Kingston, Feb. 12 .- The old adage that

"Murder will out!" received startling con-of the investigation into the murder, and who, a few months ago, visited the peni-

This change involved an almost entire reconstruction of the Executive Council. The vacancy thus created was filled by the appointment of Hon. Mr. Davis. These were the changes that had taken place and they had, he ventured to assert, met with the approval of the country. The address in reply to the Speech from the Throne was moved by Mr. A. Pattullo of North Oxford, who expressed his diffidence in attempting the task, and modestly accepted the compliment as being given to the constituency which he represented rather than to his own ability. The speech, remarkable for its clearness and vigor of expression and fluency of delivery, was above the average upon such occasions. In opening brief allusion was made to the history of the constituency, which had given to public life such men as Sir Francis Hincks, Hon. George Brown, Hon. William Mc-Dougall and Sir Oliver Mowat. The throughout the province at the unfortunate illness of Lieutenant-Governor Kirkpatrick was fittingly expressed and a sincere wish for his speedy recovery and return to Ontario, where he and his good, lady, to whom a graceful tribute was paid, would receive a warm welcome. Sir Casimir Gzowski's eminent services to Queen and state were the subject of a passing compliment, and, pursuing the theme of loyalty approval of the reference in the Speech to the celebration of the sixtieth year of Her Majesty's reign was expressed. The full significance of an instance for which no parallel existed in the annals of time could only be appreciated in the light of the full consideration of the events of that long reign, the vast extent of that empire over which Her Majesty reigns, and her own character and influence as a mother and ruler. The speaker asserted amid applause that all parties, races, creeds and classes are loyal, not only to the interests of Canada but to the interests of Great Brita and devoted to the person of Her Majesty. Whatever there may be in the womb of destiny for this splendid Canada of ours, only

It had not reduced the cost, as the Government had claimed it would, and the honorable gentleman was as far astray from the facts as possible when he stated that the people were satisfied with it. With regard to the winning of cases against the Dominion Government, were they not all the one people, of the same speech? Why is it that there was such jibing ways will be in the hands of Canadian people, and the speaker for one, as a young Canadian, believed that the star and jeering at winning a case from their own brethren and people? Probably now that Sir Oliver Mowat was in the Federal Government, he would now turn around and upset all these victories which he had won when Attorney-General. With regard to the proposals respecting Toronto University he saw indications of new ventures on the part of the University. He wanted to tell the Government that the people will not tolerate any further trifling with the interests of the University of Toronto. The people of the province have a high regard for the University and they don't propose to do anything to impair it in its usefulness, but there are a great many people, and their number is increasfluence of the Government upon the University of Toronto has had a bad effect, and that the connection with sponsible for the present unfortunate position in which the University finds

Toronto, Feb. 12. After the usual preliminary routine at the Provincial Legislature yesterday afternoon, Mr. Whitney, leader of the Opposition, interrogated the Government respecting the changes which had taken place in the Cabinet since the last session. He voiced the desire of the general public, as well as the Opposition, in asking that the Attorney-General would favor the House with as full and complete information as might be possible, having regard to the circumstances in which he found himself placed. For some time past, since the accession of his honorable friend the Attorney-General to power as leader of his party and the Government of the province, a great many rumors had been heard as to the time at which the general election will be held; as to whether this Parliaup a weak cons- ment would be allowed to live out the full length of its life, as limited by the law. To the personal knowledge of the speaker, statements have been made by the supporters and friends of the honorable leader that the general election will take Luce in the month of June next; at any event, if not then, Cardinal Food: later in the year. On the other hand, men high in the counsel and confidence of honorable members on the dence of honorable members on the Government benches have given the before Mr. Pattullo saw the joke and statement a positive denial. It is a apologized for not having seen the matter that interests the people, and if there is any doubt or uncertainty respecting it the people are entitled to as full information on the subject as can be reasonably given. The speaker quoted an interview with the Attorney-General which appeared in The Globe newspaper a month or six weeks ago, nied any truth in the statement that the House was to be dissolved immediately after the next session. He asked for information on the question. The Attorney-General concurred in the views of the leader of the Opposition that if there is any explantion to be given to the people of the province upon the question referred to the it. He did not know that he could add very much to what has already appeared in the newspapers with respect to the changes in the Government. Sir Oliver Mowat had been in-vited to join Hon. England's Queen. It was especially fitting, in this connection, that an event of world-wide importance in the treaty of arbitration between the two great English-and continuous development, extension and improvement of what the Government has already been doing. The establishment of a pioneer farm near Wabigoon had done much good. The first duty of the Government is to exert its influence and resources to the utmost to place "hardy" settlers in every part of New Ontario where there are tracts of good land to be found. [The speaker's reference to the class of settlers which were needed point earlier.] The attention of the Dominion Government should be drawn to the fact that New Ontario is a part of Canada, that a fair proportion of the expenditure and of the organized efforts of the Federal Government be devoted to bringing desirable immigrants into much as the discovery of gold, and the responsibility cast upon the Government by the discovery of the precious metal in New Ontario was pointed out and the hope expressed that in any legislation which might be passed the claims of the original prospector would be realized as superior to the speculator. It was not the duty of the Government, it was asserted, to start or promote a boom, and attention was called to the fact that the situation at Rat Portage and elsewhere

Attention was next drawn to the fact that owing to the removal of Sir Oliver Mowat to another throne and perhaps a wider domain the political history of the Province was entering upon a new era. The speaker ventured to assert that the high character,

Oliver had been productive of much real benefit to the Province during the past quarter of a century, and he regretted that he had not been privileged to sit with him in the Legislature.

The speaker then proceeded to deal with New Ontario, but before doing so he modestly disclaimed any intention of framing a policy for the Government, or knowledge of what their policy is beyond the indications in the address. Having asserted that he

MR. JOHN AULD Seconds the Address in Reply to the Speech -Everything Lovely. Mr. John Auld, South Essex, in seconding the reply, said he thought the Premier had made no mistake in choosing Mr. Pattullo to move the address in reply. The circumstances which had caused the speaker's entrance into the House were particularly painful to himself. The late Hon. Mr. Balfour and he had been partners in business for upwards of 25 years. The deceased was hard-working and faithful, and had served his constituency and his Province well. He was loved by Liberals and admired by Conservatives, and if ever there was a self-made man it was the late Hon.

A. J. Balfour. It seemed strange, he added, not to was sent down from the West two years existence, honorable gentlemen have a see the face of Ontario's Grand Old Man present as in former years, but lors in towns. every one was pleased to know that he had been called to a sphere where scope. The cry of the Opposition had been "Mowat must go," but they did not dream of where he would go. They had not thought he would join the trio of Laurier, Mowat and Victory and sweep the Conservative party from power last June. No doubt the pattlecry now would be "Hardy must go," but if the last two bye-elections were any criterion it did not look as though his exit would be a hasty one. Referring to the Speech from the Throne Mr. Auld compared the plenty in Canada with the famine in India, and said he hoped Canada's sympathy would be shown in some tangible form. He believed the farmers of Ontario were more prosperous than those of any other Province, and referred to the amount the Government had spent annually in the interests of agriculdairy industries. The cheese export from Canada to Great Britain amount ed to $14,000,000 worth, or 53 per cent of the consumption of cheese of that country. Of this Ontario sent at least two-thirds. And at the same time, while the Mother Country only imported 3 per cent. of her butter from Canada, yet she imported $1,000,000 more in 1896 than in 1895. These facts, he thought, were a sufficient instification for the existence of agricultural and dairy schools. The fruit export trade was also progressing favorably. There never was a time when the farmers appreciated more a farmer's education than now. The present low prices made it imperative that every agriculturist should know how to get as much as possible from the soil. Continuing, the seconder endorsed the late County Councils Act. He thought it should be a matter of satisfaction to the Government to see how smoothly and satisfactorily the act was working. He believed that a similar bill, to reduce the membership of Town Councils, would also be a move in the right direction. Passing on, Mr. Auld was also satisfled to know that the financial position of the Province was as good as ever. The two new members wre a decided acquisition to the House. He was pleased particularly with their references to New Ontario. There would be no greater task before the Legislature than the carrying out of the suggestions the addresses contained. He was gratified for the kindly expressions of personal regard which Mr. Whitney had bestowed upon him, He also thanked Mr. Haycock, the other
