Agriculture the True Source of our wealth
 (Scientific American.)
 It is believed by Mr. James J. Hill, whose life work of developing the unoccupied lands of the United States, has peculiarly fitted him to speak authoritatively on the subject, that the most serious economic question of the future will be to provide the food supply of the 200,000,000 people who will be seeking for homes and work in the United States by the time the present century has run half its course. In the course of an address at the opening of the Annual Agricultural Exposition of the Minnesota State Fair Association, Mr. Hill stated that no nation in history was ever confronted with a more pressing question than that of providing for the 50,000,000 additional population

HIS WIFE'S LUNGS BOTH AFFECTED
 But the Great Consumptive Preventative brought Health and Happiness to his Home

"Our doctor said there was no cure for my wife as both her lungs were affected," says Mr. L. H. Walter, of Pearl Street, Brockville, Ont. "It was a sad disappointment to us both, just starting out in life, only married a short time. But before she had finished the first bottle of Psychine the pain in her lungs quickly went away, and after taking six bottles Mrs. Walter was a new creature and perfectly well again."
 That is just one of the many families into which Psychine has brought hope, health and happiness. It is a living proof that Psychine cures Consumption. But don't wait for Consumption. Cure your LaGrippe, your Cough, your Bronchitis, your Catarrh, or your Pneumonia with the remedy that never fails—fore me in Jerusalem. And whatsoever my eyes desired I kept not from my joy; for my heart rejoiced in all my labour. Then I looked on all the works that my hands had wrought; and on the labour that I had laboured to do; and behold all was vanity and vexation of spirit, and there was no profit under the sun."

IS LIFE WORTH LIVING?
 What is the secret of such a failure in life, such a pessimistic view? This is the secret. Solomon failed to realize the truth of the text, the duty of men; he did not, he could not say, "We keep the charge of the Lord our God."
 Now consult another expert in the art of life—another representative man, the Apostle Paul. He, too, was a brilliant man. It has been said that "the biggest brain of his day was the head that fell on Nero's block in Rome as a martyr for Christ and His cause when Paul was put to death." He was also a man of distinctive position. There were three great powers in the world in Paul's lifetime. In civic affairs Rome was ruler. Paul was a Roman citizen, free born. Grecian learning ruled in letters. Paul was a Greek scholar. The great religious force was in Judaism. Paul was a Hebrew free born. Surely then he was one whose testimony was of value. His experience was very varied. His life was one of trouble, opposition, imprisonment, and keen persecution. But he was a great preacher. A great writer; and a great man. Paul's life was absolutely different from that of Solomon. It was a life of unprincipled, of devotion to God, and of consecration to the highest. Let us ask Paul, "Is life worth living? Is the play worth the price?" What is his verdict?
 He gives it distinctly. He gives it having tried the case fully. A friend of mine, clerk to the justice, once said to me of a magistrate whom he knew well, and I knew better:

"I like him very much in private life; but I hate to see him come on the bench."
 "Why?" I asked.
 "Because," he replied "he is so impatient; he always wants to give his decision, when he has only heard one side of a case."
 "Ah!" I said; "he finds it easy to decide, then, but if he heard both sides, dear man, he would be puzzled."
THE LORD'S CHARGE TO US.
 But Paul knew all sides of the case and having well tried it, he gave his verdict; and it is this: "I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course. I have kept the faith; henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous Judge, shall give me at that day."
 What is the secret of such a triumphant utterance, such an optimistic view? This is the secret: Paul realized the truth of the text, and the duty of man. He could say, "I keep the charge of the Lord our God."

Canadian Apple Trade in Danger
 A movement is on foot, says the Canadian Horticulturist, to bring in large quantities of apples from New York state and store them in Ontario, and later repack them for the British market. The men behind the scheme intend to try and influence the Dominion Government to allow the apples to come to Canada, be stored and packed, and passed through for export without paying duty.

Many Ontario buyers, when they went out to look at the orchards in the Northumberland, Durham and Prince Edward region, found the winter apple crop very short, and the apples that were there had been bought up by a few dealers very early. They found, also, that apples were more plentiful and very much cheaper in New York state. Several of them at the Apple Shippers' meeting in Niagara Falls, August 2 and 3, who had already made trips through New York state, were seriously considering the purchase of large quantities of this stock. It is likely that since that time they have made these purchases, because the prices have gone up in Ontario and have not improved materially in New York state. Just now there appears to be a hitch in the proceedings. These apples, if sold now, would realize little or no profit, since there is a surplus of early summer and fall apples. They cannot be stored in New York, except in the large commercial warehouses, and this is where they ran against a snag. Some of the heavy American apple plungers, it is understood, noting this influx of Canadian apple buyers, proceeded to buy control of all the available cold storage, with the result that now that the Canadians have bought their stock, they can only store it by the giving the prospective agents to the men who control the storage. One of their strong reasons, therefore, for storing at Colborne and Brighton, will be to secure storage, since they cannot procure it cheaply in New York state.

Perhaps a more important reason would be that they could repack the apples during the winter months; and, more important still, they could, possibly, in some way or another, work a lot of them off as Canadian grown apples, and thus receive the enhanced price that such a reputation would give them. Even if they were obliged to declare the country of origin, they could make the fact that they were packed in Canada so prominent that they would receive all the benefits that accrue to Canadians as the result of the enforcement of the Fruit Marks Act.

The effect upon Canadian trade would be to increase the quantity of Canadian packed fruit, and to that extent depreciate the price. Another feature that is not to be overlooked is that we are comparatively free from at least one insect that is altogether too common in New York apples, namely, the "railroad worm," or apple maggot. The railroad worm is comparatively harmless when introduced in a few apples that are consumed within towns and cities; where there is a very small chance of the worm being able to complete its life history and propagate itself the next year; but, if these apples are stored in the frost-proof storehouses of Trenton and Colborne, in the middle of the largest orchards in Canada, it would be a distinct menace to the apple industry, and on that ground, if upon no other, it would be dangerous to store them.

Such action as is proposed would mean loss and injury to our apple trade. A note of protest from apple growers should be sounded from one end of Canada to the other. The scheme should not be tolerated. The government should protect our apple interests by demanding the payment of the regular tariff rate on all apples that come into the country, whether for consumption here or elsewhere.

Jos. Maunder & Son
 Gertrude, was united in marriage to James Bateman Capstick, of Bobcaygeon. When the wedding march was being rendered by the bride's cousin, Miss Pansie Junkin, the bride party took their places in the drawing room, which had been tastefully decorated with ferns and white astors. The happy bride, who was given away by her father, was prettily attired in a gown of cream crepe de paris, and carried a shower bouquet of white roses, while the bridesmaid, Miss Jennie Hamilton, of Toronto, looked charming in a gown of pale blue crepe de chene and carried a bouquet of pink roses. The groom was assisted by the bride's brother, Mr. Geo. Bick. After the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. Mr. Coon, of Bobcaygeon, the guests repaired to the dining room, where a very sumptuous luncheon was served. The tables looked pretty with white flowers and ferns. Amidst hearty congratulations and a shower of rice the happy couple, accompanied by over sixty of their friends, left for the station, where they took the 4.30 train for Lindsay and other points. The bride's travelling suit was of brown ladies' cloth with hat to match.
