PIONEER MOTORING

trains ahead.
"Noticing the complete absence of cars beyond Martinsville, we therefore asked the hardware man where we bought gas. He said "Most folks seem to have more sense than to try to get over the road in one of them there things, this time of year" was his scornful reply. Not one of them things has tried to make Rock Mount (30 miles north) since last November.
"Fording streams about half the time dodging great timber trucks on roads that were roads in name only. jolting, jouncing and slithering, we got to Rocky Mount at 8.30. two chains on the rear wheels and length of clothes line coiled about the front ones. The Lord certainly must have been with us but I got a permanent pompadour.
"In the crowd of amazed citizens which greeted us was Henry Davis owner of a locomotive car," as the natives called his White Steamer. "Mr Young," he later whispered so father wouldn't hear him, the road from here to Roanoke is impossible. Mine was the last car to pass over it since last fall. Better ship your car by the railroad.
"But we decided to go on and met Davis at a spot two miles from town where there was a bottomless pit of mud. He persuaded a farmer to take the bars of his fence and let us detour the spot over his lands. This was only the beginning. It was really a desperate adventure. Through swollen streams we splashed some 14 crossings in all. Wallowing back and forth in quagmires like a ship at sea, sliding off the trail and then back again, we crept along natives running indoors when they saw us thinking we were ghosts, perhaps. At one place we had to leave the trail entirely and make our way for 600 feet along a creek bed.
"At Booe's Mill we had our worst tussle getting down into a creek and getting out of it again, when both banks were at least a 30 degree climb. The creek was nearly three feet deep but had a rock bottom. In getting up the axe and shovel and block and tackle were the only things that saved us. But we got going again only to have the Thomas sputter and stop. Our gas line was broken. It fixed it with a hose which fed our Presto

ALBERTA HOUSE ASKS ACT BE APPEALED

Aberhart Supports Amendment to Except Movement Launched Against Him in Okotoks Riding.
Edmonton, Sept. 30—The Alberta Legislature passed a resolution asking repeal of the Alberta Legislative Assembly Recall Act, which provided for recall of members of the Legislature by petition of voters.
An amendment by Gerald O'Connor (Lib., Edmonton) to exclude present recall proceedings in Okotoks-High River constituency, represented by Premier Aberhart, was defeated 51 to 10 on a recorded vote.
The Premier supported Mr. O'Connor's amendment.
The Recall Act provides that a member may be unseated of a petition is signed by 66 2-3 per cent of the voters in constituency.
Charles Cockroft, former Provincial Treasurer, originally moved to have the percentage of signatures reduced to 10 per cent, and Fred Anderson (S.C. Calgary) moved an amendment to have the signatures 66 2-3 per cent of those who voted at the last election.
Mr. Anderson today sought to substitute repeal for its amendment, but was denied the privilege.
E. O. Duke (S.C. Rocky Mountain) then moved the repeal motion, which was carried.

JAPS AND U. S. GET NOWHERE

Washington, Sept. 30—The United States and Japan reached a diplomatic deadlock tonight over the question of responsibility for injury to United States citizens and American property in China.
The Tokio Government capped an exchange of notes by refusing to acknowledge liability. The United States previously had warned Japan repeatedly it would be held accountable for damage resulting from its military operations.
The expression concerning liability was only one phase of Japan's reply to an American protest against the bombing of Chinese non-combatants.
In addition to serving notice that the Japanese military intended to pursue its aerial attacks on Nanking, the Chinese capital, the Tokio note invited this government to co-operate with the Japanese Government to insure the safety of the United States nationals and vessels at Nanking.
Observers generally interpreted the invitation to co-operate as a renewed request that the United States order its diplomatic representatives and naval vessels at the Chinese capital to seek safety elsewhere.
Secretary Hull, withholding comment on this and other aspects of the Japanese reply, told newspapermen the American note of protest and the reply must speak for themselves.
There seemed no disposition among officials here, however, to co-operate if that means the withdrawal, even temporarily, of the American Ambassador at Nanking and the two American gun boats anchored off that city in the Yangtze River.

JUST AN ACCIDENT

A pleasant Sunday afternoon in the country. Thousands of happy families "out for a drive." whizzing along on a typical picturesque Ontario Highway. Suddenly, around a curve—screams, the shriek of brakes and tires, a terrific crash the screech of tearing metal, the sickening clatter of glass, agonizing moans—then a deathly moment of silence.
A man, one arm hanging limp, crawls from the wreckage. One ear has been flayed from the side of his head. He leans over some one else in the car, then collapses.
Help comes almost immediately. Limp broken bodies are dragged from the wreckage and laid on the roadside. A thin red stream trickles over the running board of the car and forms a pool on the highway. One body is covered over with a blanket. Two others are rushed to a hospital. There may still be time to save them. A bystander peers curiously into the back of the car. He turns away with a shudder and is violently sick; some one else fishes out an arm and tucks it under the blanket beside the still body.

Horrible isn't it? But neither uncommon nor exaggerated. It is simply a factual report of one of the 501 motor accidents in 1936 which resulted in fatalities. The headline in the Newspaper next day read something like: "ONE... DEAD IN CURVE CRASH TWO IN HOSPITAL MAY DIE." You've seen dozens of headlines just like it, but how often do you stop to think of the hideous picture of blood and pain and death which lies behind them.
Accidents are horrible. Horrible to hear about and look at. Horrible in the realization that THEY NEED NOT HAPPEN!
In Ontario the Department of Highways is determined they will not happen. But to prevent them it needs your help. You must drive (and walk) carefully, sanely. YOU MUST STOP TAKING CHANCES. And you must make sure that others do the same thing by reporting those who endanger lives by reckless driving. Dismiss any prejudice which suggests "it's none of your business." It is your business! It is one of your responsibilities to yourself and to the community. It is one of your duties as a citizen—and it is one of your duties as a human, being to help save others from a needless death or injury. YOU ARE YOUR BROTHE'S KEEPER:

COURT CLERK FACES SUIT

Edmonton Lawyer Makes Third Attempt to Test Order-in-Council
Edmonton, Sept. 30—The third attempt by G. H. Steer, K.C., to obtain a Court Ruling on the validity of three Alberta Government Orders-in-Council made headway today when a statement of claim suing R. P. Wallace, court clerk, for $5,000 was entered in Supreme Court records nearly twenty-four hours after its was presented originally by Mr. Steer.
Orders-in-Council challenged by Mr. Steer forbid court officials to accept documents in actions questioning legality of Provincial legislation.
When Mr. Wallace acting on authority of the Order-in-Council, last week refused to accept a statement of claim from Mr. Steer, the Court Official made himself liable for damages the barrister asserts in the statement of claim entered today.
A special order-in-council passed by the Provincial Government Tuesday allowed entry of the statement of claim refused admission to court records by Mr. Wallace. The document questions validity of the Provincial Debt Adjustment Act.
By delaying entry of the statement of claim Mr. Wallace seriously inconvenienced the plaintiff, Mrs. Rachel D. Steen, the document alleges

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

SCHOOL DAYS ARE HERE

The many school activities offer countless opportunities for snapping pictures that you will enjoy in years to come.

If there was ever a snapshotter's paradise, it's school for those who attend it. It may be a one-room school or it may be a great university. Wherever, whatever it may be, it's crammed with unbeatable picture possibilities.
Yet we might as well face the fact of the matter—few snapshotters make the most of school's snapshotting opportunities.
Perhaps they are dazzled by the very wealth of the material at hand. More likely, they assume that somebody else is going to take the pictures. And that's a fatal mistake. For nobody else can see things as you see them. And it's what you see that means most to you—and to the folks at home, now or years from now.
The question, then, is how to make the most of school's picture possibilities. A little planning will do the trick.
First, about the right camera for school. Any camera will do, provided it is clean and in good order and uses a size of film that is easily available anywhere. If yours has a fast lens and a fast shutter, you'll have an advantage in taking shots at sporting events, but such a camera is not at all essential. With a little care you can make even the simplest box camera turn out entirely satisfactory pictures.
Then, how can snapshotting be planned? All of it, of course, cannot be planned, but many of the most important shots can be. Why not work out a scenario, Hollywood fashion?
First of all, whether school's just around the corner or a thousand miles away, you'll want a few good shots of home. Then a view or two taken on the way to school. Maybe those views seem commonplace now, but wait a few years.
At school, of course, there are the obvious shots of the buildings, the grounds, new classmates, teachers, old friends, sports, picnics, class ceremonies, and so on. It's a good idea to take them so as to form a kind of continued story. Then, when they are mounted in your album, the pictorial story will flow along evenly.
A really good collection of school pictures is hard to find, as any school year-book editor will tell you. Yet there's nothing much easier to take; and few snapshots increase in value, year after year, as surely as those taken at school.

ARMS FIRM TAKES BRIGHTON PLANT

Brighton, July 23—Announcement has been made here that the Cooney machine and arms Company, now of Cobourg, has purchased the foundry located here and owned by the Canadian Cannery Limited and will move their establishment to Brighton as soon as necessary alterations can be completed.
The building purchased by the Cooney Company has long been idle not having been in use since the Barnard Machine Co. occupied it 15 years ago. It is a wellbuilt substantial brick building.
Brighton Board of Trade is largely responsible for the locating of this industry here, having approached officials some time ago when the suggestion was first made that they might move from their present quarters in Coburg. At a recent meeting of the council here, Mr. Cooney stated that his plant would occupy 30 to 40 men the year round with payroll in the neighborhood of $50,000 annually.
Already operations to clean up the grounds and inaugurate the necessary repairs are under way and the Cooney Company is reported to be eager to get under production in their new quarters at the earliest possible date.

ALBERTA GIVES FIRST READING TO PRESS CONTROL BILL

Heavy Penalties Are Provided For Refusal by Newspapers to Publish Government Propaganda.
Edmonton, Sept. 30—Including penalties for contravention of the act, a bill to ensure publication of accurate news and information in newspapers was introduced in the Alberta Legislature today by Hon. Solon Low Provincial Treasurer.
The chairman of the board constituted by the Alberta Social Credit Act is given authority to enforce publication of any statement furnished by him affecting the objects of any Government policies, the means being taken or intended to attain such objects, and difficulties encountered in their achievement.
Every proprietor, editor, publisher or manager of any newspaper, if called upon by the board chairman in writing, must disclose every source of information contained in any statement in the newspaper, the bill declares.
The names, addresses and occupations of all persons by whom such information was furnished to the newspaper may be demanded, as well as the identity of any writer of any editorial, article, or news item.
The bill provides that every statement published in compliance with the act at the request of the board chairman shall be privileged and not subject to the Libel and Slander Act. No action the bill says, may be maintained by any persons in respect to the authorized statement or its subsequent publication.
In case the proprietor, editor, publisher or manager of a newspaper is guilty of any contravention of the act the bill says the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council may upon the board chairman's recommendation, prohibit the publication of anything written by any person specified in the order or prohibit publication of any information emanating from any person or source specified.
The bill also provides every person who contravenes the act or who makes any default shall be liable to a penalty of $500. any person who contravenes any order-in-council with respect to suspension of publication or permits any one writing who has been barred or accepts information from
