Franchise to Seymour Power Co.

The Seymour Power by-law, voted on by the ratepayers of Lindsay yesterday, was carried by a majority of 616 to 184 in every division. Verily, the people spoke out in no uncertain manner, the electors showed faith in the town and in the prominent local citizens who worked so zealously to make sure the passing of the by-law. The people recognized that Lindsay was at the parting of the ways, and that for the past few years the town has been practically at a standstill. It was a case of make or break and the citizens decided emphatically on the progressive policy of a bigger and better Lindsay for the future.

The supporters of the by-law worked hard and despite the interference of Jupiter Pluvius succeeded in getting out a large vote. In fact a larger vote was polled yesterday on election day. Automobiles and other conveyances were pressed into service and were kept busy from nine a.m. till 5 p.m. Perhaps if the opponents to the by-law had worked as hard the Seymour majority might have been greatly reduced. Citizens in general manifested a good deal of interest in the result and the Warder's phones were kept busy after the closing of the booths, and the result was received with delight by a large number. To those who had worked so hard to pass the by-law the outcome was particularly gratifying. It must be remembered that the Seymour Power Company dealt with the town fair and square in all dealings, and it is honestly believed that the town of Lindsay has one of the best bargains in the country in regard to power with a cheaper rate than a great many other towns, certainly much cheaper than towns in western Canada.

In view of the mandate of the people in favor of the power by-law yesterday, it would seem entirely unnecessary for the town council to submit the second by-law, namely the one to buy out the local plant. It would be an unnecessary expenditure of some $100. Below is printed the result of the voting in the various polling divisions:

	For	Against
1 East Ward, Groszelle's office	76	31
2 East Ward, Mrs. Heed's office	106	41
1 South Ward, Martin's Laundry	88	18
2 South Ward, Lindsay's Livery	88	27
3 South Ward, McGeahy's Livery	79	23

1 North Ward, Council Chamber	182	27
2 North Ward, Skitte's shop	79	33
3 North Ward, Horn's office	90	42

Majority for by-law 616.

PLEASANT POINT Pleasant Point, Sept. 26. - Quite a large number from this corner attended Lindsay Central Exhibition

PASSING OF POWER BY-LAW WAS FIRST STEP TOWARDS A BIGGER AND BETTER LINDSAY

(From Saturday's daily) Lindsay a city in 1915. Less than four years, but it can be done—a population of 10,000.

The first decided step in this direction was taken yesterday in the passing of the Seymour Power By-Law. Lindsay is a city in the future to be numbered among the growing and progressive towns of the province. As has been often reiterated there is no reason why this town should not prosper when it is considered, that we have a 1 facilities and that we are splendidly situated. The town has water communication for sixty miles to the east, thirty to the south and forty miles to the north. Lindsay is a railway centre, being the chief centre on the Midland division of the Grand Trunk and on the route of the new C.P.R. Georgian Bay Seaboard grain line; Branch lines of the G.T.R. radiate from the town in all directions, south to Port Hope, east to Bellville, north to Halliburton, (this line connecting with the Tremblay, Ben croft and Ottawa line); south west to Whitby and northwest to Midland giving the town direct communication with Chicago and the Great West. It is expected that radial lines will in the near future be extended to this town and that Lindsay will in time be connected with the Canadian Northern Railway.

Lindsay is also as is generally known, situated in the heart of a rich agricultural community, one of the best in the Province. The dairy business is one of the chief industries of Lindsay, and has long passed the experimental stage. The town lacks large industries, although those already located here are in a healthy condition, but it is confidently expected that with the assistance of Lindsay's new commercial industry, the Seymour Power Co. that manufacturers will be induced to locate here and that this town will soon assume its right place and be ranked among the "fall chimneys" towns.

The business houses of Lindsay are another feature which goes to make up a progressive town. For a town of its size Lindsay cannot be beat for its numerous, large, well-kept and up-to-date stores, and the various stocks carried by the merchants are of the best. Both for business purposes and private residence Lindsay is a most desirable place to locate and The Warder believes that the passing of the power by-law yesterday was but the first step towards a greater and better Lindsay, that the citizens have shaken off the go-as-you-please mantle, have aroused from the rather conservative period of the past and launched bravely with the right foot into the new period—the progressive one. The town from its advantageous surroundings, its commercial facilities, its business opportunities, its advantages as a shipping and distributing point, and the intelligence and refinement of its people, and the thousand and one things that go to make a town a desirable place to reside in, should attract capitalists and business men from far and near; and the outlook for Lindsay is of a most bright and promising character.

Those citizens who generously gave so much of their valuable time in working for the passing of the power by-law are to be commended. They showed a very worthy public spirit and demonstrated their faith by good work, setting an example which citizens in general would do well to pattern by.

The Mayor gives Mayor Beal the credit of being a good fighter and also of being a good loser. He opposed the granting of the franchise to a private company and strongly favored the town purchasing the local plant, establishing municipal ownership, doing so in good faith, and conscientiously believing that he was fighting for the welfare of the town and people. In fact he justly stouly believes that the town miss a golden opportunity, but and a big praise to him for it, he is big enough to let by-gones be by-gones and abide by the mandate of the people.

The fray is over, the people decided, and it is now up to all local citizens to unite forces and work together for a bigger and better Lindsay.

Unfavorable Weather Conditions Interfered With The Verulam Fall Fair

The Verulam fair which was held at Robeygeon on Tuesday and Wednesday, Sept. 26th and 27th, was not as great a success as it would have been owing to bad weather. Many of Lindsay's citizens who look forward to the days when the fair is held to have a pleasant outing in the village of lakes and rivers, were sad at heart and badly disappointed when the morning disclosed a disturbed appearance. The special train which was run from Lindsay with several coaches, carried less than seventy-five passengers. The noon train was fairly well patronized, but not what it should be had the weather been better.

At one o'clock the procession, which was the most admirable feature of the fair, started from the market square. Some thirty or more rigs joined in the turnout in their onward march to the grounds, where the prizes were awarded. The display on the different rigs were intended to represent some branch of agriculture, the prettiest and most representative to receive first prize. A display card on one rig had the words, "Going to the Fair." This was a beautifully decorated rig, having a canopy top covered with maple leaves and trimmed on the side and ends with corn stalks, oat sheaves, crab apples, cabbage and other ornamental articles. Four beautiful young ladies were seated in the rig, giving it the appearance of a veritable fairyland. The fascinating quartette were the Misses Leah Johnston, Hazel Broad, Sueleh Kennedy and Helen Boyd. "Verulam's Wood Industry," created an end of mirth and was successful in carrying off the first prize. This is a feature in fairs and was originated by Mr. Leslie Anderson, a Verulam agriculturist. The outfit consisted of a number of farmer's wives and daughters manufacturing wood into socks and other articles of wear. The picking, carding, knitting and spinning took place right on the rig, and a first-class lot of mauls and matrons made up the party. It would be impossible to give this portion of the attractive program its full merit, but suffice to say it was the best procession of agricultural floats ever seen in this or any other district.

Two ladies on horseback and wearing suits emblematic of the "Red Cross," looked charming and took part in the entries in the riding class. For four in hand and heavy draught Mr. M. Boyd took first prize.

HOUSES. Mr. George Robertson had a pretty carriage horse for which he received second prize. Mr. Fred Warren, of the Scotch line, South Verulam, received first in the same class. Only one entry in the heavy draught three-year-olds, Mr. Ross Kimball, as a matter outside of a possibility, received first honors. Mr. Isaac Deyell, of Lindsay, acted as judge. Six as fine animals as ever looked through a halter took the mark. It taxed the capacity of the judges' mentality to form an opinion as to who should receive the red ticket, but finally Mr. Seymour was awarded the first prize. Mr. Fred Steele showed a fancy pair of chestnut colts two years old. It is needless to say that he carried home some red tickets.

CATTLE. In Hereford cattle Mr. M. Boyd had a good exhibit. They were beauties, fat and fair, as is the only way Mr. Boyd ever kept his animals. They were the admiration of the crowd. Mr. John McDonald and a Mr. Thurston of Verulam had a fine exhibit in the Herefords also.

POULTRY. Mr. George Buller, of Peterboro, had many entries and succeeded in taking home first prizes. Mr. C. B. Tucker, another Peterboro fowl enthusiast, picked up some of the red tickets. He had some fine Buff Cochins birds. Mr. H. J. Lush, of the same town, got in some good work with his many choice fowl. Robeygeon was represented in a good measure by Mr. D. Logan, who received honors by way of first and second prizes.

SHEEP. On the right hand side of the grounds were situated the sheep pens. Here many choice Leicester, Shropshire wools and Southdowns bleated and bled and kept up the usual melody common to the sheep pasture. In Leicesters Mr. James Seymour had a fine pen of elegant young sheep. He makes a specialty of this breed. Mr. John Robertson with his pen of Shropshires carried away five firsts and four second prizes. He has some of the finest stock in the district and his enterprise is commendable.

FANCY WORK AND FRUIT. In the hall a fine display of fruit and vegetables were to be seen. One got the idea after looking over the different cereals, fruits and vegetables that the district can compare with anything in Canada for agricultural products. Upstairs fancy work in profusion could be seen. One very noticeable article on display was a small table decorated with broken china. It was much admired.

RACES. In the green race three entered. Fred Nichol taking first and J. McNeil second. Two entries in this race was novel as the competitors made the circuit at full pace, and on coming to the wire were supposed to unwhit from rig and harness up again. In this race Mr. Fred Nichol took first. Walking competition in teams, six entries. Mr. Wilson, of Robeygeon, took first, and Mr. Levi Kimball second. The part of marshal and did his work in good style. He was highly complimented by the directors for his efficiency.

The Robeygeon band discoursed good music all afternoon. A concert in the hall was given by John A. Kelley, the great entertainer and singer.

Fierce Autumnal Storms Predicted For October

A reactionary storm period, under the combined strain of both earth and Venus equinoxes, is central on the 3rd and 4th, and may be expected to bring a return of storm conditions, with autumnal rain, wind and possibly light snow, northward. Venus lightning and thunder will probably bring in these October periods, followed by rapid change to much colder.

A regular storm period is at its centre, with full moon on the equator, on the 7th. This is one of the most decided storm periods of this month. Violent disturbances should be watched against both in the lake and gulf regions. Rain, wind and thunder will visit most parts of the interior during this period. From the 4th to the 11th, central on the 7th, constitutes a grave seismic period. Snow, northward, rising barometer, and much colder, will wind up this period.

A reactionary storm period falls at the closing of the Venus period, on the 13th, 14th and 15th. Fierce autumnal thunder storms will visit many sections, with high gales over lake regions. High barometer, snow squalls and change to much colder at the culmination of these storms.

A regular storm and mercury periods, the autumnal and mercury periods, extends from the 17th to the 22nd. The crisis of this period will fall on the 20th, 21st and 22nd. Fierce autumnal storms, with lightning and thunder during the first stages, will mark this period. Autumn rains will occur generally at this time, and about the great lakes. Early snow to the north and west, with mercury sleet storms that will hamper and endanger wires and agricultural interests, need not surprise those concerned. Another very decided seismic period reaches on the 18th to 24th, central on the 21st. High north west winds and cold, fair weather will follow this period.

A reactionary storm period will bring in storm changes—low barometer, cloudiness and autumnal rain and wind on the 24th, 25th and 26th. Stubborn cloudiness, persistent tendency to drizzle and sleet, snow and cold will attend and follow these dates. Those who will be forewarned of disagreeable weather and autumnal storms, and make haste with all possible outdoor work, will be winners at this time.

A regular storm period is central on the 20th, and extends from the 28th of October to the 3rd of November. This month will end with weather growing warmer, falling barometer, and cloudiness increasing and advancing from the west. Rains turning to snow in western extremes will be in sight to "official observers," and to those "on the spot," as we enter November.

Our readers must remember that we are compelled to close up these forecast pages early in the month preceding the date of issue, hence we are not able to give the seismic or earthquake record, down to a later date than about one month before the current issue. Or new readers, as well as old, will find our forecasts of all these earthquake disturbances, which were written and printed in our almanac one year and over before they occurred. The forecasts are also reprinted in Word and Works over a month before the occurrence of the earthquakes.

New Memorial Window Dedicated at 'Caygeon

Robeygeon, Sept. 26.—The dedication of the memorial window in the Church of England, together with the consecration of the new baptism by his Lordship Bishop Sweeny, was a very pleasant affair. Besides Rev. F. L. Barber, vicar of the parish; Rev. W. H. A. French, of Fenelon Falls, and others, Mr. W. T. Comber, B.A., headmaster of Hillcrest school, and the donor of the baptism, purchased it while in England last winter. The memorial window is in remembrance of two children which died in 1893. The bishop baptized nine children and preached a very eloquent sermon.

The Bell Telephone Co. have had a number of linemen working here for the past week or ten days putting up a cable in the business section and also making central in Mr. Murphy's shop, next to the True Blue hall. It is expected the change of central from Mr. Bottum's hardware store will be made in the course of a few days.

Millinery openings for the fair are the order. Mrs. Cain had her opening on the 22nd and 23rd, while Mrs. McQuade had her display held for fair dates this week, 26th and 27th. It is needless to say that both shops were decorated out in the latest styles of millinery and prospective customers waited on to the best of taste. Mr. H. M. Harris who was ill with typhoid is around again. This week Mr. Chas. Athill is putting on the paint on the new Methodist Sunday school room. Well, it's all over—the show. It came pretty nearly ending where the most of cabinet ministers did, but survived and pulled out a good second. Regrets were heard on all sides. When the rain started before 6.30 yesterday morning, many resorted to the old saw, that when the rain starts before seven it will clear before eleven. But like elections again all signs fall in dry weather, and at eleven o'clock it was raining beautifully. At the grounds the directors and secretary were taking things philosophically. They had labored hard, had built cattle stalls for the cattle and horse stalls for the horses, and every stall by that time was taken. Over at the new poultry house there was such an exhibit that birds had to be piled indiscriminately together. Mr. D. C. Trew, judge, remarked casually that it was an exhibit which would do credit to any fair. The gate receipts were about $258.50, but according to recent legislation the government will make it up to one-half of the average for three previous years, which will help some, but includes one bad year also. The directors and secretary, Mr. Hickson, are deserving of the praises of all for the work and pains they have taken since last year. If it had been a good day a bumper crowd was assured, but there's no use crying over spilled milk and we wish them better success than ever next year. The concert in the evening drew the biggest house and taxed the town hall to its capacity and overflowing, over $100 being taken in and many being turned away. For a detailed report of fair see article elsewhere in this issue.

The Fair Directors Are Appreciative

Lindsay's fair was the annual show held under the auspices of the South Victoria Agricultural Society. It was in point of attendance, number and quality of exhibits easily the most successful in the history of the society and a large measure of credit is due the citizens of the town of Lindsay and the surrounding country for the interest they continue to manifest. The officers and directors wish through the medium of The Warder to express appreciation of the patronage extended and assistance rendered, and say that their efforts in building up and keeping the organization as perfect as they know how would fall were it not for such assistance.

In conversation with President Carew this morning The Warder was told that this was the Lindsay Central's banner year and that the officers and directors were busy planning for the further betterment of this great annual event.

Anxiety in Britain As To The Outcome

London, Sept. 26.—In Great Britain more than in any other European country outside of the combatants, war between Italy and Turkey, causes apprehension. Damage to Britain's interests and prestige is a factor in the resultant anxiety. The damage is how far the Turks will exercise self-restraint and limit their retaliation to Italy, how far racial and religious feeling may excite them to political activities.

Much the darkest clouds to-night seem to be in the direction of Greece. Strong fear prevails less Turkish pride and the necessity for the Young Turks' Government to gain popularity may incite the Government to show that it also can play the game of aggression, and demand Greece to give up here claims on Crete.

British officials are more concerned over the possibilities of trouble in the Balkans and Greece than with the actual conflict over Tripoli. The theory gains ground here that Italy's stroke is the last act of the program agreed upon by the powers of the Triple Alliance, that it was arranged when Austria took Bosnia and Herzegovina, and Italy only waited an opportune moment to carry it into execution.

Austria's acquisition of the two provinces, German's forward movement in Morocco and Italy's compensating campaign nearby are interpreted by unfriendly observers as too logical to be considered as mere independent acts. Britain's hands are tied officially in the present strained relations in Europe. The Government cannot afford to incur enmity of either belligerent by taking sides with the other. Yet her neutrality means a loss of influence with Turkey, which she has been struggling to retain since the beginning of the Young Turk regime.

The Farmers Bank was given judgment for $50,000 in a claim against George Wishart.

There is much anxiety in Britain as to possible complications in Greece and the Balkans.
