A Montreal detective caught signals from a window and rescued two girls from white slavers.
Thomas M. Osborne, who spent a week of voluntary imprisonment in Auburn penitentiary, says the prison system of New York State is a form of slavery.

Missouri maids from 15 to 45 years old have better luck getting married than men of the same ages; the statistics showing that there are 141 single men in the State to every 100 maidens.
Brookline, Mass., said to be the richest town in the world per capita, does not permit moving pictures. The children of wealthy parents must find other amusement. They know nothing of the delights of the "movies."

Incensed at the idea that Pastor Russell has imposed on many newspapers throughout the country, inasmuch as they print the pastor's sermons each week, the Winnipeg Ministerial Association, after listening to a scathing denunciation of the methods of Pastor Russell by Rev. G. B. Wilson, decided that the press should be notified that Pastor Russell is an "unscrupulous faker."

Mrs. Hugh A. Ellis, whose husband occupies the pulpit in Waverley Road Baptist Church, Toronto, looks after the children of church members so that parents may hear the preaching. "You see, I am a mother myself," she explained, "and being a victim to my two children I thought I might relieve the other victims."

JOY IN PROSPECT.

Why talk of the "war of the sexes"? As though men and women were foes?
Such chatter the spirit but vexes And might lead to quarrels and blows.
We're all of us sisters and brothers, With no cause for quarrels or strife,
And what blesses one blesses others— Louisa will soon be my wife!

Louisa says: "Let's make concessions;
From each is some sacrifice due, You give me your worldly possessions,
And I'll give my kinfolds to you!" Ah, love will hostility banish!
So nothing but joy will be known, And all forms of sorrow will vanish,
When I make Louisa my own!
An era of bliss is now due man, 'Twill come when we follow this plan:
Let the bankbook be kept by the woman, The cookbook be read by the man!
Then the lamb shall lie down with the lion, And all shall be happy and free,
And a great peace shall come upon Zion
When Louisa is married to me! THAT PRESENT.

DUNSFORD

Dunford, Oct. 13.—Mrs. Wm. Harper, a young life of 24 years, passed peacefully from our midst at her home in Dunford Saturday afternoon. Despite the skill of the attending physician and the kind care and attention of the nurse the deceased passed away after only about four days' sickness. The late Mrs. Harper was born in London, England, and for a number of years resided with her parents there, coming to Canada about four years ago. Mrs. Harper was highly respected by all her acquaintance since she came to Canada. The funeral took place Sunday afternoon. Service at the house at 1 o'clock, conducted by the Rev. W. J. Smyth. The late remains were carried to the Dunford cemetery by the following twelve pall-bearers, six being of the old land, Messrs. T. Chatten, L. Hadden, A. Hadden, C. Laplain, F. Golden, V. Bullbank, Hazel Thurston, Irwin Thurston, Ted Bell, Laurence Robertson, Verne Kennedy and Alex. Kennedy. Left to mourn her loss is a loving husband, Master Ernest and baby girl. Deepest sympathy is felt for the bereaved in the hour of sorrow.

Miss G. Day, of Toronto, is visiting Mr. Silas Thurston.
Mr. Oscar and Miss Gladys and Ruby Stewart, of Lindsay, spent Sunday with Mr. W. J. Thurston.

Various Things For Which One May Hang

Charles Gibson's commutation of sentence will, no doubt, bring up, once more, for discussion, the whole question of capital punishment. And it is curious to note how the offences for which the death penalty may be imposed differ in different parts of the British Empire, and even in different parts of the United Kingdom. In Canada, it may be imposed, not only for murder, but also for treason, for shooting, stabbing, or throwing corrosives, in such cases as, if death had, in fact, ensued, the offence would have been murder.
IN FOREIGN COUNTRIES.
In foreign countries the greatest diversity prevails as to the offences for which, and the modes in which, capital punishment may be imposed. In some countries capital punishment does not obtain at all. Among these are Italy, Norway, Holland, Roumania, Portugal, Russia (except in cases where the lives of the Czar, Czarina, or heir to the throne are concerned). In Germany capital punishment can be imposed only for attempts on the life of the Emperor, or for deliberate murder, as opposed to murder which, though intentional, is not deliberate. In Spain the death penalty is rarely imposed, the customary punishment for a murderer being to imprison him in chains for life.
In all the different States of the DIFFERENT MODES OF DEATH.

In the British Dominions the mode of inflicting the death penalty is by hanging. In Belgium and France it is by the guillotine, in Spain by the garrote, in Germany and Denmark by the axe. In those of the United States which permit capital punishment the mode of executing it is usually by hanging. But in four States, namely, New Jersey, Virginia, New York and Massachusetts, the death penalty is carried out by means of electrocution.

RAIN.
Rain is a wet article which falls with great enthusiasm just when somebody is trying to pull off a lawn party. It bears a close resemblance to water, and is sometimes used as a substitute by people who prefer to take their microbes in a raw state. Rain is a very uncertain quantity with everybody except the weather bureau experts, who can always tell where it is going to light if they see it headed their way. There are several distinct varieties of rain, all of which are quite moist. A least obtrusive of these is dew, a substance used by Robert W. Chambers to make some very amusing daisy eyes and dewless morns. A great deal of poetry has been written about the dew, but nobody ever mentions its effect upon the paper sold pump and the crinoline petticoat. Another sort of rain is the Kansas thunder storm, which is a distant relative of the Japanese typhoon, and step-father to the double-faced wash-out, the spring freshet and the lightning rod industry. The most devastating form of rain is the cloud-burst, which always waits until the score is tied in the ninth inning before mingling with the spectators.

In the arid regions people get tired of waiting for rain and go after it with dynamite and protracted meetings, while over in the rain belt farmers have to cultivate their corn in a row boat.
Hail is rain in pill form, and is a silent partner of the plate glass trust.
Snow is a chilblained form of rain which perspires freely in the spring and prevents the accumulation of dust on the country roads.
One of the most appetizing varieties of rain is the summer shower, which fills the cisterns of the plain people with hope and decayed vegetation.
Suffragettes interrupted the Sunday morning service in Westminster Abbey.
