AMONG THE CHURCHES

Echoes From the Services of Last Sunday—Mr. Strike on the Temperance Question.

—The service at the Cambridge-st Methodist church on Sunday morning was especially for the children. The Sunday school scholars occupied the galleries—girls on the south side and boys on the north. Rev. G. W. Henderson preached an appropriate sermon. Next Sunday morning Mr. Henderson's subject will be "The Work of the Holy Spirit," and in the evening "Prohibition." On the 30th inst. Dr. John Potts will preach twice.

—Rev. Mr. Davies of Fenelon Falls exchanged pulpits with Rev. L. S. Hughson, B. D. of the Baptist church last Sunday. Mr. Davies preached two very acceptable sermons.

QUEEN-ST METHODIST—At Queen-st Methodist Church Rev. A. J. H. Strike preached at night on the temperance question. This was the third evening in succession devoted to this subject by Mr. Strike. The chief features of this sermon were statistics of former recent votes on the temperance question, and a synopsis of the law that is to be voted on soon. Mr. Strike said that in 1894 there was a majority for prohibition in Ontario of 82,000; in 1898, at the Dominion plebiscite prohibition had a majority of 14,000. Manitoba voted 19,000 against a few hundreds in favor, but when the law was pronounced valid, the legislature referred the question again to the people who in disgust stayed away from the polls, waiting for a chance to vote against the government.

Referring to the Act, upon which the plebiscite will be taken on Dec. 4th, Mr. Strike said he had studied it carefully and was not surprised that the Privy Council could find no fault with it. It prohibited the sale of liquor except by druggists wholesale and retail, doctors, dentists and veterinary surgeons. A persons might keep it in his own private house and give it to his adult friends. A doctor could not keep more than two quarts at once. The beauty of the bill was that it would close up the bar which is the great trap that imperils the home and school. Closing it would be a great stride forward. The older drinkers may always find a way to get liquor but with the bars gone the youth would not learn to drink.

The penalties were severe. The first offence entailed a fine of from $200 to $1,000 or from 3 to 6 months in jail. The second offence meant 6 to 12 months in jail without the option of a fine. Not many men would take the risk of receiving such penalties. The government appoints a general inspector and local inspectors are all responsible to the government. Any person can lay information, and any officer can search premises.

All who were eligible to vote at the last provincial election and have lived in the province since that time can vote at the referendum.

Canadians in 1901 drank 2,708,833 gallons of Canadian spirits, 1,367,260 of imported spirits, 25,000,000 of domestic and 350,000 of imported beer and ales, and 4960 gallons of imported wines. That was the largest amount ever used in Canada. "It does not represent the largest amount of alcohol," said Mr. Strike, "for many are drinking more beer, that malted stuff, that seems to be better for the stomach, than some other liquors; but give a man a good soak of beer and if he can get his mouth open in time he will not throw any other liquor over his shoulder."

The preacher had no fear that closing up the saloons would result in direct taxation. The traffic cost the Dominion 151 millions in 1901 and gave 11 millions back making a net loss of 140 millions; better direct taxation than that. It cost Ontario 19 millions and gave her $55,000 or made her pay 18 millions to collect half a million. Hotels were a detriment to taxes for their presence lowered the value of nearby property. Nobody wanted to live near them. In Quincy Massachusetts there had been prohibition for 20 years—since 1881. In that year the population was 10,855, in 1901 it was 23,899; the savings in banks had gone from $173,000 to $715,000 but 24 new houses were built in 1881 and last year there were 123, but the poor fund had decreased from $15,000 to $18,000 although the city had ground so much. This showed the benefit of prohibition. Someone had suggested to the preacher that he go to Maine or Kansas next summer and see how the law was enforced there. Good testimony said there were no drunkards in Kansas, the law is enforced as well as any other in four-fifths of the state and as easily enforced in nineteen-twentieths of the state. Out of 150 pupils in one school, 140 had never seen a bar. Mr. Strike urged his hearers to vote against against the liquor on Dec. 4th and help to drive out the country's greatest enemy.

Mr. Hudson's Offer—Editor Watchman-Warder. Sir: Alas I am requested for a foot-walk were refused on account of no funds. If the municipality of Lindsay is too poor to expend a few dollars for labor in laying a sidewalk on my (George) street, I, at least, consider myself rich enough to do the work for the town and neighbors gratis—providing the town supply the materials, and they have plenty. True, I am not a rich man, my capital being manual labor and it takes all I've got to keep life and family together. Still, you see, I am willing enough to give a portion of it to help the town and my neighbors. The day is fast approaching when workmen will have to look more clearly and investigate more vigorously the manipulation of municipal affairs and vote accordingly and unitedly. ROBERT HUDSON, Lindsay, Nov. 18th, '02.

Obituary

THOS. MOORE—On Friday the 7th, inst., Mr. Thos. Moore of Powles' Corners died at the age of 34 years. Mr. Moore was ill with pneumonia for 11 days before his death. He was a son of the late Hugh Moore. The funeral was conducted at Eden cemetery on Sunday by Rev. Geo. Brown of Omemee who was preaching for Rev. John Garbutt of Fenelon Falls on Sunday. Mr. Moore leaves a widow and two sons, aged 8 and 3 years respectively.

ELIZABETH TRELEAVIN—On Wednesday of last week the Eden settlement lost one of its oldest and most respected inhabitants when Mrs. Treleavin, relict of the late John Treleavin, died at the age of 85 years. Deceased was among the pioneers in Mariposa, of over 50 years ago. The first Sunday school and temperance lodge in the township were held in her kitchen. Mrs. Treleavin was always an earnest Methodist and was the last of the original membership at the Eden church.

Mrs. Treleavin leaves a family of eight. They are: Thos. Treleavin, of Beaverton; Mrs. Langford, Cameron; Mrs. McKenzie of Hartley; Mrs. Robt. Webster of Glandine; Mrs. Richard Greenway and Mrs. John Cullis, of Linden Valley; Mrs. Ashton of Agassiz, B. C.; and Miss C. Treleavin, at the homestead.

The funeral was conducted by Rev. G. W. Clare of Oakwood on Friday of last week, and very largely attended.

REMARKABLE LAKE. A Body of Water With a Roof of Solidified Salt. A lake with a salt roof isn't frozen salt, and it isn't underground. On the contrary, this remarkable lake may be seen at any time during the year, fully exposed, being even at its best when the sun is shining directly upon it. This wonderful body of water is one of the saltiest of the salt lakes and is situated near Otdorsk, Siberia. The lake is nine miles wide and seventeen long and within the memory of man was not entirely roofed over by the salt deposit. Originally evaporation played the most prominent part in coating the lake over with salt, but at the present time the salt sprays which surround it are adding fast to the thickness of the crust.

In the long ago rapid evaporation of the lake's waters left great salt crystals floating on the surface. In course of time these caked together. Thus the waters were finally entirely covered. In 1878 the lake found an underground outlet into the river Obi, which lowered its surface about three feet. The salt crust was so thick, however, that it retained its old level and now presents the curious spectacle of a salt roofed lake. The salt coat increases six inches in thickness every year. The many islands with which the lake is studded are said to act as braces and to help keep the arched salt crust in position.

The Ivy Leaf Company

—Speaking of "The Ivy Leaf," Brooklyn, N.Y. Eagle says: At Grand Opera House last night beautiful Irish play, "The Ivy Leaf" was presented. The play deals with true life in Ireland, without the redcoat and hard pressing incident which is a delight. The scenery exceedingly beautiful, especially moonlit Lakes of Killarney. The play borders on the sensational in the second and fourth acts, both climaxes are very effective. There is just enough comedy pathos in it to make it interesting without stretching the imagination. Mr. Herbert E. Denton, the star, some very clever work, which he did him much applause, and his singing was encored repeatedly. The supporting company is good and the play is well staged. This splendid production will be the offering at Academy of Music to-morrow (Friday) evening, Nov. 21st. Pat Gregory's drug store. Prices: gallery 25c, ground floor 50 and 75c.
