LETTERS FROM OUR CORRESPONDENTS

WOODVILLE

Don't fail to call on Dr. Nee'lada, dentist, of Lindsay, at the Queen's Hotel, Woodville, on Tuesday, Nov. 12th. Remember date and call in forenoon.

Cinnamon & Everson, the new hardware merchants of Lindsay, are gaining customers every day and no wonder, when they are selling hardware, stoves, paints, oils, glass, etc., so much cheaper than other dealers. Try them.

MOUNT HOREB

Farmers in this section are through with their root harvest. Good hound for sale. Enquire at the Elliott house.

Mr. McFarlane takes charge of our school during the ensuing term. Mr. Blackwell goes to the Normal. We wish him success.

The stoves and ranges that Cinnamon & Everson, the new hardware men of Lindsay, are selling require so little fuel to keep them going that their customers will not require to buy near the quantity of fuel they have been accustomed to for their old stoves.

OAKWOOD

It pays to buy your hardware supplies at Cinnamon & Everson's, Lindsay.

The creamery will start up again next Monday, 13th inst., to make butter. Milk will be taken in at 8 o'clock a. m. on Monday, Wednesday and Friday each week all winter. An offer has been made for the November make of butter for export at 20 cents per lb. This is a higher figure than dairy butter can be sold at after deducting the cost of making.

LITTLE BRITAIN

You can save from $3 to $10 in buying a stove at Cinnamon & Everson's, Lindsay.

Last Sunday Eld. Garbutt preached a sermon from the text: Hebrews 13:3. "Jesus Christ is the same yesterday and to-day, yea and forever." His discourse was full of hope for the children of man. He exhorted his hearers on account of their God-like nature to give God their hearts, never to forget the exalted nature of humanity made in the image of God and surrounded by privileges great and inspiring. He also announced that next Sunday, Nov. 12th, at 11 o'clock a. m. he would preach a sermon of the "one body." Ephesians 4:4. We look for a clear definition of the church of God. If one—and one only—the scriptures must define it.

FENELON FALLS

It pays to buy your hardware supplies at Cinnamon & Everson's, Lindsay.

Mr. P. Sova moved with his family to Fieshterton, last week.

Was the promise kept on both sides? It was on one.

Mr. Robson returned home last week after spending the summer at French river.

We are pleased to state that Rev. R. C. H. Sinclair is rapidly recovering from recent bad accident.

Mr. J. Aldous' pretty little black horse "Lucille," broke from the stable and enjoyed quite a short run before it was captured without the least injury.

It was with regret that the news of the destruction of the Presbyterian church in Bobcaygeon by fire, was received in Fenelon Falls.

Dr. F. A. Walters, dentist, Lindsay, will be at the Twomey House on Tuesday next, Nov. 14th, from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. Those requiring first-class dental work should make a note of the date.

A friendly game of polo was played in the grounds of the south ward school on Monday afternoon between the school boys of the north ward school and those of the south ward. The game resulted in a tie.

The lecture given by the Rev. Thos. Manning, B.A., of Lindsay, in Fenelon Falls on Monday evening was well attended, and all who attended speak in highest terms of the talented lecturer. The lecture was a celebration of the Gunpowder Plot, and later in the evening some choice spirits made the streets resound with fog-horns and other sweet sounds, whilst they burned Guy Fawkes in effigy.

NO. 6 OPS

Mrs. W. Paltrey is still under medical treatment and slowly recovering.

From an attack of brown ague and a severe cold Mr. John McGaughey is tucked away in good warm blankets.

Mr. T. Currins of North Ops spent Sunday last visiting at the home of Mr. S. Parkins.

Mr. Harris Milligan had the index finger of his right hand badly torn while making some change on Mr. T. Downey's chopper at Reboro on Saturday last.

The many friends of Mr. Robt. Montgomery express deep sympathy for his eldest son Wesley, an exceedingly clever boy, who met with a painful accident on Saturday night in Lindsay.

Mr. Jas. Connolly, district agent for the Deering Co., paid the locality a business visit last week and succeeded in taking many orders for binders and mowers.

Mr. Anthony McGlynn a man who was never sick during his lifetime was forced to cancel outside engagements lately, and spends much time reading the latest almanacs on the cause and cure for rheumatism.

The boys say that Dave has grown weary of laying his burthen at the bottom of the hill, and on Sunday last repaired to the home of his dearest near Omemeo, there to seek solace. Accordingly he started by rapid transit behind the by mare reaching the village just as the sun went down. There he was met by many of the gentle ones who pronounced him "just spiff" as they fastened their eyes on the athletic form of the big fellow from the neighboring township. He was asked to come back in daylight for examination and if up to the standard he likely make application for a certificate permitting of his joining the suffering martyrs of the hen-pecked brigade.

ANGORA GOAT PRODUCTS.

Many Ways in Which the Animal is Useful.

"The Angora goat," says William R. Payne, the well known dealer in mohair and goat skins, "has only been cultivated in this country about 50 years. Few people know its value and fewer still know that mohair is the fleece of this animal. The Angora has not yet obtained a status in agricultural journals. Yet it is one of the most valuable of animals, for its fleece, pelt and carcass, and one of the easiest and cheapest to cultivate. There are in the whole country now probably about 300,000 head of Angoras including all degrees of blood near and remote. Of these probably not over one-third can be called 'high' grade even by courtesy. Of pure blood there is none, except possibly a flock in a remote region, which has been kept intact from cross breeding, but has been inbred since 1876. Of imported animals from Turkey since 1849 there have come into the country, so far as records show, about 350 Angora rams and ewes, many of them of doubtful blood. Of really high character and grade probably not over 80 rams, all told, have come from Turkey.

"From this foundation has been bred up the present stock. Between cross breeding and in breeding whatever pure blood there was has been pretty well eliminated, and the crying need now is for good, pure, sound, first class fresh bucks, a registry farm and a new start. It needs some brains, energy and money put into it to make it one of the best paying industries there is. Unfortunately the constituency behind the Angora in the United States today has not a large vote like that back of the sheep. Up to date it has been treated like any old goat in Shantytown—as not worth the stone that is thrown at it. It is impossible to get animals from Turkey without a strong pressure from government and diplomatic sources.

"The most important product of the Angora is the long silky, wavy fleece used either pure or in connection with wool, silk, linen or cotton in a variety of fabrics for house furnishing and ladies' goods, brilliantines, linings, braids, plushes, astrakhan cloth, furniture coverings, curtain material, knit goods, fancy effects in shawls and dress goods and numerous other textiles. Its value ranges for foreign from 45 to 50 cents a pound and for domestic from 25 to 35 cents. There are consumed annually here about 1,000,000 to 1,250,000 pounds, of which the bulk has to be imported, as only about 250,000 to 300,000 pounds of the domestic product are long enough and of character to suit manufacturing needs. The short, low and cross bred hair is used for blankets, lap robes, rugs, carpets and low goods generally, but even then is worth more per pound than most sheep wool, varying from 10 to 21 cents. The wools for mohair are increasing every year, and new outlets are being found for it as manufacturers are advancing in the variety of their products.

"Angora skins properly dressed, are used white or tinted to manufacture rugs, robes, carriage mats, fur sets for children, trimming for ladies' furs, and also for dusters, horse head tassels, doll hair and wigs. They are mostly imported raw from the Cape of Good Hope and Turkey, and range in value, duty paid, from $1.50 up to $3.50 each, undressed. Domestic skins are in a very limited supply and are worth from 50 cents each for kids up to $2 each for large full fleeced pelts. The low, cross bred, common skins and short pelts not suitable to dress are used by morocco and glove leather manufacturers and are worth from 15 to 18 cents a pound for large sizes, down to 10 and 11 cents for small ones and kids.

"The flesh of the Angora is said to be excellent mutton and pronounced as good as Southdown. It is quite largely eaten in the west and in the east also, if people only knew it. There is a prejudice against the name of goat meat, but those who know say it is very good. The horns can be utilized in a variety of ways, and not a part of the animal but has a value.

"We may add that the climatic conditions and food supply of a large part of our mountainous country is admirably adapted to Angora ranges and there is not a state in the Union, east or west, in which they cannot be grown to good advantage. Another point is that notwithstanding the inbreeding, crossbreeding and inability to get fresh blood, American ranchmen have improved the stock they had to work with, just as they improved the original Merino sheep, and believe it gives them the material to do with and they will in time produce a better animal, larger and finer, than the original stock with nearly 3,000 years of history behind it."
