For the Children

Some Famous Feline Navigators of the Air.

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

Many interesting stories have been told of the adventures of cats on land and sea, but none is more remarkable than that of the pussy which went to sea in Walter Wellman's big balloon.

The Game of Magic Ladder.

Standing in a ring, the children begin counting, as follows: The leader says, "One I see," the next player says, "Two I see," and so on in turn till the number seven is reached.

Each player, having a multiple of seven, speaks accordingly and runs once around the circle, but those who should be runners sometimes fail to quickly recognize the fact, in which case they must turn around and forfeit their count for the rest of the game.

Relay Race.

The children stand in two or more lines at one end of the ground. The first of each line, carrying a flag or handkerchief, races to the opposite end of the ground, touches the fence with the flag and runs back, handing the flag to No. 2 and passing to the rest of the line.

Conundrums.

Why is an orange like a church steeple? Because we have peels from both. What kind of a cat lives in a library? A catalogue.

The Oldest Coins Known.

Did you know coins were in use as early as 800 years B. C.? It is a fact that a pure silver coin bearing a perfect Aramean inscription of Panamur Bar Rerub, king of Schamol, who reigned at that time, was recently found by a German collector during his explorations in northern Syria.

Good Form

"Informal formal invitations" is what one might call those which come in a line written on a visiting card.

Invitations to tea, cards or even to musicals may be sent out on visiting cards, and that there may be no mistake as to the entertainment provided it is designated on the card.

Smaller dinner tables are required than formerly because vegetable dishes are never placed thereon. When one lives with any degree of formality the roast also is handed by the maid, not being put, as used to be, before the head of the household.

INTERESTING REMINISCENCES

"This is the place, stand still my steed, Let me review the scene And summon from the shadowy past The forms that once have been."

Many Interesting Reminiscences of early purchases in our store have been related so far during our Fiftieth Anniversary Celebration by old and loyal customers of ours.

One gentleman said: "I was measured for my first suit of clothes 45 years ago when your firm occupied a store where the Dominion Bank now stands. I bought my last suit here the other day. I have ten brothers and four sisters and they all bought their wedding outfits here. Their families are dealing with you to-day."

A lady remarked: "I remember first coming to this store when a little girl, with my mother. She bought this Persian Lamb Muff for me many years ago here. The style is old, of course, but the quality is there. The fur is excellent. I intend having a ruff made out of it."

Another highly respected old gentleman enthusiastically remarked: "yes I have been dealing with you for fifty years my children, Grandchildren and great Grandchildren—four Generations of us have dealt, and are still dealing with you, may you live to do business for fifty years more."

Another very estimable lady: one of the pioneer citizens of the town, said as she turned back the pages of memory—"We have lived here since 1860. Our house was just opposite where your store now stands on the site of the Simpson House. We purchased all our Clothing and Housefurnishings from your firm and we have been dealing with you ever since."

These are only a few of the many interesting stories related. They are a source of great pleasure and interest to us. We feel highly honored to have these visits from our many old customers.

The Old Game Against the New. The same old question, "Can they come back?" was answered in the negative after Saturday's game. It was a battle of the young and active against the old and worn.

In acknowledging Varsity's all round superiority as the sole cause of the Toronto team's victory, the Tigers gracefully accept defeat and measure well up to the manly standard of British sport.
