GOODERHAM. [Special to THE POST.] Division Court.-The sittings of the 3rd division court were held at Gooderham on Jan. 16th and at Wilberfore on the 17th inst., at which the following suits were heard: William Hadley vs. the Irondale Bancroft and Ottawa Railway-$45 for a cow killed on the track, including $10 for the loss of her in the height of the season. Judgment for $25; the latter claim was inadmissible. Mr. Pussy, for the company, pleaded that the cow was at large contrary to the statute. Deft. proved he had a pasture for his cattle with sound fences save on the railway side, and from there the cow crossed to the track a eyidenced by the state of the road bed the cow being carried a long distance until the train stopped. His honor took the opportunity to state here that there was a statute that no animal could run at large within two miles of a railway track unless attended by a keeper, that a municipal by-law permitting them to run was inoperative as against the statute, and should an animal so at large get on the track and cause the derailment of a train the owner of the animal would be responsible for damage. Years ago a store-keeper did not have to hustle much to gain trade-lack of competition gave him a cinch that enabled him to do a large volume of business without worry.

Conditions are considerably altered now-a-days-completition is keen to a degree and one's business demands unremitting care and attention. Merchants are constantly on the alert to gain some little advantage that may help to attract trade their way, and make the rugged road to business sucess easier to travel,

Like others, we have been devoting much time and careful thought to the new year-how to please old customers better and attract new ones in plenty. We fancy we have reduced grocery buying and selling to a sience, or pretty near it. We buy in large quantities in order to get the goods at reduced prices, and sell at a small profit in order to clear the goods out quickly. In this way our customers get the very freshest groceries at exceptionally low figures.

In this new year we are prepared to do a larger business and give better satisfaction than ever. We solicit a chance to serve those who have not as yet dealt with us, confident that on a year's trading we can do better for you than any other grocer
