One little deed is worth reams of indorsements of big deeds. Life is too short to miss a kindness, too long to cherish hate. Take care of your living and your dying will take care of itself. It's finer being a small hunk of sunshine than a big bank of fog.

Some meetings are arranged on the theory that misery loves company. It's no use being poor in spirit annually at the time of tax assessments. The heart is bankrupt already when it counts on the profits of love.

OBITUARY

MRS. A. TAIT.
Mrs. A. Tait, Bobcaygeon, passed away to her eternal rest at the Ross Memorial Hospital on Saturday after a long illness. The deceased was a daughter of Robt. Free, of Fenelon Falls, and had been married only a short time when she was taken ill and soon afterwards removed to the hospital, where she passed away on Saturday morning at the early age of 19.

LATE MRS. HARTNETT.
The funeral of the late Mrs. Patrick Hartnett was held on Sunday afternoon from her late home on Simcoe-st., and was largely attended by friends and relatives. The remains were conveyed to St. Mary's church, where service was held by Archdeacon Casey, and thence to the R. C. cemetery and placed in the vault. The pall-bearers were the deceased's six nephews, Messrs. Jno. Connolly, John, Thomas, Patrick, Joseph Twohey and Frank Hurley of Peterboro.

WILLIAM JOHN PEELE.
Fleetwood, Dec. 8.—A life-time resident of this neighborhood passed away on Nov. 30, in the person of William John Pele at the age of 48 years. He was a much respected man and his place in the community will be hard to fill. He leaves a widow, daughter of George Bradburn, of Janetville, to mourn his loss. The funeral, which was very largely attended, was conducted by the members of the Orange Order and the Canadian Order of Foresters, and took place at Janetville cemetery on Friday, Dec. 2. The floral tributes were very beautiful.

HYMEREAL

BARNES—GREGG.
Last Monday at 8 o'clock a pretty but quiet wedding took place at the English church rectory, when Mr. Percy John Barnes was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Miss Lillian Gregg. The attendants were Miss Jessie Phillimore and Mr. Tom Prentidge, all of the Benson house, Lindsay. The bride was handsomely attired in a princess gown of helle-trope silk. After the ceremony the happy couple will drive to Salem, where they will be the guests of the bride's friends for supper.

WESTERN—GILSON.
A very happy event transpired on Wednesday, Dec. 7th, 1910, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Moses Gilson, near Uxore, Ont., when their daughter, Miss Lillian Figgis, one of Scott township's most popular young ladies, was united in holy matrimony to Mr. Frederick C. Western, of Zion, Mariposa.

The day was an ideal winter one, and the sleighing lovely, and about fifty guests availed themselves of the pleasure of a drive to attend the pleasing occasion.

At 2.30 p. m., to the strains of the wedding bells march, skilfully played by Miss Hazel Campbell, of Nestleton, the bride entered the parlor leaning upon the arm of her father, and was led beneath the evergreen arch, where the ceremony was performed by the Rev. H. A. Delve, of Beagrave.

Miss Mary Gilson, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid, while Mr. Harold Western, of Toronto, assisted the groom through the pleasing ordeal. The bride was attired in ivory white silk, trimmed with point lace and insertion. She wore a tulle veil, with orange blossoms in her hair, and carried a shower bouquet of white carnations and chrysanthemums and looked most charming.

The bridesmaid was dressed in champagne raw silk, over pink trimmings with all over lace and applique, and carried a bouquet of pink carnations and chrysanthemums.

After congratulations had been tendered the company sat down to a magnificent supper of excellent quality. The spacious dining room was tastefully decorated with white and green for the occasion.

The presents were of superior quality, testifying to the high esteem in which the principals were held. The groom's gift to the bride was a gold necklace, set with emeralds, and chip diamonds, to the bridesmaid, a gold bracelet, to the best man, a gold stick pin, and to the pianist, a gold watch fob.

town when it was learned that Mr. Michael Wilkinson, for many years servant of the late Mr. Matchett, county treasurer, had passed to his eternal reward. The deceased was born in Ireland and came to Canada when a young man, and has served the late Mr. Matchett ever since, in Bobcaygeon, and after that gentleman came to town.

Although deaf and dumb Michael was very intelligent and was beloved by all who knew him, and was an adherent of the Church of England. Since the late Mr. Matchett's death he has resided with Mr. T. C. Matchett until his death at an early hour this morning.

MRS. POWERS
The country has lost another pioneer, in the person of Mrs. Powers, nee, who died on Sunday morning at the age of 91 years. The deceased was a native of Kilkenny, Ireland, and came to this country at the age of nine years, settling with her parents in Quebec for a number of years, and coming to Bobcaygeon in 1854, residing in Lindsay for the last five years. Her husband predeceased her forty years ago, and she leaves to mourn her loss one daughter, Mrs. Johnson, Bobcaygeon, and Mr. James Powers, of Lindsay.

Some people treat the sermon as a table d'hôte dinner, picking out the things that will not agree with them. Many imagine they have accomplished the journey to heaven, when they have only determined the route for others. The steel steamer John Sharples is ashore near Cape Vincent. She is insured for $85,000.

joyed. All join in wishing the happy pair every anticipated joy and blessing through life. Mr. and Mrs. Western will be "at home" to their friends after Jan. 1, 1911.

Mr. Williamson Gets Promotion

Referring to the promotion of Mr. Ford G. Williamson, of St. Thomas, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Williamson, of Lindsay, the St. Thomas Journal says:

Ford G. Williamson for four and a half years accountant of the local branch of the Dominion Bank, has received notice from head office of his appointment to the management of the branch at Hespler.

Hattie Will Not go on Stand

Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 10.—Hattie Le Blanc will be spared the ordeal of going upon the stand in her trial for the murder of Clarence F. Glover. This announcement was made by her lawyer to-day. Every indication is that the testimony of the defence will end to-day, and then a few witnesses that the prosecution has held for rebuttal will probably be heard. Mrs. Glover will be questioned further by Attorney M. M. Johnson.

The fate of Hattie Le Blanc will be in the hands of the jury late Tuesday afternoon.

Hattie's own story of what happened in the laundry on the night of Glover's shooting will go before the jury only through the statement Hattie made to the Waltham police the night she was dragged from beneath the bed in the Glover home, where she had been in hiding for three days. This testimony, against the admission of which Attorney Johnson fought, will be the 17-year-old girl's defence coming from her own lips.

FANNING'S BIG SALE.
The sale at Fanning's Repository was again highly successful. Farmers picked up 47 cows at prices that should be satisfactory to them. One pair of colts brought $350 and were purchased by J. A. Lambhart, of Silver Lake. The next will be the biggest cow sale of the season and buyers will make no mistake in being present on Dec. 26. These sales attract big crowds and the repository is a busy place on sale day. They bring buyer and seller together to their mutual advantage.

Forceful Sermon on "Immortality of the Soul"

"If a Man die shall he live again?"—Job, 14th chapter and 14th verse.

A very instructive, intelligent and forceful sermon on the above text was delivered Sunday morning in the Cambridge-st. Methodist church by Rev. Geo. W. Henderson, of Peterboro, formerly of Lindsay. Rev. Mr. Henderson occupied the pulpit at both services and preached two very helpful and inspiring sermons. Speaking on the above text Rev. Mr. Henderson said that among the great questions of all centuries and among all races of men the above one must ever be regarded as holding the place of pre-eminence. "It belongs to a higher discussion. It is a man immortal or is he not? Will life continue or will the candle burn out and drop into a bottomless socket?"

"On such a question hinges one of the most interesting problems that can possibly occupy the attention of rational beings. If our existence is to be circumscribed by the allotted three score and ten years then we can well afford to eat, drink and be merry.

"What answer would 20th century scientists give to the question, 'If a man die shall he live again?' Today scientific authorities are united in declaring that there is some kind of an after life. You cannot destroy a block of wood or a roll of bank bills in the fire, strictly speaking, but nevertheless they are burned. They still remain, having been resolved into other elements. Yet some of these teachers would have us believe that man is limited to the three score and ten period. These men are utterly illogic. They state that in the animate, life is indestructible, but yet when great men in God die they simply cease to be.

"I conclude that the teachings of modern science suggest that there is a life beyond the grave, which is the testimony of human reason. This is a conviction that grows with our growth. Just as the intellectual life develops do men conceive that there is something in them of intrinsic worth and they demand to live on.

"Victor Hugo, the great French moralist and author said, 'I felt within myself the future life. . . . I have finished my day's work, but I cannot feel I have finished my life.' The old heathens were accustomed to place a lighted lamp in the midst of the tomb in the sepulchre and thus expressed the belief that although their friends were dead they continued to live in the other land."

The speaker referred to many other traditions of a like nature. The Romans let a feet-winged eagle when funeral ceremonies were being held, believing that the soul of the departed thus winged its flight heavenward, thus believing that there was a future life for the soul of the departed one. The Kafirs also held similar beliefs and buried with their dead many implements of the chase. The old Gaelic race had many traditions in regard to the future life of their dead, and the aborigines of this continent interred with their departed ones their tomahawks and other implements of war. The same traditions existed in the land of the Pharoas, and the Caldeans were constantly unearthing relics of the past. They believed and taught the doctrine of the after life.

"As far as we know," said the speaker, "nature never deceives, never disappoints. By instinct the migratory birds leave the cold climate for the warm climate, and so the unaided human reason implies that there must be a future life. For every other desire the God of nature made ample provision. If we hung or were in food, or if we thirst there is water to quench the thirst. Can it be possible that the instinct exists without the correlative?"

"Was it a righteous thing that rivers of blood should flow at the feet of the ambitious Napoleon, and that old Carthage should be blotted out by the ambitions of Rome?"

The reverend gentleman referred to the typical and unscrupulous Lazarus in his fish garments lying at the gate, diseased and without friends except God and the dogs of the street, and yet Lazarus is the good man. There were many instances of favoritism and partiality, but if there was another life when the grievances will be righted and redressed, "then," said the speaker, "I can understand how life becomes a school of patience."

Arguing from other moral deviations the reverend speaker stated that reason concluded that there must be a life of re-adjustment, re-distribution and rectification beyond. Substantiating the claim Rev. Mr. Henderson read portions of the scripture found in the book of Revelation, where the certainty of the after life was declared. Jesus Christ Himself said to his people,

"I go to prepare a place for you. I will come again," "In my Father's house are many mansions," and "There is a life beyond the grave."

John the disciple was permitted to gaze on heaven and dreamed a wonderful dream. Jesus said that Lazarus died and was transferred to the abode. "The Book of Revelations," stated the speaker, "declares that there shall be a reconciliation of the just and the unjust and the nations of this earth shall be summoned to the judgment bar of God. There the good and the evil will be separated and God Himself shall say (of the evil), 'these shall go away into everlasting punishment and these (the good) shall enter into eternal life.'"

Prospective Candidates Getting Busy

Bury's Green, Dec. 12.—We have been having the real winter weather during the last week, and the thermometer went down as low as 16 degrees below zero.

The Verulam council will hold its last meeting on the 15th, when the entire business for the year will be wound up. Already municipal affairs for the new year are being talked over and new names are being mentioned for municipal honors, and we sympathize with the prospective candidates for municipal honors to think of the hard time they will have during the holiday season, as they not only have to look after the customary Christmas greetings, etc., but they will have to go about kissing all the little babies and saying kind words to the mothers and making love to all the widows and spinsters who have votes. But they get their reward when it's all over.

Quite a number of our crack shots took in the shooting match at Mr. Jos. McGee's at Fairbairn, on Friday last, and needless to say, they are keeping up their reputation. Some of our young people took in the first skating of the season on the Fenelon Falls rink on Saturday evening last.

Don't forget the Christmas tree, and entertainment to be held in St. John's Presbyterian church on the evening of the 16th. A good time is assured, and the admission is 25 and 15 cents.

Spoke in Interests of Missions

Mr. W. B. Sparling and Mr. Newton Simale, who visited the circuit of Rev. Mr. Howard in Cambray district in the interests of the Laymen's Missionary Movement met with splendid success, both in the interest displayed, and the amount of offering.

The banquet held at Cambray last Thursday evening, a report of which appeared in Saturday's issue, was the means of arousing enthusiasm in the district, which was principally the cause of large congregations at all the services yesterday.

Both speakers attended the morning and evening services at Cambray and separated to attend the services at Eden and Zion in the afternoon. The subscriptions at all four churches show an increase of about 70 per cent over last year. The meetings were made more interesting by special music provided by the different choirs.
