LINDSAY, FRIDAY, FEB. 21, 1896. DEPARTMENTAL APPEALS.

A Paper Read by J. H. Knight, P. S I, at the Recent Meeting of the East

Victoria Teachers' Association, The regulations of the education department provide for an appeal in the case of the entrance, public school leaving, primary, and junior and senior leaving exam-

This is necessary for several reasons. For instance, for the entrance examination there are as many sets of examiners as there are high schools, and for the other examinations each subject may be read by more than one person. Different examiners have different ideas as to what constitutes a pericot answer, as to the value of gets his eigarettes just the same, howan imperiect answer, and whather an answer is altogether wrong or partly right. There may be very little variety in the case of correct answers, or of incorrect answers, but when an answer is partly right and partly wrong, a great difference of opinion often exists, one examiner being willing to allow 8 out of 10, where another would think 2 marks out of 10 so flicient. So far I have supposed that the examiners were both competent and honest Doubtless the examiners are generally selected with the view to their ability to discharge their duties prop riy; but with the utmost care it is possible that some may not be so thoroughly master of the subject as to do justice to every candidate and allow no undue advantage to any one. Then it is just possible that some examiners may be appointed more on account of their importunity, or on account of the

That some examiners I have worked with were not honest I have found out by bitter experience; and I have no doubt other examiners could say the same.

Then there is the hurry necessary on account of the number of papers to be read, and the anxiety of candidates, to know the results. It is not pleasant to report that 50 papers were read yesterday, just after another person has reported 90. Most of he work is done in summer, and occasion ally the heat is very oppressive. At such a time an examiner is apt to think of many things he would rather do than read papers. Or the examiner may be suffering with headache, dyspepsia, or some other ill which makes him practically un-Another reason why an appeal may be necessary is because it often happens that one or more of the questions, or a note or directions to the candidates may be ambiguous and susceptible of two or more meanings. In such cases, I understand, it who prepared the questions, to tell the who reads the answers meant to say. This is an injustice to the candidates, because they have no better chance to guasa what a careless or blundering writer meant than the man whose business it is to read the answers. I never heard of a udge sending for the legislators who enacted a statute to find out what they meant to have for the law when there was a doubt as to what the interpretation ought to be; and yet that would be just as Another reason why an appeal is neces-sary, but one for which the present regulations fall to afford relief, is owing to the possibility of afferent candidates' answers being interchanged, and one person get-the case is evident from the fact that they persistently refuse to allow any investigation to take place which might reveal care- toms to exist, does not promptly take lessness on the part of officials and pjustice to candidates. If the department had confidence that no errors were possithe fullest investigation. When it is remembered that the number of papers handled is very large, and that by a slight error the papers of one candilate may easily be exchanged with another, there surely cught to be some remedy by which a candidate might be sure that he received credit for his own work, and not for that of another person.

I do not advocate the giving to candi dates any advantages they should not have. To pass an entrance candidate who does not deserve to pass, may be to deprive that candidate of another year at a public school; because many pupils leave school when they have passed that examination. Or it may tend to lower the standard of the first form of the high school and retard the progress of every other pupil. To pass a candidate at the primary examination who ought not to pass, may result in the ruin of an efficient public school; because there is always a trustee who is willing to disand give the position to his son or his daughter, provided that he or she can get a certificate; and there is generally another trustee who Is willing to be a

But the necessity of shutting out every Ill-prepared candidate is no reason why the one who is well-prepared should not have justice. It may be quite satisfactory to one candidate who appeals to receive a letter containing two dollars refunded and the information that the appeal is sustained; but to another who is merely informed that the appeal is not sustained, it is a different matter. Some candi dates would like to know whether their papira were really read a second time. and if so, whether the second reader was a purificular friend of the first reader, and one who would do a mean thing to one person to shield another. Then they might like to know whether the second readers gave more marks or fewer than the first. They have paid for this in for mation and they have a right to get it. right to say what papers shall be reread, and they object, when a mistake has seen discovered in the first paper, to the examiner going over the other papers until he finds one from which he can literature, 15 marks added, German given; the name of the examiner who lead each paper on appeal and the number of marks given.

3. At any time within three months from the receipt of the report, the candidate, or any person or persons named by him, may examine the papers in the presence of the deputy minister or any person named by him.

If these changes were made in the regulations, the examiners would have the greatest inducement to be careful in reading the papers, the candidates could appeal with much more confidence than they can at present, and the department would gain the reputation of being more anxious to do justice than to hide errors.

-The use of tobacco in any form is hurtful, but cigaratte smoking is by far the most injurious. C'g rettes are made from inferior tobacco; stumps thrown away by the smokers (perhaps a smoker with a contagious disease) are gathered, and used largely in the manufacture of cigarettes. This being poor tobacco, saltpetre is freely employed to keep it from becoming musty. Saltpetre is highly injurious. When analyzed a cigarette is found to be strongly impregnated with opium. The paper wrapper has lead or arsenic, sometimes both, in it.

-A physician remarks: "Cigarette smoking is decidedly injurious, producing weak heart and zervous diseases. The injurious effects are not confined to the smoker, but are transmitted to his posterity." Another eminent dcotor says: "I have seen boys who used tobaccc in any form not only defective in bodily development, but most markedly defective in mental development, and therefore more susceptible to moral degradation and less susceptible to moral development. Another effect of tobacco is paintation or irregular action of the heart."

-From another authority we quote the following: "In boys or young lads the use of tobacco is a more serious matter. It is not only an unnecessary indulgence, but in the imperfectly developed condition of their frames the depressing effects of the drugs, especially on the heart and digesive organs, not infrequently is disastrous to he health during life, and by its effect upon the heart especially, may shorten life in a very distressing way. The worst fficts, however, are upon the morals of the young, seen so often in habits of ground self-indulgence, dissipation, and sensual ity. As to the effects of the cigarette apart from those of tobacce, I will not venture to say more than that it is probable that the former contains some other intoxicant beide tobacco. The rapid growth in favor f the cigarette seems proof that it contains some substance the pleasures from which are felt to be greater than those

The reason kissing is so pleasant, says an osculatory expert of scientific tendencles, is because the teeth, jawbones and lips are full of nerves, and when lips of persons meet an electric current is generated and, to put it facetiously, you don't have to have a dynamo machine, nor a battery in the house, nor a call box, nor a button to touch, to ring up the central office, and there is no patent on it, and the poorest person in the world can enjoy the electric current better than the millionaire, and it never gets out of order.

No Medical Tariffon Fees. The Smiths Falls Record refers to a division court case tried there lately which is of general interest. The suit was one brought by Miss Agnes Craine, M. D., against Mr. A. G. Farrell for $100 for one professional visit. The tariff of fees allowed dectors was cited by the plaintiff to show that this was only half the fee she might have charged under the tariff for the services claimed to have been performed. The case was dismissed with costs. Tacre is no longer any medical tariff of fees and only a reasonable charge can be made, the same as in any other calling in life. There was such a tariff, but at the last session the Ontario government repealed it-page 179, c. 28, statutes of Ontario, 1895.

Church Notes.

-A very interesting and impressive ceremony took place at St. Peter's cathedral, Peterboro, on Sunday, being the ordination of Mr. C. J. Phelan to the priesthood by his lordship Bishcp O'Connor. After the ordination a most impressive sermon on the dignity and functions of the priesthood was preached by the Rev. Father Teefy, Superior of St. Michael's college, Toronto, at which college Mr. Phelan took his classical course, taking for his text the words, "Thou art a priest forever, according to the order of Melchisidech," He congratulated the people of Peterboro upon having reared up in their midst a native priest, including in his congratulations the parents and relatives of Father Phelan, and also Father Phelan, and asked the prayers of the congregation that he might have strength to perform his duties. After the sermon the newly ordained priest conferred his blessing, first upon his mother, father and members of is family, and then upon the congrega-

He gave two excellent discourses, the morning text being taken from Math. 17. 15, the Transfiguration of Christ. This, he said, was typical of the state of many who in connection with their christian life forget the duties devolving upon them in the world, and are ever desircus of beholding the glory of God, but do not wish to try the stern realities of life. of exultation, but let your light shine in the world for the good of others. -Rev. J. Webster, of the Montreal conference, preached last Sunday in Queen-st. Methodist church two excellent sermons. In the morning he took as his text words found in Prov. 3: 17, "Her ways are ways of pleasantness." He stated that the most pleasant thing in this world is the service of God, and the most unpleasant thing is the service of Satar. He showed that the christian way is safe, and pure, and well guarded, and ends in everlasting life. He gave a very touching description of the welcome that awaits the christian at the end of the journey. He earnestly exhorted all to journey in this pleasant way, and thus secure joy here and a home in heaven when life is over..... In the evening he took words in Luke 15: 18, "I will arise and go to my Father." He pointed out how each must act for himself—we should firmly decide for God; sin drags us down, hence we should arise. We should go all the way home; should forsake all sin and go to our Father. God is still the sinner's friend-he will know when he gets home and will fully rejoice in the great blessings of the gospel. All were invited to come to their Father's home. Excellent attention was given to the earnest appeals of the preacher to come -At the Baptist church last Sunday the pastor preached, and his sermons were in keeping with the object of the special meetings to be held to-morrow and Wednesday. The meetings are to be entirely free, and friends of all denominations are invited to attend. The morning text was Gal. 5: 17, "The flesh lusteth against the Spirit and the Spirit against the flesh, and these are contrary the one to the other." Primarily the word Spirit means the Holy Spirit, but it can a'so be applied to that part of the christian's being that takes the Lord's side. There are many differences between the two natures. Th one mortal, the other immortal ; the one material, the other spiritul; the one selfish, the other unselfish; the one base and gross the other elevated and refined. Paul draws a vivid contrast of the fruits of the different natures in the chapter in which the text is found. Man's carnal nature is so strong that the spiritual is in continual conflict with it, but if we permit the spiritual to be victorious during this life, there will be, in the life to come an eternity of rapturous freedom. Thanks be to God, who is willing and able to make clean

Newspapers and Magazices. -General A. W. Greely, of Arctic fame, begins, in the March Ludies' Home Journal, his articles on George Washington which are expected to cause considerable discussion. General Greely has read over 2,000 of Washington's private letters, and he writes in a frank, unbiassed way of the personal side of Washington. His first article will deal with the loves and courtships of Washington, and his final marriage with the widow Custis. Her special trouble was Bright's disease, and was of nine years' standing. It was so pronounced by two physicians. While she does not claim to be completely cured, having taken only four bottles of the ramedy, yet she feels so much better that she does not hesitate to recommend its use to anyone afflicted as she has been. The pains in her head have entirely ceased, and almost from the back. The complexion wears the glow of health and the puffed appearance is gone from the face. She has increased nine pounds in weight in two months, and is thereby encouraged to believe that what has so improved her physical condition will ultimately accomplish a complete cure.

The funeral of the late Ray. Father Bloem, Roman Catholic priest at North Bay, took place last Saturday morning at Peterboro, and was largely attended. The remains, accompanied by Mayor Brennan and Mr. Mackey, of North Bay, arrived on Friday evening at nine o'clock from Orillia, and there were many manifestations of respect along the route. At Orillia, where a change of cars had to be made, the C M. B.A. of the town remained with the body during the interval. On reaching the G.T. R. station at Peterboro the body was re-moved to St. Peter's cathedral. It was met at the door by his lordship Bishop O Connor and the clergy, and taken to the altar, where the solemn office of the dead was chanted by the clergy. August was more cheerless, if possible than the summer months already passed ice was formed half an inch thick; Indian corn was so frozen that the greater part of it was cut down for fodder; almost everything green was destroyed, both in this country and Europe. Papers received from England said, it will be remembered by the present generation that the year 1816 was a year in which there was no summer.
