

FREEZING OUT THE OVERCOATS, ULSTERS and SUITS

GRAHAM'S Great Leaving Lindsay Sale

OUR STUPENDOUS sale of Winter Clothing and Furnishings is attracting increased crowds weekly. Judging by the sales of last week Jack Frost caught many a man and boy unawares, but a few minutes and a few well spent dollars set the whole matter to rights. Don't be a white man's burden, get civilization and buy your winter duds at GRAHAM'S CLOSING PRICE SALE. We're closing out everything and you can name your own price. Everything to wear from an Arctic Resisting Top Coat to a collar button. As long as they last they're yours at prices that will hardly pay for the material. We are freezing out everything in a way that would frost and Iceberg. Crowds are swarming and jumping at these chances, so be on hand and get good choice. Read, reflect and then act quickly.

ITEMS FROM GRAHAM'S EVENT SALE

Space does not permit us to more than generalize in the matter of the extraordinary values offering at this sale. But these are thousands of dollars worth of well made Clothing and Furnishings for men and boys ready at a minute's notice at prices that couldn't be named if it wasn't for the fact that the stock must be cleared by the end of the year.

COUNTY CORRESPONDENCE

WOODVILLE
Dr. Bowerman, dentist, visits Woodville. (Queen's Hotel) the first three Friday's in December. Next visit, Dec. 6th. Careful work done at low rates. Come early.

JANETVILLE
A meeting of the patrons of the Janetville cheese factory will be held in the Orange Hall, Janetville, on Friday, December 13th at two o'clock p. m. Important business will be taken up as well as winding up the season's business. A full attendance of all interested is requested.

ELDON
The collector for Eldon township will be at the following places on the days mentioned to receive taxes: Balsover, Thursday, Dec. 5th; Argyle, Friday, Dec. 6th; Kirkfield, Saturday, Dec. 7th; Hartley, Monday, Dec. 9th. All taxes remaining unpaid after the 9th will be collected with costs.

KINMOUNT
While Mr. Geo. Cottingham was working in Craig and Austin's mill on Saturday last his hand came in contact with a saw and made a bad cut. It is not expected he will lose any fingers. Dr. Frost dressed the wound.

Mr. Henry Puley of Fenelon Falls was in Kinmount on Saturday. We also noticed Mr. Frank Sandford of the Cataract town.

Mr. J. Austin is at present ill at his home in Fenelon Falls and incapacitated from attending to his duties as County Commissioner. We hope the illness will not be serious.

Messrs. Dartnall and Growden have finished their contract of veneering rapidly pushed by Lancaster and with brick the residence of Dr. R. S. Frost. The carpenter work is being done.

All True Blues are requested to attend the annual meeting on Dec. 5th. Election of officers.

LORNEVILLE-ELDON
Our genial local stock buyer, Mr. Jno. Cameron, who has contributed much to the stock markets of Peterboro and Toronto this last summer, continues to make regular weekly shipments of live hogs to the Peterboro market. John is a regular buyer the year round and stock in abundance and right quality is his ideal; the same and fair prices that of the farmer.

Interesting is the phenomenal advance in the price of coarse grains, owing mainly to the shortage of the corn crop in the United States. On Monday evening of last week Rev. Mr. Wishart, of Beaverton, entertained the congregation of St. Andrew's church, Eldon, on such number of the same that was present to an interesting and instructive address on the Woman's Missionary Society, its work aims and attainments. The rev. gentleman delivered an able discourse, giving much information and data. The congregation was edified and gave expression to its well-wishes for the W.F.M. Society and its success by a heartily-given collection at the close of the meeting. Those who were absent missed a rare treat, that of hearing, learning and giving, but the latter of these is yet recoverable and it is to be hoped that those who have not as yet given to this worthy and deserving cause may be able to do so before the year is out and thus have the joy and blessing of having shared in the giving towards the spread of the gospel to the poor, needy and benighted. Let none despise the little that they may be able to give, for the little supplemented by many other little makes a good amount, and under God's blessing will prove a power for much good.

BETHANY
The anniversary services of the Bethany Methodist church were very satisfactory and most successful. On Sunday at 10.30 a.m. Rev. Dr. Briggs of Toronto preached from Isaiah, the 60th chapter and unfolded this beautiful text all were delighted and edified. At 7 p.m. he again occupied the pulpit, taking his text from John 4th chapter and 4th verse. At 2.30 Rev. Mr. Courtice of Dennessville a former and much beloved pastor, preached a very acceptable sermon from John 12 chapter and 32 verse. Miss Fieldhouse, soloist, of Carleton-st. church, Toronto, sang at every service. On Monday night at 7.30 Rev. Dr. Webber of Toronto gave an excellent lecture on the illustrious William, Prince of Orange. As introductory to the lecture Mr. G. R. Graham, recited the closing of the Gates of Derry. Dr. C. Breerton most acceptably performed the duties of chairman. Mrs. C. H. Fieldhouse and Mrs. C. H. Shield of Mount Pleasant added greatly to the evening's entertainment by their solos, assisted by Miss Clancy of Millbrook and Mrs. W. R. Shield of Mount Pleasant as accompanists. A special feature of the anniversary was the gift of a beautiful bell by the Graham Bros. of Bethany in memory of their parents. The bell was manufactured by the Blymyer Manufacturing Co. of Cincinnati and weighed eleven hundred pounds. The Trust Board of the church asked for the sum of $800, which was realized. The pastor, Rev. C. Brown has been untiring in promoting the best interests of the church. The most pleasing feature of the service was the help financially and otherwise of the different denominations.

THE YOUNG MAN MAKES OR MARS HIS SUCCESS IN THE WORLD

He Has Been Cared For and Coddled too Much — So Believes Rev. Thos. Manning B. A.

At the Cambridge-st. Methodist church on Sunday night Rev. Thos. Manning preached to young men, according to announcement. His text was: "Wherewithal shall a young man cleanse his way? By taking heed thereto according to Thy word." An outline of a helpful sermon might be as follows:

Young people are the people of interest today; and of the young people the young man is the most interesting. In fiction, on the hustings, in the pulpit, everywhere the young man is the subject of discussion. He is more interesting than the young woman. His possibilities are more varied and dramatic. Her ideal future is summed up in the word, "Motherhood"; his are far wider than fatherhood. A man may be a good father but not much of a man; some men who are not ideal fathers are great men—perhaps fathers of their country. The Roman matron was right when pointing to her sleeping children she said, "There are no jewels for me but for my children." There are no jewels for women like their babies; but it cannot be said of man that all his jewels are in the cradle.

A young man's life is a contingency possibility. A mariner knows what will happen him on a long voyage better than the young man knows what will befall him in life. But he frames his own career. Neither God nor man can do it for him. He must be self-reliant. The best education is the knowledge that his destiny lies in his own hands. "That boy in my store is very good," said a merchant to me lately, "but he has never got over making excuses." Learn, know that you can make no excuse for your ignorance or faults. It is no impediment to be poor, no advantage to be rich. Obscurity rises to prominence; exaltation sinks to disgrace. If a boy sets out with high resolves he can come to honor, but if without the fear of God before his eyes he will come to degradation.

All comedy and tragedy are visible to the imagination in the life of a young man. All sorts of boys will come out of our Sunday schools. Some of them will be robbers, suicides, murderers. The path of a young man's life is varied. Now by the peaceful river, then by the precipice; now by quiet groves, then by the mountain steeps; friends there are to give the hearty word, and foes that seek his life. There are the school and library; but there are the saloon, the theatre and the dance. Angels and wicked spirits wait upon the young man.

His prospects are perilous and promising; out his dangers are more mental and spiritual than physical. His worst foes are in his own breast. Outside assault can do nothing if not reinforced from within; but when attacked from within and without how often is the life taken by storm. There are no dangers without, unless a man seeks them. The time has come to stop coddling young men. To warm young men against the saloon and vice is good but we must not treat them as milkops. It is better to put them on their own resources and let them feel that they must for themselves avoid evils without always being held back by somebody else. The church has been too much like a founding home.

One place is as good as another if a man thinks so. What is the saloon to a man who realizes that he is building himself and making his future? He knows the danger, or if he thinks there is none he is as good as lost now; but for him as the evils are as if they did not exist. "What," exclaimed the preacher, "are the saloons of Lindsay to me, or to Robt. Smyth in the front seat, or Elias Bowes in the back seat, or all between those men? What are they to Edward Thurston over here, in the back seat and Jas. Bryson in the front seat and all between those men? They are nothing; they are as if they did not exist."

(These pairs of gentlemen named sat in the right and left rows of seats but seeing some newspaper men in the centre row the preacher forbore to vouch in the same way for the occupants of that section of the audience.) I have not half the sympathy with young men that I once had. In nine cases out of ten if they go astray it is because they want to. I have been doing as I liked ever since I was 16 years old. When I was a lad I got a ride with a man and when we arrived at an hotel he asked me if I would treat him for giving me a ride. It would have served him right if someone had knocked him down. There are weak young men who think it is manly to treat those who do them favors. They have that senseless, vicious idea that they must go to the bar where drivelling, maudering, senseless men pour out their rant, vituperation and unmeaning talk. It is a wound to a man's dignity when another asks him to drink. Boys say, "No, sir, I am above it."

Vice leaves it scars. You can pull the nails out of the posts but their marks remain. There is the agony of the seams in a man's life. It cannot be removed. Religion cannot stop that pain. Be warned. I have found Leviticus, Proverbs and Ecclesiastes my most helpful books. The last two are to me the young man's manual. Boys, let these be your guide and they will bring you to glory and honor.
