REPLY.

Having received the unanimous nomination of the Conservative Convention held after Mr. Matchett's retirement, and seeing a requisition signed by so many of the leading men of the constituency, I cannot but feel it my duty to accept the honourable position you tender me as the standard bearer of the party of Union and Progress in the South Riding of Victoria. My political principles are well known to you, having always been a consistent supporter of the Conservative cause. I believe that Sir John A. Macdonald and his colleagues have during the past five years wisely and patriotically administered the affairs of the Dominion, and that they deserve the confidence of the country. If elected, I shall give them a fair and honorable support, while reserving to myself the right to judge of measures on their merits from whatever source they emanate. During the course of the canvass I shall avail myself of every opportunity of discussing the political questions of the day and of expressing my views thereon.

I have the honour to be, Gentlemen, Your most obedt. servant, GEORGE DORMER.
