reeve, and councillors. Those nominsted were:—For reeve, J. J. Preston, Dr. Nasmyth; for 1st dep.-reeve, H. Henders; for 2nd dep.-reeve, John Vance, Gilbert Kincaid; for councillors, Mesers. McIndco, Stanton, Shaw, W. T. Maguire, Heber Prestor. From this goodly array surely the people of Manvers should be able to select a good and intelligent c: uncil. After the returning efficer left the chair, Mr. R'chard Staples, of L'fford, was called to preside, and after a few remarks called upon Mr. J. J. Preston, reeve, to address Commencement the audience. Mr. Preston came forward branched off on the business in hand. He and was received with a storm of applause, evidently was a careful student of munifrom which one could form an opinion that he was a popular mar. He then un-folded the business of the council, and cipal affairs from the way in which he came armed. He advocated a radical explained many things to the people. The question of salaries and appointments he dealt with, quoting the municipal manual to show that there could be no letting of charge in many ways. He laid down his platform in a manner that evidently meant business. He first tackled the board of health, claiming too much had been expended in that direction. He believed in offices by tender. He advocated the principle of employing a competent man and paying a fair salary for his work, which was in his estimation the truest of economy. hiring sanitary inspectors and medical health officers at a fixed salary and let that cover expenses. He then turned his atten-The question of charity was also handled in a masterly manner. The indigent people of the township in jail at Cobourg, it was shown, were maintained at less extion to salaries, and commission of councillors, and advocated the reduction of such salaries and the abolishment of commissions on road jobs. The salary of the clerk was also treated to a reduction from $300 to $18), which Mr. Maguire thought pense to the township, and more comfortably than if in the township.....Mr. H. Henders, 1st dep.-reeve, then came forward, at the call of the chair, and was well sufficient. He s'rongly advecated a fixed salary for each member of the council. He is evidently 'on the war-path', and if Mr. Maguire gets elected the people may expect him to do some s'remous "kicking" for the adjustment of affairs....Mr. received. As no opponent was nominated to oppose him, he, of course, is a member of the new council. He corroborated the forward. He in a manly way stated his principles, taking as his platform honest and common series which is indeed honest. statements of Mr. Preston with regard to the indigents, and was also in favor of econom'zing in the way of lessening salarles ..... Mr. John Vance was the next principles, taking as his platform honest and common serse, which is indeed a very broad one. From the way in which his remarks were received we can be all but sure that he will be remembered at the polls, He was willing to withdraw from the race if the rast of the new ones would, but if not he was ready to meet the citizens of Manvers at the polls, and wished for their votes and influence in his behalf.

The next to be called by the chair was Mr. S. Shaw, and in his jocular manner elicited hearty applause from the man called, and, of course he was received heartily; 'he could not make much of a speech," he said,—but was the long John he was a year age. In case of an election he hoped to have the suffrages of his fellow citizens...Mr. Gilbert Kincaid came forward at the call of the chair. He had the nomination of 2ad dep. reave, opposing Mr. Vance, but with the consent of his nominator he would withdraw from the contest, as an election would enteil expanse upon the township.....Mr. Stanton, of Pontypool, was the next to take the platform.
