minutes there were ten bets up, and Bill held the money as stakeholder.

Seven men guessed Ireland. Two guessed England. One guessed Scotland. Then Murphy said:

"Bill, give the guys information an' tain gimme the money."

"I warned you not to bet," said Fogarty. "My friend Murphy was born in New York, but when he was only two years old his parents took him back to Ireland and reared him there."—Boston Post.

The Pannier Skirt.

The pannier skirt, according to the opinion of a fashionable dressmaker, will become popular despite the opposition on the part of the women who say that they cannot be won away from the tight fitting garment. "The efforts to bring back the crinoline," she said, "had to end in disorder because we are living in a time when space is too valuable for that style. Subway and bargain counter crushes, small apartments and crowds make the big skirt impossible. But it is time to get away from the other extreme, and the pannier is the thing. All this talk about 'opposition' to certain fashions on the part of some women is nonsense. They only think they are opposed to them, and they all come in line, and the most courageous fear to wear dresses that are not stylish."—New York Tribune.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Sept. 3.—The demand from foreign buyers for new crop Manitoba spring wheat was good and as bids were in line sales of a number of loads were made late Saturday and this morning, but owing to the continued weakness in the Winnipeg market late cables today came 7½d per quarter lower, and the demand even at this reduction was much quieter.
