He will announce a sale of his stock and implements, which will be held in the early part of the month of January.

Successful Stock Course Held at Fenelon Falls—Instructive Addresses Stock Experts

The Farmers' and Womens' Institute meetings and stock judging course took place at Fenelon Falls on Friday afternoon, with a judging demonstration in the skating rink, a number of Shorthorn cattle from Messrs. Cullis & Lean's well-known herd being used for the purpose, among them being some very fine animals. Mr. J. C. Gardhouse, of Highfield, briefly explained the points wanted in ideal beef cattle, and the animals were then judged by the spectators, who have their reasons for the choices they made. Mr. Gardhouse afterwards stating his opinion of how the awards should be placed. The discussion brought out considerable information.

On Saturday morning a similar process was gone through with dairy cattle, Mr. J. E. Stewart, of Dalmeny, officiating, and using three good cows belonging to Mr. J. C. Parrish, of Fenelon. Mr. Stewart concluded with a short address, dealing with the raising and feeding of dairy calves, the growing of alfalfa, etc. He stated that in the late fall and winter was the best time to care for young calves. The farmer then has time to attend to it, and by having plenty of the proper kind of food on hand the calves can be made to grow well, and will be in good shape to go on the grass in the spring, and will be old enough to get the full benefit of the summer's pasture. He had a disappointing experience with alfalfa the past year, getting all the weeds in the catalogue, and then some. He advised that it be sown with timothy.

In the afternoon Mr. Gardhouse spoke on the good points of heavy draught horses, using Mr. Heber Johnston's stallion to illustrate his remarks, and a class of heavy mares and one of colts were judged, the contributors being Messrs. Geo. Inrie, Cullis & Lean, H. Stroud, Heber Johnston, John Graham, John Berg, Thos. Moffat and Wm. Golden. The attendance at these classes was much larger than at any of the others, and more interest manifested. The animals were all first-class, and there was not much to choose between the different individuals. Mr. Gardhouse admitting that it was difficult to say which should be placed first. Quite a number of those present tried their hand at judging them and made fairly good work of it.

These judging courses appear to be an improvement on the regular Institute meetings formerly held, being practical demonstrations, and more calculated to arouse and hold interest. For other subjects than live stock, however, that cannot be accompanied by illustrations, the addresses and discussions might well be continued later on the same dates or at a different season of the year, or at meetings of Institute members themselves, held monthly, after the style of the Women's Institute meetings, with an outside speaker occasionally.

Mr. Hunter, Mr. D. A. MacKenzie's able assistant, had charge of the arrangements for the judging courses, and both he and Mr. MacKenzie deserve credit for the satisfactory manner in which all the details were attended to.
After the regular business meeting of the Women's Institute on Friday afternoon, Miss G. Gilholm, of Bright, gave a most interesting and instructive talk on "Thoughts of Old Friends and New," also a short address on "Canadian Women," which was continued at the evening meeting. During the afternoon music was furnished by Mrs. Dr. Gould and Miss V. McNulty. The meeting closed by singing the National Anthem.

Mr. Jas. Dickson acted as chairman of the joint meeting in the evening, and in his opening remarks expressed the opinion that in some parts of the country the farmers had not anything like sufficient literature, and were correspondingly handicapped.

The first speaker introduced was Mr. W. J. Gardhouse, of Highfield. Mr. Gardhouse emphasized the dignity of the farmer's calling. We are living, he said, in a fast age, when such wonderful things are being accomplished that it is worth while to live if only to sit still and watch what other people are doing. But farmers must keep pace with the progress in other departments of life, and in order to do this they must believe in themselves. They are not giving themselves a square deal. It requires as much brains, judgment and mental equipment in farm property and to raise and improve live stock as is required in any other calling. Eighty to eighty-five per cent. of the leading teachers, lawyers, etc., came from the farm. Farmers should be proud of their profession. Mr. Gardhouse advocated co-operation and the formation of farmers' clubs for that purpose. They should select one class of horses, cattle, or potatoes, and all raise that one kind. It would be a great advantage, as buyers could come in and get a uniform carload, with little or no trouble. The farmers' club gives the young men a chance to talk, and learn how to express themselves.

Natural conditions should be followed as closely as possible in farming. Anyone who keeps milk cows knows that the greatest milk flow comes in June, therefore June conditions should be maintained for the rest of the year; and the same in other lines.
Mr. Gardhouse touched on the high cost of living, and thought the middleman was largely responsible, and that there should be some way of getting farm products to the consumer without so much expense. Miss Gilholm, of Bright, was the next speaker. Her subject was "Canadian Women." After drawing attention to Denmark, which in a comparatively few years had grown out of absolute poverty into great wealth, chiefly due to the co-operative efforts of the Danish women, Miss Gilholm went on to show what a great work the women of Canada were accomplishing. Women are organized all over the Dominion, in the churches, the Daughters of the Empire, the King's Daughters, the Aberdeen Association, the Victorian Order of Nurses, the Young Women's Christian Association, the W.C.T.U., the Women's Institute, and others.

She spoke of the self-sacrifices of members of the Victorian Order of Nurses, of the commendable activities of the Aberdeen Association in distributing second-hand literature, and of the much needed assistance given by the Y.W.C.A. to girls entering the cities as strangers. The Women's Institute is, the speaker said, the strongest link in the great chain that binds together the 8,000,000 organized women in the twenty-three principal countries of the world. The W. I. does not stand for woman and will spoil. The speaker made a profit of $310.11 from 100 hens in ten months. He lives twenty miles from Ottawa, and seven miles from an express office. Mr. Chas. Logan, of Bobcaygeon, made a profit of $155 from 82 hens in a year, and sold all his eggs in Bobcaygeon. Mr. Stewart could sell any quantity if he could get them. He buys all his feed. Replying to a question as to which is the best breed of fowl, Mr. Stewart said that the laying competition just closed showed that the White Leghorns, the White Wyandottes, the Barred Rocks and the Rhode Island Reds were all good. The surplus stock of the larger breeds could be disposed of more profitably.

MANILLA.
Manilla, Dec. 16.—To harvest in December is something unusual, but such occurred last Wednesday and Thursday at the home of Mr. John Keeler, when he drew in a few acres of buckwheat. (Owing to the heavy rains, snow flurries and the wet condition of the soil it looked as if at one time harvest would be impossible, but as we are reminded that seed time and harvest shall never fail, even in its last stages I saw the barn again re-filled, and seizing time by the forelock he procured Mr. Geo. Cowperthwaite's threshing outfit, and to his delight the grain turned out very satisfactory.)
