

AR
LING
98 PER SUIT
COATS
Suits
Gloves and Mitts
Hardware
MON'S
MON,
LINDSAY
SEASON OF 1901
vartha Lakes
SAILINGS OF BOATS
Sturgeon Point, ESTURION

WHAT HAPPENINGS ABOUT TOWN

Little Local Lines

House and corner lot for sale on...
Extra choice preserving pears...
New mattresses and springs just...
Cook wanted for good farmers'...
Women's heavy Winter Vests with...
This is exactly the time to breed...
The weight of the stone crusher...
Three apprentices for...
Good general servant wanted...
Don't forget the sale of farm...
Syrup of Licorice and highly recommended...
After spending the summer with...
Mr. Bert Silverwood and Mr. S. B. Cook have been buying fowl in...
Mr. Pogue's horse operated on by...
The Burgess Gas Co. is making...
Children's Ribbed Vests and...
Mr. E. Tangney has just received...
Very desirable residence and acre...
On Sept. 23rd Lester Reeder, son...
Kitchen girl wanted. Highest...
Prof. O. O. Sheets is in town...
The exhibitors of sheep at the...

Little Local Lines

The greatest money-maker for...
Dr. McCullough of Peterborough...
The Baptist church has received...
The Grand Trunk people had a...
Dundas and Flavell Bros. will...
Chi.kens Wanted.
Personal
Mr. and Mrs. Ira Ingle are at...
Rev. T. W. Glover of Toronto is...
Mr. Fred Fox of Niagara Falls is...
Mr. J. F. Tamblin of Oshawa...
Mrs. Dougal Jamieson of Glen...
Miss White, Cambridge-st has...
Mr. Jas. A. Fitzpatrick formerly...
Miss Susan Fitzpatrick and her...
Mr. S. Crozier of Valentia, who...
Mr. and Mrs. S. O. Hadley of...
Rev. A. J. H. Striker was ill...
Mr. Thos. Oliver has sold his...
Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Walton...
Among those who attended the...
Sale Register.
Friday, Oct. 25.—By Peter Brown...
For Young Men.
Under the energetic and skillful...
Men's four-in-hand Ties made...
The Sabbath School Association...
Rev. Mr. Wilson who supplied St...

Obituary

Timothy Warde
Timothy Warde, one of the best...
The Great Opponent of Remedial Leg...
Woodbridge, Oct. 9.—Hon. N. C...
The funeral will take place on Sa...
Best She Could Do.
Guest—Waitress, there's a blond hair...
THE ACTORS' POSTOFFICE.
Schemers and All Outsiders Are...
Out of the thousands of professions...
The actors' postoffice was establi...
In this way the little office has...
If a theatrical manager wishes to...
Ivy Poisoning.
A peculiarity of poisoning by ivy...
Some people are so susceptible to it...
A Growing Belief.
The katydid is out again...
Violin and Musical Culture
JOHN W. GRAY, teacher of Artistic...
JOHN W. GRAY, teacher of Artistic...
JOHN W. GRAY, teacher of Artistic...

MR. WALLACE IS DEAD

Grand Orange Sovereign Passes After Long Illness.
HAD A NOTABLE PUBLIC CAREER
The Great Opponent of Remedial Legislation—One of the "Noble 13"
—For Fourteen Years He Controlled the Policy of the Orange Order in British North America—Sketch of His Life.
Woodbridge, Oct. 9.—Hon. N. C. Clarke Wallace passed away peacefully at 10.15 last night.
In these few words is recorded the death of one of the most forceful men in the public life of the Canadian Confederation. Mr. Wallace had been in ill-health for some time and spent part of the summer in the west in an effort toward recovery, but without result, and several weeks ago returned home to die among the friends of his youth. On Monday it was seen that the end was near, and Mrs. King of Woodbridge and McPhedran and Temple of Toronto held a consultation, which disclosed the fact that Mr. Wallace was in a practically hopeless condition.
The funeral will take place on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the late home of deceased to Christ Church Cemetery, Woodbridge. Rev. W. S. Swallow will conduct the services at the home and grave. The funeral will be under the direction of the Most Worshipful the Grand Orange Lodge of British North America, and the R. W. Grand Lodge of Ontario West.
He will be succeeded in the office of Grand Sovereign of the Orange Order of B.N.A. by Dr. T. S. Sproule, M.P., of Markdale, who is Deputy Grand Master.
The members of the Grand Orange Lodge of Ontario West have been requested to attend the funeral of their late Most Worshipful Grand Sovereign.
Sketch of His Career.
Mr. Wallace was perhaps best known in consequence of his connection with the Orange Order, of which he became Grand Master and Sovereign of Canada in 1887. He had been re-elected to that high office every year since that time, a total of fifteen elections. He was also President of the Triennial Conference of Orangemen of the world. Mr. Wallace at all times fought strenuously for the principles of Orangism in the House of Commons. He was one of the "noble 13" who voted for the disallowance of Mercier's Jesuits' estates bill, 1888.
Hon. N. Clarke Wallace was a son of the late Nathaniel and Ann Wallace of Carney, Sligo County, Ireland, who settled at Woodbridge, then called Berwick, in 1833. He was born on May 21, 1844, and was married in June, 1877, to Melinda, youngest daughter of the late James Gilmour of Ottawa. He received his education at the Weston Grammar School. This he turned to account in early life by teaching school for five years. In 1867 he and his brother, Thomas F. Wallace, commenced the business of general merchants in Woodbridge, and later they built the Woodbridge flour mills. Mr. Wallace always took an active part in public affairs, and in 1874 and the four succeeding years was elected first deputy reeve of the Township of Vaughan. Under the old municipal system, this position gave him a seat in the County Council, and in 1878 he was honored with the distinction of being elected Mayor of the town. In this year he forsook political life to engage in Federal politics, and carried West York for the Conservatives by a majority of 202 over Davin Blain, the riding having previously been in the hands of the Reformers for 24 years. He continued to sit as the member for West York from that hour until the hour of his decease, in each contest adding to his majorities until 1896, when he had a majority of 4,068 over John Brown, Patron, and Sam- uel Platt, Conservative, the largest majority ever given to a candidate in Canada. In the contest of 1900 he defeated Mr. Archibald Campbell by a majority of 820.
The abilities of Mr. Wallace as an administrator were first recognized in 1884, when he was appointed chairman of the Public Accounts Committee of Parliament, and which, later, in 1891 and 1892, were again recognized by his successfully ruling over the stormy proceedings and investigations which took place during those years.
In 1890, Mr. Wallace became the everlasting benefactor of the Orangemen of Canada. In that year, after others had failed, he carried to a successful issue the Orange Corporation Bill. In 1893 Mr. Wallace was appointed a member of the House of Commons, and in this position was known to every business man in Canada. He was an indefatigable worker in his new position, not a mere figurehead only, but one who delved into and became acquainted with all the small details of the department. To both Reformers and Conservatives, Mr. Wallace gave the greatest satisfaction in this position, for on all tariff matters he was so well versed that any suggestion was thoughtfully considered and answered almost spontaneously. Deputations of business men waiting upon Mr. Wallace invariably got an answer, and it was not the stereotyped one so often given to deputations, which runs, "This matter will receive our earnest consideration." Mr. Wallace was a man of ideas, and was frank in giving utterance to them. He disliked hesitancy, and some of his most telling speeches were made against political opponents at a time when their undeveloped policies have been waiting for praise or condemnation by the people of the country. As a speaker he was fluent and forceful, with a strong vein of humor running through his thoughts.
Hon. N. Clarke Wallace passed through six successful electoral campaigns and was once returned by acclamation. His victories were over David Blain, T. Hodgins, Dr. Lind, W. H. P. Clement, S. Platt, John Brown and Archibald Campbell.
Deceased was 57 years of age. A wife, four sons and three daughters survive him. The eldest son, Thomas, resigned a captaincy in the 86th Battalion to serve as a private in the South African war. His second son is Lieut. L. Wallace of the Markham detachment G.G.B.G., and the youngest child is a girl nearing her eighth year. Mr. Wallace was a member of the Church of England, and for 25 years was superintendent of Christ Church Sabbath school, Woodbridge. The remains will be interred in Christ Church Cemetery on Saturday, October 12, at 2 p.m.

N. CLARKE WALLACE.

Orange Lodge of British North America, and the R. W. Grand Lodge of Ontario West.
He will be succeeded in the office of Grand Sovereign of the Orange Order of B.N.A. by Dr. T. S. Sproule, M.P., of Markdale, who is Deputy Grand Master.
The members of the Grand Orange Lodge of Ontario West have been requested to attend the funeral of their late Most Worshipful Grand Sovereign.
Sketch of His Career.
Mr. Wallace was perhaps best known in consequence of his connection with the Orange Order, of which he became Grand Master and Sovereign of Canada in 1887. He had been re-elected to that high office every year since that time, a total of fifteen elections. He was also President of the Triennial Conference of Orangemen of the world. Mr. Wallace at all times fought strenuously for the principles of Orangism in the House of Commons. He was one of the "noble 13" who voted for the disallowance of Mercier's Jesuits' estates bill, 1888.
Hon. N. Clarke Wallace was a son of the late Nathaniel and Ann Wallace of Carney, Sligo County, Ireland, who settled at Woodbridge, then called Berwick, in 1833. He was born on May 21, 1844, and was married in June, 1877, to Melinda, youngest daughter of the late James Gilmour of Ottawa. He received his education at the Weston Grammar School. This he turned to account in early life by teaching school for five years. In 1867 he and his brother, Thomas F. Wallace, commenced the business of general merchants in Woodbridge, and later they built the Woodbridge flour mills. Mr. Wallace always took an active part in public affairs, and in 1874 and the four succeeding years was elected first deputy reeve of the Township of Vaughan. Under the old municipal system, this position gave him a seat in the County Council, and in 1878 he was honored with the distinction of being elected Mayor of the town. In this year he forsook political life to engage in Federal politics, and carried West York for the Conservatives by a majority of 202 over Davin Blain, the riding having previously been in the hands of the Reformers for 24 years. He continued to sit as the member for West York from that hour until the hour of his decease, in each contest adding to his majorities until 1896, when he had a majority of 4,068 over John Brown, Patron, and Samuel Platt, Conservative, the largest majority ever given to a candidate in Canada. In the contest of 1900 he defeated Mr. Archibald Campbell by a majority of 820.
The abilities of Mr. Wallace as an administrator were first recognized in 1884, when he was appointed chairman of the Public Accounts Committee of Parliament, and which, later, in 1891 and 1892, were again recognized by his successfully ruling over the stormy proceedings and investigations which took place during those years.
In 1890, Mr. Wallace became the everlasting benefactor of the Orangemen of Canada. In that year, after others had failed, he carried to a successful issue the Orange Corporation Bill. In 1893 Mr. Wallace was appointed a member of the House of Commons, and in this position was known to every business man in Canada. He was an indefatigable worker in his new position, not a mere figurehead only, but one who delved into and became acquainted with all the small details of the department. To both Reformers and Conservatives, Mr. Wallace gave the greatest satisfaction in this position, for on all tariff matters he was so well versed that any suggestion was thoughtfully considered and answered almost spontaneously. Deputations of business men waiting upon Mr. Wallace invariably got an answer, and it was not the stereotyped one so often given to deputations, which runs, "This matter will receive our earnest consideration." Mr. Wallace was a man of ideas, and was frank in giving utterance to them. He disliked hesitancy, and some of his most telling speeches were made against political opponents at a time when their undeveloped policies have been waiting for praise or condemnation by the people of the country. As a speaker he was fluent and forceful, with a strong vein of humor running through his thoughts.
Hon. N. Clarke Wallace passed through six successful electoral campaigns and was once returned by acclamation. His victories were over David Blain, T. Hodgins, Dr. Lind, W. H. P. Clement, S. Platt, John Brown and Archibald Campbell.
Deceased was 57 years of age. A wife, four sons and three daughters survive him. The eldest son, Thomas, resigned a captaincy in the 86th Battalion to serve as a private in the South African war. His second son is Lieut. L. Wallace of the Markham detachment G.G.B.G., and the youngest child is a girl nearing her eighth year. Mr. Wallace was a member of the Church of England, and for 25 years was superintendent of Christ Church Sabbath school, Woodbridge. The remains will be interred in Christ Church Cemetery on Saturday, October 12, at 2 p.m.

N. CLARKE WALLACE.

Orange Lodge of British North America, and the R. W. Grand Lodge of Ontario West.
He will be succeeded in the office of Grand Sovereign of the Orange Order of B.N.A. by Dr. T. S. Sproule, M.P., of Markdale, who is Deputy Grand Master.
The members of the Grand Orange Lodge of Ontario West have been requested to attend the funeral of their late Most Worshipful Grand Sovereign.
Sketch of His Career.
Mr. Wallace was perhaps best known in consequence of his connection with the Orange Order, of which he became Grand Master and Sovereign of Canada in 1887. He had been re-elected to that high office every year since that time, a total of fifteen elections. He was also President of the Triennial Conference of Orangemen of the world. Mr. Wallace at all times fought strenuously for the principles of Orangism in the House of Commons. He was one of the "noble 13" who voted for the disallowance of Mercier's Jesuits' estates bill, 1888.
Hon. N. Clarke Wallace was a son of the late Nathaniel and Ann Wallace of Carney, Sligo County, Ireland, who settled at Woodbridge, then called Berwick, in 1833. He was born on May 21, 1844, and was married in June, 1877, to Melinda, youngest daughter of the late James Gilmour of Ottawa. He received his education at the Weston Grammar School. This he turned to account in early life by teaching school for five years. In 1867 he and his brother, Thomas F. Wallace, commenced the business of general merchants in Woodbridge, and later they built the Woodbridge flour mills. Mr. Wallace always took an active part in public affairs, and in 1874 and the four succeeding years was elected first deputy reeve of the Township of Vaughan. Under the old municipal system, this position gave him a seat in the County Council, and in 1878 he was honored with the distinction of being elected Mayor of the town. In this year he forsook political life to engage in Federal politics, and carried West York for the Conservatives by a majority of 202 over Davin Blain, the riding having previously been in the hands of the Reformers for 24 years. He continued to sit as the member for West York from that hour until the hour of his decease, in each contest adding to his majorities until 1896, when he had a majority of 4,068 over John Brown, Patron, and Samuel Platt, Conservative, the largest majority ever given to a candidate in Canada. In the contest of 1900 he defeated Mr. Archibald Campbell by a majority of 820.
The abilities of Mr. Wallace as an administrator were first recognized in 1884, when he was appointed chairman of the Public Accounts Committee of Parliament, and which, later, in 1891 and 1892, were again recognized by his successfully ruling over the stormy proceedings and investigations which took place during those years.
In 1890, Mr. Wallace became the everlasting benefactor of the Orangemen of Canada. In that year, after others had failed, he carried to a successful issue the Orange Corporation Bill. In 1893 Mr. Wallace was appointed a member of the House of Commons, and in this position was known to every business man in Canada. He was an indefatigable worker in his new position, not a mere figurehead only, but one who delved into and became acquainted with all the small details of the department. To both Reformers and Conservatives, Mr. Wallace gave the greatest satisfaction in this position, for on all tariff matters he was so well versed that any suggestion was thoughtfully considered and answered almost spontaneously. Deputations of business men waiting upon Mr. Wallace invariably got an answer, and it was not the stereotyped one so often given to deputations, which runs, "This matter will receive our earnest consideration." Mr. Wallace was a man of ideas, and was frank in giving utterance to them. He disliked hesitancy, and some of his most telling speeches were made against political opponents at a time when their undeveloped policies have been waiting for praise or condemnation by the people of the country. As a speaker he was fluent and forceful, with a strong vein of humor running through his thoughts.
Hon. N. Clarke Wallace passed through six successful electoral campaigns and was once returned by acclamation. His victories were over David Blain, T. Hodgins, Dr. Lind, W. H. P. Clement, S. Platt, John Brown and Archibald Campbell.
Deceased was 57 years of age. A wife, four sons and three daughters survive him. The eldest son, Thomas, resigned a captaincy in the 86th Battalion to serve as a private in the South African war. His second son is Lieut. L. Wallace of the Markham detachment G.G.B.G., and the youngest child is a girl nearing her eighth year. Mr. Wallace was a member of the Church of England, and for 25 years was superintendent of Christ Church Sabbath school, Woodbridge. The remains will be interred in Christ Church Cemetery on Saturday, October 12, at 2 p.m.

Not Yet a Coquette.
Bertha never seems to know
Just the time I ought to go.
Bertha loves me, that I'm sure;
Bertha's coy—and I'm sure.
Some day she will learn, no doubt,
It's the time to put me out.
May that be a distant day!
When I'm longing most to stay!

Wooden Ware.
"The wooden wedding," said Mr. Henpeck, "is the fifth anniversary, isn't it?"
"Not necessarily," snapped his better seven-eighths. "If one marries a blockhead, the ceremony itself"— But he fled to the cellar before she could finish.

A Cyclone.
Customer—What's the matter? Why is everything so upset? Are you moving?
Clerk—Oh, it's nothing! Mrs. Jones came in to buy a paper of pins awhile ago.

Lucky Poverty.
A certain young fellow named Gough
Celebrated a very loud cough.
Now, he hadn't the dough
To pay doctor's bills, cough
Unaided, he shook the cough out!

Practice Makes Perfect.
She—Ferdie, have you ever loved before?
He (unabashed)—Why, of course, dear, else how could I now love you to perfection?

Views of El Reno.
When the men at the foot of the list go down to pick out their land, they can form some idea of what a woman gets when she is late at a bargain sale.

Night and Morning.
Hope is a beautiful morning plant. Man goes to sleep half dead
And wakes with great and glorious visions buzzing in his head.

She Called on Him.
Speakon—How on earth did you come to get engaged to Miss Strong-mind?
Meekton—I didn't. She came to get engaged to me.

Makes a Difference.
"That girl was flirting hard with me two minutes ago, and now she won't look at me."
"Perhaps that's because she saw me come in. I'm her husband."

The Reason, Perhaps.
We often praise the faithful dog
Whose friendship will not balk.
He never lies nor gossips, but
He never learned to talk.

The Principal Indication.
"I presume you think I'm a hygienic crank because I'm always eating something in the line of health foods."
"Not at all. It's because you are always hungry."

Up to Him.
"Yes, Miss Cutting, that's a fine dog. Would it—aw—surprise you—aw—if I told you that dog knows as much as I do?"
"Not at all."

Uncertainty.
Today thou art a hero grand;
Tomorrow thou art "milk!"
True wisdom in the busy land
Is knowing when to quit.

A Flatterer.
Clara—What an absurd flatterer Mr. Soffle is!
Dora—Did he say you were pretty?
Clara—He said you were.

False.
Auntie—Did your uncle's teeth chatter when he had the chill?
Bobby—No, ma'am; they were being fixed at a time.

A Growing Belief.
The katydid is out again
And nightly doth applaud
The coming frost. Come off the perch!
The katydid's a fraud!