—The creamery is showing some of the best returns ever known in connection with dairying in the county. Last month Mr. John Twohey averaged 90 cents a 100 lbs. for his milk. It will be difficult for cheese to beat that even at its present high price.

—Mr. John Boate, a young farmer of Emily township, a few miles east of Omemece, was suddenly taken ill Saturday morning, and expired before medical aid could be obtained. He leaves a widow, formerly Miss Tully of Omemece, and one little daughter.

—On Saturday next, Oct. 14th, Mr. Jos. Carroll will offer a number of bicycles for sale by auction at the skating rink. Many of these wheels are almost as good as new, having been used but a few months this season in his livery. A capital chance to get a good wheel cheap.

—A man named John McAdams, who spent several days in town last spring endeavoring to put in the creamery plant, has been arrested at the instance of his partner in business at Walkerton. He is charged with collecting $1200 of the firm money without reporting it.

—There is a complaint that the caretaker of Sturgeon Point does not keep the cattle from coming into the corporation. Mr. Graham says the council has not given him any authority to deal with the animals. If not they should give him both authority and means of enforcing it right away.

—Quite a lively scene was witnessed on one of the leading streets of Peterboro the other morning, when the proprietor of a boarding house gave chase to one of his boarders, who was leaving without squaring matters. The boarder was much the faster runner of the two, and escaped, but he had to hustle, nevertheless. He hailed from Norwood.

—Messrs. McDougall, Brandon & Austin of Fenelon Falls are doing a rushing business in the live-stock trade these days. They average from six to seven carloads each week. Last week they shipped two double-deckers of lambs and two carloads of cattle to the Buffalo market; one car of cattle to Toronto and a double-deck car of hogs to the Messrs. Matthews of Peterboro.

—A painfully sudden death occurred on the second concession of Emily on Saturday morning. Mrs. Isabel McGee, sister of Messrs. William and James Miller and Mrs. Rich. Robinson of town, whom she had recently been visiting, expired without warning at about 7 o'clock. She was a neighbor of Mr. and Mrs. Rutherford, the victims of the railway accident at Reaboro last week, and it is supposed that their shocking death so affected Mrs. McGee's heart, which was not strong, as to cause her death.

—A model barn-raising took place on the farm of Mr. J. Teevins who lives a couple of miles north of the North Ops cheese factory on Thursday afternoon last. The weather was perfect and a large number of neighbors and several from town were on hand to assist in putting the structure in position. It is a fine hip-roof building 45x50 with a 10 foot stone foundation under all. Chief carpenter Miller had done his work well and although the timbers were green, they were not of excessive size and were framed to go together as they should. The south side lifted when Mr. Richard Jackson said "Yo Heave," and the north took the word from Mr. Thos. Flynn. For a time the south led but the "men of the north" soon pulled ahead and finished half an hour in the lead. The only accident of the afternoon befel Mr. Geo. Casely, who was one of the best men on the winning side. His hand was pinned to a beam with a pike but did not put him off the building. The ladies deserve great credit for the part they played. Until near the finish they were interested spectators of the work, but in plenty of time repaired to the house and got supper ready. It was a spread that did the regulation tea meeting one better. After supper Charlie Podger entertained the crowd with selections on his gramophone. Frank Shannon was camera fender.

Mr. Tom Brady, jr., did the dressing and has proved himself an artist in that line.

—The Guy Brothers were greeted by a large house on Tuesday night. Their show was very good. It is noticeable, however, that the purely minstrel elements that were so popular in the past have given place to juggling and contortionist specialties which though excellent in their way have not the drawing power of the burnt cork. Taken altogether, though, the large audience was well pleased.

—Mr. T. H. Wallace, buyer for Park, Blackwell & Co., Toronto, shipped Monday from Mariposa station probably the finest carload of select hogs that has ever left that section. The hogs averaged about 190 pounds. There were only two Berkshires in the lot, the balance being Tamworths and Yorkshires. They were bought from James Woodriddle, James Emerson, Wm. Starr, John Jordan, Ammond Mark, C. Downer, Hugh Ray, Abraham Webster, James Rogers, Richard Honey, David Weldon, Wm. Jordan, John McLean, Edward Mark—all of Mariposa. The most important meeting of the year. Don't forget it.

He Needs a Friend

An incident that makes one see the need for the society that takes care of neglected children, was witnessed on William st. just south of Kent-st. on Tuesday afternoon. A delapidated looking couple were going south past the Dominion bank. The man was slightly in advance of the woman. He was leading a little boy of about 4 years. Suddenly the woman dashed forward and catching the little chap's arm tried to take him away from the man. The latter held the other hand and in the tussle the youngster's anatomy had to resist a severe strain in order to hold together. At length the woman's hold slipped and the journey continued amid the loudest and rustiest sort of scolding on the woman's part. There were only some offences of which the man is not guilty if her version was correct. However he was not afraid of a lawyer and took his charge into Mr. G. H. Hopkin's office. His companion tried to follow but in a moment dashed out and into the telephone doorway just as the object of her pursuit attempted to come out, having apparently passed from one office to the other by some inside route. Then a lively set-to began. In the mix-up the child was sent sprawling and began to cry lustily. Meanwhile its guardians gave a spirited exhibition of scuffling without regard to any particular code. At last the male section of the conflict got a species of neck hold that discouraged his adversary and again he proceeded with the child. The remarks of the woman were of characteristic rapidity and of startling quality without being at all complimentary to the object of her wrath. At the corner of Melbourne-st. another attack was successfully repelled but here all three disappeared around the corner and the last act of the drama cannot be written. One's mind lingers on the poor little fellow and hopes that by some means or other there are happier things in store for him. [It has since been learned that the pair above referred to were Paddy Donoghue and his spouse. The latter ran foul of Chief Bell the same afternoon and has since sojourned in jail. She will know her fate on Friday.]

Chapter of Accidents.

—On Saturday Mr. Wm. Miller, head carpenter on J. J. Teevins barn, fell from the perline plate to the ground, a distance of some 30 feet. No bones were broken but Mr. Miller is laid off work with the shock and bruises he received.

—There was a lively time at the corner of Ridout and Simcoe-sts. on Monday night. Driver Joe, of the Williamson meat market, went to make the corner at too swift a pace with the result that he, the horse and the cart became mixed up in the ditch. He made all sorts of yells for help. Bobby Reid and a near-by resident rushed to the rescue and soon had things straightened up, but while they were all standing about, the horse kicked and bled Joe's nasal appendage and Bobby's remarks of sympathy led to the insinuation that he did not always keep his own horses looking their best. A discussion followed on cruelty to animals, that with a few omissions would have delighted an officer of the Humane Society.

—On Wednesday afternoon an accident happened on the road between Mariposa station and Oakwood, that might have been attended with good deal worse results. Two young ladies, daughters of Mr. T. H. Greenway, who lives a mile south of Woodville, were driving along in a covered rig when the horse took fright at a stone on the roadside and made a dash into the ditch. The rig was upset and its occupants imprisoned beneath the top. Fortunately the top and seat were broken off allowing the horse and gearing to go free. This prevented the ladies from receiving further injuries than those caused by the fall and although these were painful they were not serious. The horse went a short distance and dashed into a wire fence from which it had to be helped.

—A distressing accident happened as a result of a runaway at Flavelle's elevator on Saturday. Mr. John Graham of West Ops was unloading a load of grain when a train backed down the track and caused the horses to bolt. A line broke and Mr. Graham fell off the load and narrowly escaped being run over by the wheels. Mr. D. J. Scully caught the horses by the head but was unable to stop them before they had crashed into a baby carriage containing the 18 months-old son of Mr. Jos. Murdoch. The carriage was wrecked and a wheel of the wagon passed over the infant's thigh breaking the bone and otherwise injuring the body. The team was a last stopped by Mr. Scully but not before he had received some painful bruises himself. The child was taken home and Mrs. White and Shier attended to its injuries. Although so badly injured the little fellow is doing very well and may recover.
