Defeat May Mean a New Leader

Ottawa, Oct. 12.—Consternation reigns among Ottawa Liberals over the loss of Chateauguay. Consternation is a mild word. The turnover in this old Liberal riding has thrown the Opposition headquarters' organization into utter disorder. The far-reaching significance of yesterday's verdict is clearly recognizable even by the most confident and aggressive of the Laurier lieutenants. The defeat in Chateauguay and the prospect of defeat in both East Middlesex and South Huron will, it is believed, necessitate a complete reconstruction of the Opposition and the adoption of a platform upon which the scattered forces of Liberalism can come together for a fresh start, probably under a new leadership.

The friends of Hon. Sydney Fisher who helped to force his candidature upon the unwilling Liberals of Chateauguay are now saying that he did not expect to win, that he was simply getting a foothold in the riding with a view to running there again in the general election, his own County of Brome having served notice upon him that he cannot get the nomination there. This, of course, is not the case. The defeat of Saturday can hardly be said to have given Mr. Fisher a foothold in Chateayguay. The Laurier opposition made the fight of their lives in Chateauguay, fighting to win now, and not at a general election in the distant future.

DROPPING THE DOCTOR.

A doctor sent a damsel a prescription for a kiss;
'Twas a pleasing little caper, you'll admit,
He was hoping for the favor of the fascinating miss;
But he failed to make the necessary hit.

Her immediate procedure killed the doctor's dream of bliss;
When he heard about the matter he was chilled.
For the girl took the prescription he had sent her for a kiss
To a very handsome druggist to be filled.

OLD FOLKS' CONCERT.

How the Grown Ups of a Western Town Entertain.

It was in the West — one corner of the Canadian West—and the old people—in other words, the married people—were to give a concert in the school house. The youngsters had their chance the week before, but this was to outshine anything and everything ever given in the little prairie settlement where the roses bloom for months and the wind blows always and forever.

Such a mixture of talent! The tall young homesteader who came from Los Angeles, the nasal-twanged Yankee from Vermont, the tall, gaunt Minnesotan who sang "Me, He Like 'Melican Man," and who swore always that it was impossible for a man who drank black tea to be a Christian or tell the truth! There were blonde Norwegians and blonder Swedes, people from Eastern Canada, folks from Missouri, and all the varied conglomerate terminating in a colored woman, who came straight from New York City, and whose husband always averred that he himself was the meanest kind of a mean mixture—Mexican, Spanish, Scotch and Narragansett Indian—a direct descendant of old King Philip.

After the ceremony of choosing a Chairman, which resulted in the selection of "Grandpa Willetts," that rare sight on the prairie—a white-bearded, venerable patriarch—the program opened with a song in German by Mrs. Gross. It was unintelligible, of course, to most of the audience, but the tune was the old hymn, "Mercy is Free," so we took it for granted the words meant the same. Then Olaf Moe, a Norwegian, sang something that he assured us was "The Boy Stood on the Burning Deck." It was a rolling, roaring, crashing succession of consonants, delivered in a mighty voice, and received prolonged applause. Olaf's repertoire being exhausted, he responded with an encore by reciting the same thing, to the entire satisfaction of everybody. The skittish mother of nine children next rendered a ditty, in which she warbled gaily of the birds, but it took quite a stretch of imagination to reconcile her ample proportions and discordant voice with anything bird-like. She was followed by a prosperous farmer from Iowa, who sang, "Honey, You Look Awful Good to Me." His wife and two grown-up sons and a daughter of fourteen were in the audience, all ready to guy him unmercifully if he broke down, so Fred went to it, ready to do or die. The schoolmaster accompanied him on the organ, and all went swimmingly to the refrain, when the singer feeling more sure of his ground, began to sing the words very languishingly, casting tender glances at a pretty girl in the audience just to show his "folks" he could act as well as sing. It went all right till he went to turn the music back to begin the second verse, when he tore the leaves, became excited, and said in a harrie undertone to the teacher: "Play some thing, for heaven's sake, until I get these leaves straight." The teacher played bravely away, "Diddle de dump, de diddle de dump," till at last Fred found the place, lamely finished the song, and got away to his seat to be roasted by his family. A long, lanky, slow-moving Swede and his brisk, perky little wife were called upon to sing. Slowly producing a diminutive hymn book from his pocket, Olaf found the place, and gave the book to the organist. But a difficulty arose, and a babel of Scandinavian dialect ended in the little woman being summarily sent to her seat by her lord and master. The Chairman intervened and Olaf explained: "She haf not got her specs." Grandpa Willetts offered his. The little woman smilingly took her place once again, and they warbled twenty verses or so, Olaf leaning over the organ and Mrs. Olaf peeking over his shoulder whenever she could get a chance to do so, and singing lustily. Later on an old Dutch gentleman, small of stature and very dignified, sang with gravity about twenty-seven verses, telling of a cottage by the river. He never once smiled, but the school teacher's wife did — unfortunately, because nearly everyone saw her, and teachers' wives are supposed to be models of propriety in small communities such as that. It's almost as bad as being a minister's wife in a small town! Then the bald-headed S. S. superintendent sang "My Grandmother's Chair," and the applause was deafening.

What pen could do justice to the performance of the dear, motherly soul from Malmi, Sweden—(being childless, she mothered everyone, little and big, and we all loved her)—who stood up, and, placing her hand on her heart in the most tragic manner, commenced to recite in her own language—and, of course, we English-speaking people understood not a word, but from the gravity of Mrs. Yonson's expression we supposed it must be something awfully serious, and we never smiled a single smile. Afterward she confided to us in her broken English that the subject of her discourse was "The Bride's Congratulation," and she intended saying so before reciting, but, "When I look round and see so many people a lump come up in my throat, and I vas scared, and could not! It vas a pity. Such a shame!"

THE FALL WEATHER HARD ON LITTLE ONES.

Canadian fall weather is extremely hard on little ones. One day it is warm and bright and the next wet and cold. These sudden changes brings on colds, cramps and colic, and unless baby's little stomach is kept right the result may be serious. There is nothing to equal Baby's Own Tablets in keeping the little ones well. They sweeten the stomach, regulate the bowels, break up colds and make baby thrive. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Canada's Trade.

The Trade and Commerce Department at Ottawa was in receipt the other day of the annual report of the British Board of Agriculture and Fisheries, which contains a good deal of information that will be welcomed by Canadian exporters as indicating the growing capacity of the British market. The importation of live animals to the United Kingdom has been gradually declining and the tendency has been to replace this trade by the importation of dead meat.

The value of live cattle imported in 1912 was less than $5,000,000, while in 1897 it was ten times this amount. The United States supplied 39,98 head of the imports last year, Canada 6,880, and the Channel Islands 2,125.

Canada has disappeared as an exporter of butter. There was only exported to Great Britain 27 cwts., as compared with 62,000 cwts. in 1911. Canada still fairly holds its own in cheese exports, sending in 1912 1,353,000 cwts. New Zealand's cheese exports are growing, reaching last year 544,000 cwts.

The importation of wheat into the United Kingdom in 1912 was the largest yet recorded. There was a big increase in the imports from Canada, the total being 21,550,000 cwts. as against 14,370,000 cwts in 1911.

Big Answer for Canadian.

Madame Curie, the discoverer of radium, who attended the meetings of the British association at Birmingham, Eng., spent much of her time in England with Dr. Rutherford, professor of physics, at Liverpool University. This is explained by the fact that Dr. Rutherford has been carrying on certain experiments in radio-activity from which Madame Curie expects great things. In this connection she said recently: "Dr. Rutherford is the one man living who promises to confer some inestimable boon on mankind as the result of my discovery of radium. I would advise England to watch him. His work in radio-activity has surprised me. Great developments are likely to transpire shortly to which the discovery of radium was only preliminary."

THE TORTURES OF RHEUMATISM

DRIVEN FROM THE SYSTEM BY DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS.

The sufferer from rheumatism who has not gone about curing himself in the right way must expect a return of the torture with every change to cold or damp weather. It is not the change in the weather that causes the rheumatism, but it does start the aches and pains. Rheumatism is a deep-seated disorder of the blood. You cannot possibly cure it with outward applications or hot fomentations as so many people in their ignorance of the real cause of the trouble try to do.

Rheumatism can only be driven out of the system by driving out the poisonous acid in the blood. This can only be done by making the blood supply rich, red and pure. It is in this way that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure rheumatism, even after other remedies have failed. These Pills make rich, red blood; they go right to the root of the trouble, and the pains and aches are driven from the system and will not return il the blood supply is kept pure. That is the whole secret of curing rheumatism, and if you are a sufferer begin to cure yourself to-day by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Among the many sufferers from rheumatism who have been cured by this medicine is Miss Mary D. Kelly, South Dummer, Ont. Miss Kelly says: "Some time ago I had a very bad attack of rheumatism. At times I would be confined to bed for a couple of days and would seem almost paralyzed with the intense pain in my back and legs. At such times I could not walk, and my joints were stiff and swollen. I consulted different doctors and took their medicine, but did not get more than temporary relief. At this time a neighbor advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I got a supply. After taking a few boxes I found they were greatly helping me, and I continued their use until the trouble completely disappeared. I can strongly recommend this medicine to others who suffer as I did from the pangs and tortures of rheumatism."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail, post paid, at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

HANGMAN ELLIS LOST A JOB

Toronto, Oct. 9. —While Charles Gibson was awaiting the final decision of the Cabinet at Ottawa, Hangman Ellis, who was chosen to perform the task of swinging him into eternity, arrived in the city fully prepared to carry out his part of the contract. He reached the city from Prince Rupert, where he has been spending the summer, and registered at one of the leading hotels under an assumed name.

"This is always my policy," said Ellis to a newspaper man. "I travel in a quiet sort of way and discuss matters of current interest, but my identity is seldom discovered."

At this juncture the official executioner produced a baggage check for a satchell containing the paraphernalia which he uses in connection with the execution of a condemned man.

"TRAVESTY ON JUSTICE."

"It is just possible that I will not have to unpack the satchell," he said, "because it will not be the first time that I have had to do so at the eleventh hour and forty-ninth second. If the Cabinet has decided to commute the sentence in this case, it is certainly contrary to my expectations. In a few words, my feeling is that it is a travesty on justice in every sense of the word. While I have been out in the far west I have been keeping in touch with the case, and I have come to the conclusion that the condemned has been the subject of others anxious to advertise their wares in the form of a game of chance."

"If I am permitted to carry out my part of the contract, said Ellis, "I will have been the official executioner at 307 hangings. To be frank, the sympathy appeal has reached its limit; in fact it has extended beyond the bounds of reason. I am afraid it has reached the stage where it is detrimental to the carrying out of justice."

"What are your feelings when called upon to pull the trap?" asked the reporter.

CALLS IT A "HUMANE DUTY."

"It is a humane duty," responded Ellis. "In the ordinary way of performing the duty I have always made a business to obliterate sympathy or sense of feeling. The execution occupies a matter of about fifty seconds, in fact the condemned man has but little time to think. When I spring the trap my mind is relaxed and I have the feeling that I am ten years younger. I do not allow sympathy to interfere with my official duty, and if others balk at doing it, I always feel that I am justified in performing the task. I have always figured that it is the best to carry out the execution with the greatest rapidity after the condemned man has taken his place upon the trap door."

LITTLE POLLY'S POME.

October.

I do not like the poets who
Write lines about October,
And always say it makes them blue,
Because it rhymes with sober.

October is a lovely time,
All crimson, brown and golden,
Both here or in a foreign clime
Its lovely for beholding.

Of course, some days it may be cold
When sunlight is not shining,
Yet every cloud will have a gold
Or else a silver lining.

I do not mind its clouds a bit,
But welcome it quite hearty,
Because my birthday comes in it,
And I will have a party.

COMMON THINGS:

The common things of life are all so dear;
The walking in the soft half gloom,
To find again the old familiar room,
The scents and sights and sounds that never tire,
The homely work, the plants, the lilt of baby's laugh,
The crackle of the open fire,
The waiting, then the footsteps coming near,
The opening door, the handclasp and the kiss,
Is Heaven not, after all, the now and here?
The common things of life are all so dear. —Anon.

The Lowering of Tariff

The free admission of meats and a tendency to lower the price of cattle to the United States will have cattle in the American market, but Ontario will benefit thereby, for a time at least. The advantage will be especially marked in rough hogs and animals of that calibre which have always commanded a much higher price across the border than in Canada owing to the great demand for bologna meat.

In many ways the new tariff will mean better prices and an enlarged output for certain products. Oats have jumped up two cents per bushel as a result of the new bill and barley trade should develop once more.

The following is a list of the chief agriculture products which will enter the United States free under the new tariff: Cattle, sheep, swine, eggs, rye and rye flour, buckwheat and buckwheat flour, beeswax, broom corn, corn and cornmeal, furs and skins, horse hair, hop roots, lard, fresh meats, milk and cream, wool.

Wheat and flour are to be free from all countries which admit American wheat and flour duty free, otherwise the duty is to be 10c. per bushel, on wheat and 45c. per barrel on flour.

Potatoes are to be admitted free from any country which admits American potatoes duty free. Otherwise the duty is to be 10 per cent.
