Chapped Hands AND Cold Sores

Are your hands chapped, cracked or sore? Have you "cold cracks" which open and bleed when the skin is drawn tight? Have you a cold sore, frost bite, chilblains, or a "raw" place, which at times makes it agony for you to go about your household duties? If so, Zam-Buk will give you relief, and will heal the frost-damaged skin. Anoint the sore places at night, Zam-Buk's rich healing essences will sink into the wounds, and the smarting, and will heal quickly.

Mrs. Yellen, of Portland, says: "My hands were so sore and cracked that I was agony to put them near water. When I did so they would smart and burn as if I had scalded them. I seemed quite unable to get relief from anything I put on them until I tried Zam-Buk, and it succeeded where all else had failed. It closed the big cracks, gave me ease, soothed the inflammation, and in a very short time healed my hands."

Zam-Buk also cures chafing, rashes, winter eczema, piles, ulcers, festering sores, sore hands and backs, abscesses, pimples, ring-worms, etc. cuts, burns, bruises, scalds, sprains. Of all droggists and stores, or post free from the Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. Price 50c a box.

LATE ARCH. McFARLANE.
LATE NEIL McFARLANE.

The last sad rites were paid to the remains of Archie and Neil McFarlane on last Thursday afternoon, November 20th, when both bodies were interred in Glenora cemetery. The funeral was one of the largest that ever wended its way to the little country churchyard, where the bodies will rest to await the final call. Two better young men could not be found, and the sympathy for the mother, brothers and friends was widespread. Taken away in the prime of manhood, with a future which augured of success, makes the grief more poignant for the immediate friends of the deceased young men.

The funeral took place from the residence of his brother-in-law, Mr. Fred Ferguson, service being held at the house by the Rev. Mr. Steele, Presbyterian minister. The pall-bearers were ten in number, four uncles, three brothers and three brothers-in-law. The uncles were: Samuel, Neil, Alexander and Duncan McLean; the brothers: Norman, Alexander and Samuel McFarlane; and the brothers-in-law: Fred Ferguson, W. Kitt and Stanley Cornish.

LATE SISTER ST. ANTHONY.
The funeral of the late Sister St. Anthony took place on Monday from Mr. St. Joseph's Convent, Peterboro, to St. Peter's cemetery. The solemn requiem high mass was sung by Rt. Rev. J. O'Brien, D.D., Bishop of the Diocese, and Deacon Rev. J. V. McCauley, Sub-Deacon Rev. Fr. Maher, Priest of Honor, Rev. Fr. Phelan, Master of Ceremonies, Rev. Fergus O'Brien. There were also present in the sanctuary Rev. Fr. Cote and Rev. J. J. O'Brien.

The pall-bearers were: Messrs. John Bailey, Patrick Milloy, Frank Milloy, Peter Milloy, W. O'Keefe and J. S. Milloy.

Bishop O'Brien spoke a few words concerning the beautiful life of the deceased, while Fr. Phelan officiated at the cemetery.

While in town Constable Barr called on Chief of Police Chilton.

DONGOLA

Dongola, Nov. 24.—The evening of Nov. 19th proved to be quite an enjoyable one to some of our young folks, when they gathered at the home of Mr. G. A. Barkwell to welcome home his son Roy and his bride. Owing to the unfavorable condition of the weather many were unable to attend, but, however, a good time is reported.

Miss Myrtle Quinn spent the week end visiting friends in Norland.

Mrs. W. Hall, accompanied by her three children, have returned to Sudbury, after spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Davis.

Mrs. W. Embury, of Norland, also spent Monday at her old home.

Mr. G. H. Barkwell is still busy working at his new house.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Quinn spent Sunday afternoon at Mr. James Morrison's.

Everybody enjoyed the lecture on the subject of Dominion Alliance given by Mr. Frost, and quite willingly assisted him in his cause by the various contributions.

EXCELLENT PAPERS READ AT CAMERON MEETING.

The Cameron Branch of the Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. Percy Mark on Thursday afternoon, with a splendid number in attendance. The following program was given: Roll call, "Hot dishes for supper"; three interesting papers were given on conversation in the sick room, by Mrs. H. Mark, Mrs. J. Westway and Mrs. W. Townsend; paper by Mrs. W. Wilson, President of the Islay branch, on "Don't for the Institute," which was very interesting. The button hole contest was next, when three ladies of the Islay branch judged the work, and the prizes were awarded to Mrs. Henry Mark, Mrs. W. Townsend and Mrs. J. Westway.

After the meeting was closed a dainty lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. H. Mark, Mrs. D. Smith, Mrs. N. Mark, Mrs. G. Parkin. Next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Suggitt, when an exchange of Christmas presents will take place, no present to exceed 10 cents. All ladies welcome.

Woman Fur Trader Says Life In The Canadian Wild is Entrancing

In cariboo coats and hoods, beads, moccasins and heavy fur gauntlets, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Durie, arrived at Montreal recently.

Mrs. Durie was the cynosure of all eyes when she alighted at the C.P.R. station with her husband. They had come from Cormorant Lake, 45 miles away from Le Pas, a little trading post on the Hudson Bay Railway. Mrs. Durie came out just as she was clad in the fur country. A three-quarter length fur coat of cariboo skin was the most striking part of the costume. This was the work of the Esquimaux Indians at Fort Churchill.

On her feet were a pair of moose skin moccasins while her hands were covered by a huge pair of leather gauntlets, adorned with black bear trimmings and designs on the cuffs worked in red silk by the Indians.

Mr. and Mrs. Durie went into the Cormorant Lake region to engage in the fur trade 15 months ago. Previous to that the husband had been a commercial traveler in the British Isles. One day, however, he received an offer to become associated with George Cowan, one of the oldest independent fur traders in the north country. Neither one knew anything of the wild life, but they seized the opportunity. Now neither would return to the old order of life on any consideration.

Their place of residence is a little lumber "shack," erected on a bare, flat rock on the shore of Cormorant Lake. The nearest white woman is 45 miles away.

"I get everything I want up there. I am going back to England to tell some of the suffragettes that they should come out to the north where they can have all their own way without any fighting for it," she laughed.

Their life is not a lonely life, however. The woods have their fur animals, and there is always the keen interest in the hunt. There are rats, minks, bears, wolves, lynx, and Martin in abundance while the rivers and lakes teem with fish of all kinds.

"We have to hunt for our meat; there is no butcher around the corner there. Once we ran out of 'grub,' and Mr. Durie had to tramp forty-three miles to get some more at a trading store. He made the walk in thirteen hours. He came back by boat with the supplies. When we go out on a hunt we always take three days food for every day that we expect to be away. One of the worst trips we ever had was when we were three days making eight miles. It was a terrible storm that time.

"It is a grand life we live here. I would not go back to the city again. The canoe and the wild is fine. I like it better every day we are there," she added.

One time Mrs. Durie got a little lonely and wanted a little of the old life. There was a dance arranged for the next evening but it was forty-five miles away. So she hitched up the dogs and with an Indian boy went off for the fun. When it was over she came home. The trip was made in fine time and without any unusual incident.

The Cree Indians are the nearest neighbors of the white couple. There is a village near the little shack on the bare rock. The natives are very clean and well behaved. They are absolutely honest in all their dealings—except that they will steal fish at any time if it is needed to feed the dogs. They would starve themselves and remain honest, but when the dogs are hungry they do not hesitate to take possession of any fish that they may find. "We never lock our doors against the Crees," she added.

As happy as two children, and in perfect health. Mr. and Mrs. Durie will sail for a three months' visit to their friends in the old land to-morrow, but before the long northern winter which began on October 6, is over, they will be back in the little board shack on the side of the lake, with the Crees, canoes, rocks and muskies.

Wage Earners and "High Cost of Living"

Wage Earners and "High Cost of Living"

Appropos of the discussion on how to reduce "the high cost of living"—which has come to rival "tango teas" in popularity—attention might be called to a feature of the new tariff policy of the American Government. The American Government foresaw that protected manufacturers, who were hit by its tariff reductions, might call the attention of their employers to the fact by reducing their wages. The manufacturer would say—"My profits have been shaved away or wholly wiped out by the removal of the tariff protection under which I established my business, and I cannot go on unless my employees share with me my losses."

The Wilson Government announced in advance, however, that it would hold an official enquiry into any such case, and ascertain whether the cut in wages was really justifiable. Just what it would do then, it did not say; but it is presumed that there will be "boiling oil" in it—"something humorous," at all events. Still we rather fancy that if an American industry finds itself unable to go on and earn a fair return on the capital invested in it by reason of the very mild Wilson cut in the tariff, the owners may easily give their co-workers in the business the choice between getting less money or seeing the business closed. Even a Democratic Government cannot compel owners to operate industries at a loss—or even at a comparative loss when contrasted with other openings for capital in this day of high interest.

There is, however, in this idea a suggestion for Canadian manufacturers. If they are making more money because of "the high cost of living," and are protected by a Government pledged to "adequate

Frank Talk Expected from The Liberals

A Toronto exchange says: The meeting of the Ontario Reform Association, which takes place in Toronto next Friday is likely to bring out some frank talk and interesting developments.

As is usual at such meetings, organization will be the chief topic of discussion. An effort will be made to considerably extend and strengthen the present Liberal machine. An effort will be made to raise funds and to put the organization on a more businesslike basis.

The Liberal party in Ontario has three men who have been drawing pay for doing party work. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King has been receiving an annual salary of $2500 a year; F. G. Inwood has been in receipt of $2000 a year and W. F. Summerhayes has also been on the payroll.

The rank and file of the party are not entirely satisfied that the funds of the party could not be spent to better advantage.

It is expected that Mr. King and his associates, who have usurped the Liberal leadership of Ontario, will put up a strong defence to maintain the control of the organization. They will point to the result in South Bruce as evidence of their usefulness and ability in party management.

The other side, however, claim that Mr. Truax was not elected by the Liberal organization, but won through his own efforts and in spite of the organization.

The time apparently is ripe for an interesting family discussion in the Liberal ranks.

VIOLATED PAROLE.

Kingston, Nov. 23.—For violating his parole, John Bennington, a middle-aged man, was arrested in Rochester, N.Y., and brought back to the penitentiary by Inspector Hogan of the Dominion Police Force. Bennington was sentenced at Galt in 1910 to four years for burglary. He was allowed out on parole last spring, but he failed to report to the police regularly.

KILLED ON CROSSING.

Fort William, Nov. 23.—Found by a diver in forty feet of water, the body of John Joseph O'Connor, of Schreiber, the fireman who was drowned when the C.P.R. engine went into Lake Superior on Friday morning, has been recovered, and was brought to the city yesterday.

FIREMAN MEETS HIS DEATH.

Montreal, Nov. 23.—Fireman Horace Trudel was trapped by blinding smoke on the first floor of a building last night and died a few hours later in the General Hospital. Several firemen were overcome in an effort to rescue their imprisoned comrade. Trudel leaves a wife and six children. The fire damage was slight.

SHOT LARGE BUCK.

Roland Nichols and his brother Garner were down Pigeon lake on Thursday of last week looking for ducks, says the Bobcaygeon Independent. They were around by Wright's Island and the lake was a trifle rough. Rolly saw something away down the lake that he thought looked like a deer, but Garner thought it was the end of a half sunken log. While they were discussing whether it had horns or not, an Indian, one of the Jacobs of Chemung village, called out from behind a point and was going on past the object. That seemed to settle the question in Garner's favor. But not for long. Suddenly the Indian dropped his sail down, and paddled his canoe towards the object, which was a fine big buck all right. The Indian headed his prize towards shore, and just before reaching land planted a charge of duck shot back of the buck's ear. Jacob's family had a banquet Thursday night and even the camp dogs are barking in an unusual air of content.

If you want to give your child or somebody else's child, cross-eyed dolls and ugly-eyed toy animals don't come to us for them; we have none. The tendency of a child to imitate should make one very careful in the selection of anything that would tend in any way to cause injury to the little one which this kind of plaything most assuredly would.

The new unbreakable dolls this year are the finest it has ever been our privilege to show and when you give a child one of these you give something that is absolutely unbreakable and something that will not cause any eye defect.

We would consider it a pleasure to show you these goods before purchasing elsewhere.
