New York, Oct. 16.—A report was circulated yesterday that Charles Becker, formerly commander of Commissioned Waldo's strong arm squad expected the court of appeals to sustain his conviction on the charge of murder, and in that event he would be willing, in return for a pardon, to tell District Attorney Hitman all he knows about the man "higher up" in the police department.

MAKES VALUABLE FIND (?)

Mr. John Jordan has a piece of white rock on display in the meat store of Mr. M. O'Halloran which he picked up in a field north of Cambridge one day last week. The rock is of the Huron kind and appears to be rich in grains of the glorious. If on being assayed it proves as valuable as he anticipates he will endeavor to purchase the property upon which he made the valuable find.

BOURASSA SAYS THAT LIBERALS ARE DOOMED.

Montreal, Oct. 16.—"The verdict given by the Chateauguay is the answer of the Province of Quebec to Mr. Laurier's two-squadron policy." Thus concludes Henri Bourassa, the Nationalist leader, in his comment to-day on the results of Saturday's election. His article is headed, "A Well-Deserved Lesson," and he writes:

"The result marks the complete loss of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's influence on the people of Quebec; it indicates that unless the Liberal party makes radical changes to its direction, its program and its tactics, it is doomed to impotence for a period of at least fifteen years."

POSTMASTERS INCREASE. Ottawa, Oct. 16.—At present the minimum salary to rural postmasters is $85 per year. Hon. Mr. Pelletier has decided to increase this to $50 per year. Repeated representations were made to the old Government on behalf of the rural postmasters, but were ignored. Since assuming office Mr. Pelletier has done much to improve the postal service, and at the same time has also improved the conditions of the employes in this work by increasing the salaries of the letter carriers and the railway mail clerks. He has now granted this increase to rural postmasters.

HE EATS IN THE SHED NOW. The following tale is from Ellice, and is vouched for by a prominent resident of that township:

An employe of Mr. D. A. Dempsey, while returning from seeing his "supposed-to-be" near Wartburg, Sunday night, mistook a skunk in the moonlight for a rabbit, which he captured and immediately became vaporized. The capture was of short duration. He now sleeps in the open air and takes his meals in the woodshed.—Stratford Herald.

Sulzer Guilty of Grave Charges

Albany, N.Y., Oct. 16.—William Sulzer, the first Governor of the State of New York to be impeached, will be removed from office to-morrow, unless he should resign before the High Court of Impeachment has finished its deliberations.

The action of that exalted tribunal to-day in finding him guilty under three out of four of the eight articles of impeachment on which a vote was taken clearly foreshadows the political doom of William Sulzer. The High Court of Impeachment will convene again to-morrow to bring its labors to a close. At that time a vote will be taken on the four remaining articles in the impeachment against Mr. Sulzer. It is predicted that the verdict will run against him on article 6, in which he is charged with the crime of grand larceny in diverting thousands of dollars contributed to his campaign to stock speculation.

RESULT OF ROLL-CALLS. The result on the four roll-calls taken to-day were as follows: On article one, in which Mr. Sulzer is charged with violation of the corrupt practices act in filing a false statement of campaign receipts and expenditures, thirty-nine voted guilty and eighteen not guilty.

On article two, in which Mr. Sulzer was accused of perjury in swearing to the false campaign statement, the vote was the same. On article three, which charges Mr. Sulzer with violating section 2,400 of the penal law in attempting to bribe Louis A. Sarecky and others to induce them not to give testimony regarding the administration of the Sulzer campaign fund and the use of said fund for stock speculation, every member of the High Court voted not guilty.

On article four, which charges the respondent with violating section 814 of the penal law in practicing "fraud and deceit, threats and violence," an attempt to prevent the Frawley committee from procuring true testimony, forty-three members of the High Court voted guilty and fourteen not guilty.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

IN THE POULTRY YARD.

Before the rainy days come put up a good supply of road dust, to be used for dusting purposes by the poultry during the winter. Two or three barrels will be found to be necessary for even a moderate-sized flock, says Suburban Life. If road dust is hard to obtain, fine loam will do; in fact some fowls seem to prefer it.

October is a good month in which to lay in a supply of leaves for scratching purposes, dried clover and lawn clippings, and also some vegetables, such as mangels, turnips and cabbages, for green food during the winter months. Some of the vegetables may often be obtained at very reasonable prices in the fall, and successfully stored for use later on. If cabbages can be had, for instance, they can be kept by spreading them out on the north side of the house and covering them a foot or more deep with leaves or hay.

Small potatoes may also be used for poultry, provided they are cooked. If you put up leaves for the scratching litter, be sure to keep them in a dry place. Straw makes a good litter for scratching also, but experienced poultrymen prefer rye straw to wheat straw.

Commence feeding grain in the litter when you put the fowls into their winter quarters, which should be soon. It is best to get the pullets, for instance, accustomed to their new quarters before they start to lay. If the pullets are slow in commencing to lay, it is probable that they need a little fresh meat or green bone.

A good mash for pullets about to lay is composed of wheat bran, middlings and ground oats, mixed equally, by weight, with two pounds of beef scraps added to every 25 pounds of this mixture. Dampen it so that it will crumble in your hands. Weed out your flock this month and get rid of the weaker specimens, as it is better to have a small selected lot than a large lot of drones.

Get the poultry-house into good shape as early as possible. Fix broken glass and putty up knot holes to prevent draughts. If you have open front houses, do not put down the curtains until it is absolutely necessary. Choose the birds from which you will breed next season. Select those which are now in the best condition and which have made the most rapid growth.

The Work and The Pay

"Anybody who works for a living is a 'sucker.' A good hard luck story will get money on the street any time."

So says a professional beggar who for years has played easy "suckers" and, as he imagines, without working. But the chances are that to catch his "suckers" he has had to work harder than many an honest man who makes a good living. And now he is in the poor house. It is harder to beg a dollar than to earn one, says the Montreal Mail. It is harder to frame a plausible lie than to tell the truth; harder to appeal to generosity than to business sense.

AFFECTION FOR HOSPITAL ATTACHE ENDS IN NURSE'S SUICIDE. Edinburgh, Oct. 16.—Miss Jane Melrum, a nurse at the Roslynne asylum, twelve miles from here—a strikingly handsome girl, described as the most beautiful woman in the Lothians—was found drowned in a pond in the asylum grounds.

It was twelve hours after they had gone to their room before the outside world had any intimation of the terrible thing that had been done. Shortly after noon to-day, Mr. Ebersole called up Ellis at the hotel to enquire about a luncheon engagement. He got Ellis on the telephone, but the latter's conversation was so fragmentary and wild that Ebersole took alarm. Ebersole then called up manager Franking of the hotel and asked him to investigate.
