HOW THIS WOMAN FOUND HEALTH

Would not give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for All Rest of Medicine in the World.

Utica, Ohio.—"I suffered everything from a female weakness after baby came. I had numb spells and was dizzy, had black spots before my eyes, my back ached and I was so weak I could hardly stand up. My face was yellow, even my fingernails were colorless and I had displacement. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and now I am stout, well and healthy. I can do all my own work and can walk to town and back and not get tired. I would not give your Vegetable Compound for all the rest of the medicines in the world. I tried doctor's medicines and they did me no good."—Mrs. MARY EARLEWINE, R.F.D. No. 3, Utica, Ohio.

Another Case.
Neb. Ill.—"I was bothered for ten years with female troubles and the doctors did not help me. I was so weak and nervous that I could not do my work and every month I had to spend a few days in bed. I read so many letters about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I felt better than I have for years and tell everybody what the Compound has done for me. I believe I would not be living to-day but for that."—Mrs. HETTIE GREENSTREET, Hebo, Illinois.

Smooth Mr. Ray Operated in Lindsay--$2,000 Secured From Local Bank--Made Escape

Friday The Warder contained the exclusive article that banks in Galt, Guelph and Berlin had been visited by a man purporting himself to be Mr. Ray from the West, who succeeded in securing about $8,200 by fraud in all three banks. At the time little did the Warder man, or the citizens of Lindsay, dream that the same Mr. Ray, who was supposed to be heading for the American side of the border, would dare to visit Lindsay, especially after his "game" had been exposed in the public press, but nevertheless this is exactly just what happened.

Between the hours of 10 o'clock and 11:00 o'clock on Friday morning the same individual visited the Standard Bank of this town and worked the same scheme successfully, securing in all $2,000. The members of the local bank staff had not the least suspicions at the time but that everything was all o.k., as some time earlier in the week Manager S. Alcorn secured through the mail a letter (now agreed to be a forgery) from the manager of the bank at Kindersley, Sask., to the effect that Mr. Ray would call and if he introduced himself and requested to open an account, everything was satisfactory, to the extent of $2,500.

The gentleman did call and presented his letter of introduction (also agreed to be a clever forgery), signed by the manager of the Kindersley bank, and the accountant, stating that he was a customer. He announced that he wanted to draw $2,500, which was handed over to him in currency, after which he stated that he would leave $500 to his account. Then he politely withdrew and shortly afterwards left town supposedly via G.T.R. for points east.

It was not until later in the day that Manager Alcorn received word that a clever forger was working such a game on other banks in the country that his suspicions were aroused. He immediately set the wheels of justice working and in a short time Chief Chilton was engaged on the case. The Chief telephoned and telegraphed every adjacent village, town or city, giving the police of other places a careful description of the man and asking that he be arrested on sight.

Chief Chilton has secured the following description of Mr. Ray, which tallies almost identically with that furnished by the police of Galt, Guelph and Berlin: Ray is a man about 40 years old, 5 feet 10 inches in height, and weighing about 150 pounds, with two weeks' growth of beard. His complexion is dark, with rather long hair, streaked with gray. He was wearing a gray suit of clothes and Panama hat, and presented a rather sickly appearance.

Ray had all the appearances of being a farmer home from the west or a down and out show man, and when he produced his letter of introduction, signed with the forged name of the manager of the bank at Kindersley, Sask., nothing suspicious was surmised. From the recollection of those who noticed him while in town Ray's clothes were not the neatest fitting, nor were they the pressed and creased suit of a business man. He was badly in need of a shave, his straggling beard drawing attention. While in town stranger Ray put up at the Hotel Simpson, registering as Jas. Ray, giving no address. However, he did not remain long, arriving Thursday night on the flyer and leaving Friday morning—with the currency. He had never unqualified, as cool as a cucumber, not displaying the least sign of nervousness even in the bank. Evidently his plan of action was premeditated and deliberate as it was nearing train time when he entered the bank and introduced himself. The time was well planned, the G.T.R. train for Peterboro and points east leaving at 10.55, which train he is supposed to have boarded.

Friday evening Chief Chilton and Manager Alcorn visited Peterboro in the hopes of locating the mysterious customer from the West, as it was learned that one of the banks in the above city had received a letter anticipating the arrival of Mr. Ray on a similar mission. However, he was not to be found and it is surmised that Ray has yet failed to reach the Electric City.

It is unfortunate that a bank in Lindsay should be defrauded in this manner, but circumstances, or fate, augured favorably for the schemer. Lindsay was the only town in this part of the country that was not notified in any way that Ray was operating in the country. After having been defrauded in Galt—the general manager of the Union Bank in Canada, telegraphed all branch banks in the country, including the branch bank at Peterboro, to be on the lookout for Ray, and if Ray ever reached Peterboro and presented the forged letter of introduction at the Union Bank there he would have been detained.

Another unfortunate side of the case is that the police at Guelph and Galt telegraphed the police officials in every town in this vicinity, but failed to telegraph Lindsay police of Ray's whereabouts or scheme.

It is quite evident that Ray has a confederate in the West, as the forged letters coming from the branch banks in the West have been arriving four and five days previous to Ray's appearance. The letters, and also the letter of introduction, carried by Ray are all written on bank stationery, and when Ray was asked for a sample of his signature by Manager Alcorn of the Standard Bank here, it was identically the same as his signature as it appeared on the forged letter received from the bankers in the West.

It is quite unfortunate also that the local officials failed to hear of Ray's operations in other towns previous to his appearance in the Standard Bank here. With the arrival of the papers from Toronto at noon they read of his fraudulent methods in Western Ontario towns.

OBITUARY

LATE PETER MITCHELL.
The Grim Reaper removed one of the oldest and highly respected citizens of Lindsay Friday night, Sept. 5th, in the person of Mr. Peter Mitchell, who for years has been the highly efficient bailiff of the Town of Lindsay.

For a couple of weeks past the deceased has been gradually sinking, and it was not expected that he would recover, but yet his demise comes more or less as a shock to his intimate friends, who will feel his loss keenly. He was ever a courteous official and filled the office of bailiff with credit to himself and the town.

For a number of years the deceased acted in the capacity of deputy-sheriff under Sheriff Kempf, never being known to shrink duty. Having been born in the Township of Mariposa, a son of the late Donald Mitchell, one of the pioneers of the section, and having resided in Lindsay for upwards of 40 years, he was widely known, his friends and acquaintances numbering in the hundreds. In town he was a familiar figure, and was known even to the younger generation, all having a good word to say of the kind bailiff. In politics the deceased gentleman was a Liberal of the old school.

The late Mr. Mitchell, who was 67 years of age, is survived by his devoted wife and three sisters, namely: Agnes Mitchell and Mrs. Bain, of Lindsay, and Mrs. Jamieson, of Saskatoon.

The funeral will take place on Monday afternoon from the family residence on Kent-st., leaving at 2.00 o'clock; service half an hour earlier. Interment at East Oakwood cemetery.

How Ray Defrauded the Banks in Guelph, Galt and Berlin—Same Scheme Worked Here

Galt, Sept. 4.—By the simple device of a forged letter of introduction, currency to the amount of approximately $8,200 was secured today by a man calling himself James Ray, of Saskatoon, who presented cheques at banks in Galt, Guelph and Berlin. The forger immediately departed from each of these places as soon as he had secured the money. Late to-night he had been traced as far as Hamilton, and was then believed to be heading for the boundary at Niagara Falls, but the police and railway people everywhere throughout Ontario are watching for him.

This Mr. Ray, who is a prosperous looking individual about 40 years of age, walked into the branch here of the Union Bank this morning and announced himself as a customer. He produced what purported to be a letter of introduction from the manager of a branch of the bank near Saskatoon. The manager's signature is known to the bank people here, and the signature on the letter appeared to them to be perfectly genuine. His "identity" thus established, Ray announced that he wanted to draw $2,800. He drew and presented a cheque for that amount and received the money in currency. Mr. Ray then politely withdrew from the bank and from these parts.

It was some time later before suspicion was aroused at the bank here. Comparison of the signature on the letter with that kept on record showed disparities, however, and it was decided to telegraph an enquiry to Saskatoon. All this took time, and it was several hours after Ray had departed when an answer came from the Saskatoon branch disclaiming any acquaintance with the gentleman. The police then were immediately notified, but Ray had by now had plenty of time to make his getaway.

Precisely the same procedure was followed by the forger at Guelph, where he has secured $2,900 and odd and at Berlin, whence he carried away $2,500. The railway and radial network in this district, and the fact that discovery of his fraud was so tardy, made it possible to execute the three coups with little risk of being challenged at any of the banks.

The Migrant.
"Tis spring to me
When I have heard a white-throat sing.
Into my world he blows
As shyly as a windflower throws
His petals to the air.
He comes, he sings, he goes.
My glad surprise just spites
Him, singing here and there,
When, lo, he is away.
And yet 'tis dear to hear it year,
Only to hear him say:
'Sweet, Sweet—Canada, Canada,
Canada.'"

A BUSY OCTOGENARIAN.
John R. Booth is an indefatigable worker despite his age.
Some men have apparently the gift of perpetual youth. They never grow old in the sense that others do. If the average Canadian does not think this is true let him conjure in his mind, Sir Charles Tupper, Lord Strathcona, Sir Alexander B. MacKenzie, Sir Sandford Fleming, J. R. Booth and a few others whose combined ages will average over the ninety mark, and yet these celebrated Canadians in no sense seem to be loosening their grip on life or affairs in general.

Something went wrong at the big saw mill of J. R. Booth in Ottawa a few days ago, and repairs had to be made that night. The veteran millionaire lumberman, paper manufacturer and railway builder was on the spot until 3 o'clock the next day made not a particle of difference in his breakfast hour. He was down to the Chaudiere as early as usual. Mr. Booth is in his eighty-seventh year, and seldom if ever takes a holiday. A few years ago his family prevailed upon him that he needed a rest, and, after much persuasion, he was induced to accompany them to Atlantic City for a few days. The first morning after their arrival Mr. Booth was up and out on the expansive boardwalk a few minutes after five.

When the other members of the party arose later they inquired if he had breakfast, and he replied with a sigh: "Yes, I just got it, but had to wait nearly three hours before I could get all over the dining-room. I have wandered all over the place, and there is nothing to see there, and no people that I know. I have met several hundred and not one of them has said 'Good morning, Mr. Booth.' I am going home. What is the use of staying in a place where you do not know anyone, and where you cannot get breakfast until 8 o'clock. Besides, I have seen everything, and as for this so-called famous boardwalk, why I never stay to build a dozen such walks every day to build a dozen such walks. No, sir. This is no spot for a busy man, and I am going home to-day."

And home he went in spite of the pleading of his family and friends.—Toronto Saturday Night.

Censor of Morals in India.
The state of Paridkot, in the Punjab, is making an interesting experiment in the censorship of public morals.

The affairs of Paridkot are administered by the president of the Council of Regency, whose avowed aim is to develop a perfect community, where no crime shall exist and where all men set up a system of state registers, under which the whole people are classified under three heads, Good Characters, Conciliators and Evil-doers. The system is all embracing, so that there is hardly an inhabitant of a village whose name is not duly recorded according to his conduct and character. The names are entered in a public place so that all may see them and know their moral standing. Everyone therefore is always careful that his character is absolutely free from fault.

We are gravely assured that in six months the system has had the miraculous effect of ridding Paridkot of "litigious, disputing, criminality and immoral and unsocial practices."

Flower Bed Signs.
Now that the large advertising posters that were so great a disfigurement of the country on either side of the French railway lines have been rendered illegal by Act of Parliament, advertisers on the Orleans and other lines are to plant flower beds of brilliant colors in the fields on either side of the line, with the flowers arranged so as to spell the name of the goods to which they are to call attention.

Cricket Accidents.
There are certain accidents which are all "in the game" at cricket. Bowlers and fieldsmen may easily split a finger in stopping a hard hit. A wicketkeeper's thumb and fingers are often lacerated or sprained, while, of course, batsmen must be prepared to take hard knocks from fast and "bumpy" bowling.

Some cricket accidents, however, are out of the common. Only the other day Mr. J. E. Ragnall, the ex-Surrey amateur and international rugby footballer, playing for the M. C. C. V. Kenilworth, dislocated his right shoulder. He is so when throwing in the ball from a long field.

More extraordinary, however, was the accident which befell Hartigan, returning a ball he gave his arm such a jerk that it was broken, an unprecedented accident in the history of the game.

Helping Him to Play Better.
Mr. Charles Brookfield, the British co-captain of the team who were defeated by the Australians in London. He once ran a theatrical season at the Haymarket Theatre. It was no very successful one, in fact, the theatre was nearly empty every evening, and the box office returns were heart-breaking.

One night the manager asked Mr. Brookfield as he was going on the stage: "What time shall I bring you the box office receipts?"

"Just before I go on in my pathetic scene, please!" said Mr. Brookfield.

To extend Flogging Penalty.
The flogging penalty for "white-slave" traffickers worked so well in England that it has been decided to extend it to the British crown colonies and to India. In the eastern colonies the whole subject will be dealt with in one general ordinance. The powers of the protectors of Chinese immigrants and the police are to be increased, and the penal provisions of the ordinance are to be made very severe.

The Indignant Major.
Perhaps one of the funniest "Spoon eriams" told is the story of the peppery old retired major who marched into church one Sunday and found a stranger occupying his favorite seat.

Choking with indignation, he spurted out: "Sir, are you aware that you are occupying my place?"

Hot Springs, Ark., was swept by a $4,000,000 fire.

No oculist can do anything for the blindness of self-love.

You might just as well be frank and admit that you are inclined to be more or less gossipy.
