VISITOR LANDS 22 LB. MUSKIE

YOUTH HOOKS AND LANDS MUSKIE AS LONG AS HIMSELF THIRTY EIGHT MINUTE BATTLE BEFORE MAN IS CROWN-ED THE "WINNAH"

One of the greatest thrills of a lifetime was bestowed upon, Jack Daniels, of 61 Rich Avenue, Galt, Ont. on Tuesday evening, when he hooked and landed a 22 pound monster of the Kawartha lakes.

Jack with his parents reside for a month in a cottage on Pigeon Lake every year, a couple of miles from the village.

But which later proved fortunate for him was in the village on Tuesday evening with his young friend Stirling Jermyn, a local youth, when the guides started to come in and the youths watched the fishermen file by with their beautiful catches, the fever got the boys, and spent several minutes debating on whether or not they should go out until dark.

It was shortly after this that Mr. E. Thibadeau, came in with two large muskies, and isplayed them in front of Bottum's hardware store, and when laying them down the boys had to move their feet, to avoid coming in contact with the muskies. This settled the matter, the ice was broken, these two youngsters were going to do something, you could see it in their eyes, and when they announced that they were going down and would bring back something that would be worth while, or they wouldn't be in town again for a week. A broad smile flashed across the face of many people and a few thought to themselves: "So long son, we won't be seeing you for a week"

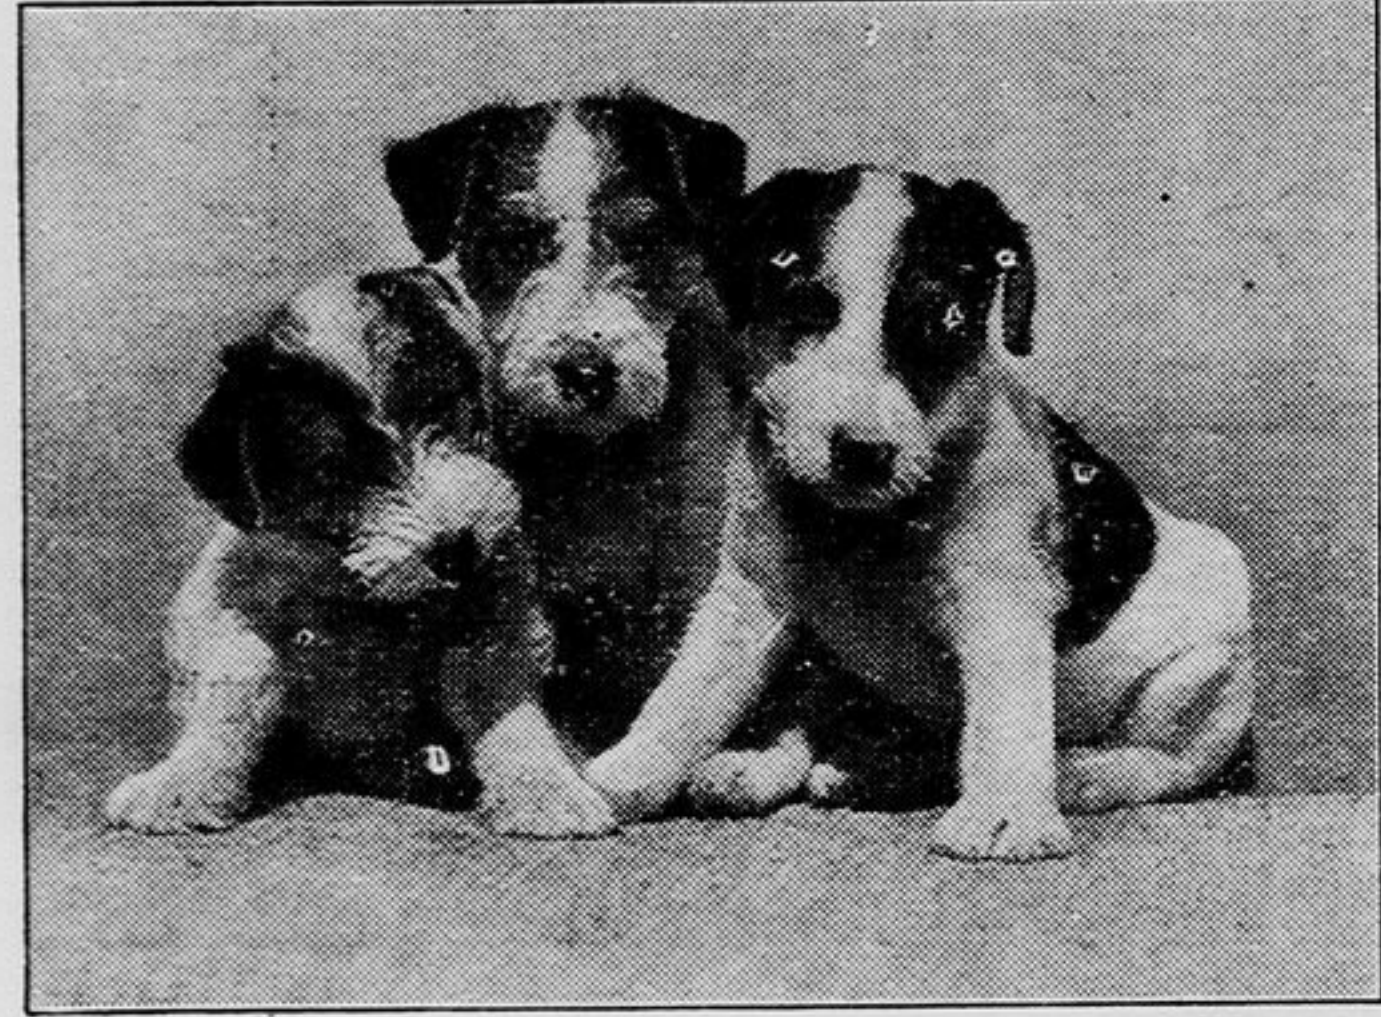

The boys hurried down the river straight for home in their small out-board, where they picked up their fishing tackle, and another young friend, whose name unfortunately we did not obtain. This all took place between 5.45 and 6.15 p.m. After getting all their rods, baits etc. The boys started their troll and trolled up to Bottum's Island.

After making several rounds of the island they had a strike but it was

THE DOG TAX AND LIVE STOCK PROTECTION ACT. This legislation protects live stock owners against the ravages of dogs. This money is returned if the appeal is successful but is forfeited if the appeal is lost. —the award made by the Valuer appointed by the Minister is final. only a bass. Never for a moment did the boys become down hearted. They stuck to Bottum's Island and as the hands of a watch approached 7.30, there was a tug, and the sing of a reel, the youth almost lost his balance as well as his fishing pole, "Look Jack" and what a fuss a fish was making about 75 feet behind the boat. It was a miniature Niagara Falls and then he jumped, four feet in the air, said Jack and Stirling, trying to show us with their hands" but their arms were only long enough to show about three feet, and what a picture, beautifully arched and a spray with a thousand colours. But our Hero, Jack Daniels immediately started one of the toughest battles of his young life, slowly winding in, and just when success seemed to be the lads, the fish was weaving, darting under the boat, and away out, farther and farther until the cold beads of perspiration oozed out on the lads neck and started trickling down his back and the thought flashed through his mind, am I going to loose him, and when the line was on its last wind his thumb came down on the cylinder, of the reel and the fish was satisfied to rest for a moment. Slowly Jack wound in his line, energy all but spent, salty sweat smarting his eyes, and his fingers all but bleeding but he hung on, and and fought like he never fought before, a mere youths strength and skill against the biggest and fiercest fish of the waters, and who would win, the fish still had plenty of fight left in him, while the youth was tiring, an for the battle he put up the best fisherman on the lake would envy him, win or loose, so far the fight lasted thirty minutes the lad has already proven he has what it takes, strength, lasting vitality and a cool clear head, but with renewed energy the fish started jumping, and every jump the youths were almost afraid of the result, but this skillful youth never once let Catigan have a loose line, consequently the fish is tiring more quickly and goes to the bottom. Everything is quiet the line becomes slack for a moment, the fish has lost its opportunity, because, Jack ever careful is reeling in. Jack only rested for a brief minute, maybe less, as the reel started singing again, and just as quickly the slack is taken up and then the steady drag as he gives a steady pull, his pole is bent to the double, the tip of it touched the water, and slowly the fish came to the surface but it was too far out to reach with the "Gaff" but the steady wind the fish is drew very close to the boat, the lads in the boat feel the end is near, Jack has become almost exhausted, and the fish makes a final effort to free himself, but the effort is not long lasting, he rolls over and his belly glimmers in the sun. A glorious cry of success rises from the throats of the lads, and it was only the mater of a minute before the fish was in the boat. With full steam ahead the youths hurried to tear cottage to find their parents and show them their prize and then in the car headed for Bottum's hardware store. The fight lasted thirty eight minutes. Never were there more surprised people than those who saw these lads early in the evening. The fish weighed 22 pounds just 1/4 of a pound below the largest fish of the season. The fish measured 44 inches in length, almost the same length as the youth is high, and I congratulate Jack Daniels, on behalf of the many others who know the battle he had to put up in holding onto his prize. And when you return next year, Jack I wish you the same success.
