the work of one Jeweller is as good as that of another. No more so than the work of other mechanics-there's good, better and best in our business,

In Watch Repairing particularly one must depend upon the honesty of the Jeweller. Your watch stops, and there may be much or little the matter-if the baby has been pounding carpet tacks with it a thorough overhauling may be necessary. Then, again, a bit of dust may have worked its way into one of the small cog wheels and stopped the machinery. In the first instance the repairs might cost a dollar or two-in the latter ten cents. The unscrupulous jewel-ler charges the same for both.

We've been doing a big business in Repairing of late -had to hire another workman. That denotes satisfaction felt by the public.

Tragic Death of a Young Lady at Gravenhurst

MISS TOUGH'S SECRET MARRIAGE

Ended in Her Dying in the Snow, and Her Young Husband, William Jas. Hammond, Who Was a Toronto Drug Clerk, is Changed With Murder.

Gravenhurst, March 10 .- (Special)-The inquest on the death of the young woman, Kate Tough, who was found dead here Friday evening under suspicious curcumstances, was concluded this afternoon, and is the first stage of what promises to be a sensational murder trial.

The inquest opened yesterday afternoon before Coroner Bridgeland of Bracebridge. Several witnesses were examined, and found that the deceased had left her parents' home about 8 p. m. Friday, having first been up town for a few minutes.

Shortly after 9 o'clock she was found lying in the snow on the road between Mr. Hammond's residence and her own home. Life was nearly extinct, she expired almost before she could be

The first testimony of a startling nature was elicited from Dr. Campbell, who swore that on Friday afternoon William James Hammond bought one ounce of prussic acid at his drug store, ostensibly to kill cats. Hammond on Saturday informed the witness that he had thrown away the poison without using it. It was brought out in evidence that two bottles were found secreted in the dead girl's bedroom, and that one was labelled and contained half an ounce of prussic acid.

It was also shown that Hammond had been secretly married to Miss Tough last November, in Buffalo, and that since her stay at home of about three weeks they had been corresponding, he signing his letters with initials. Hammond was married under the assumed name of James and their relations had been kept a secret. Their marriage, however, had been suspected, but both parties denied the relation.

The me lical men called in to see deceased were of the opinion that she had been in perfect health. This, coupled with the fact that a faint odor of prussic acid had been detected in her breath just before her death, pointed to poison as the cause of her sudden demise. The theory of suicide could not be made to fit the facts of her habitual cheerfulness and freedom from all morbid feeling.

The Coroner, after hearing the available evidence called Hammond and informed him of the grave nature of the suspicions aroused against him by the evidence produced and asked if he wished to make a statement. Hammond replied that he was anxious to do so and after the usual caution was

Hammond told his story in a perfectly cool way and seemed not at all to realize his position. He related that he had known deceased for years and had paid her attentions off and on. Last November or Jacember, he could not remember which, they were married in Buffalo under an assumed name. He simply dropped his surname and took his second Christian name instead. This was done to ensure secrecy, his parents and her parents being opposed to their union. For the same reason he had corresponded with her anonymously. After the wedding they spent a few weeks in Buffalo and New York, returning to Toronto, where they did not live together. His wife came to Gravenhurst three weeks ago, and he came here a week ago and met her secretely by appointment on Tuesday last. Their next meeting was accidental at 8 p.m. the day of her death, when they made an appointment to meet again in a few minutes, she meanwhile going to her home for a short time. The second interview lasted over half an hour and for the last 15 minutes they were alone together in his father's house. He had no idea of the cause of death and knew of nothing in their relations to make her despondent, as they had al-ways been on the best of terms. He admitted buying the prussic acid from Dr. Campbell. It was in a small sealed bottle, which had never been opened. He wanted it to kill a dog which had greatly annoyed him by following him and his wife in their walks. Immediately after his wife's death he had thrown the unopened bottle of poison away. It never occurred to him that under the circumstances he should have kept it. He adinitted that he suspected his wife had poisoned herself at the moment, however, of throwing away the poison He An adjournment of the enquiry took place until to-day, the jury desiring

At 2 o'clock this afternoon the inquest was resumed, when Dr. Grant made his report on the condition of the corpse. a report fully concurred in by Dr. Cornell, who was present at the post-mortem. The medical testimony proved that the organs of the body were in a remarkably healthy and quite normal condition, excepting a patch of unusual redness in the stomach. An odor of prussic acid was detected. In the ca-vity of the chest the doctors testified that the drug would leave almost im-

Dr. Bridgeland summed up the evidence concisely and with a strong presumption against the innocence of Hammond. The jury deliberated over an hour, and brought in a verdict that deceased died from the effects of prussic acid, and that the evidence pointed to Hammond as the one who administered the drug.

This evening Hammond was arrested by Chief Constable Sloan and brought before H. Castle, J.P., for a preliminary hearing on a charge of murder. After the putting in of the formal record of the inquest, the case was remanded for eight days to allow of further enquiries being made. Constable William Sloan conveyed the prisoner to the district jail at Bracebridge on the 11.45 train to-night.

The town and neighborhood is greaty excited over the affair. The young woman whose life is thus so tragically ended was brought up here, and her parents are highly respected residents of the town. She bore a good charac-ter, and was a most amiable young The scene at the funeral this afternoon was very affecting and the heartfelt grief of a large number who at-tended was plainly apparent. The bereaved mother, father, and family are almost heartbroken by the terrible event which has turned a happy home into a house of mourning. In another home too, there is heartrending arise and Mr. and Mrs. Hammond, who have long lived in town, have the sympathy of a host of friends in the terrible ordeal through which they are passing.

The accused is their only son, a young man just past his majority. They have made sacrifices to give their boy a good education and a start in life and he had given promise of becoming an unusually intelligent man. For some time he was employed as a clerk in Har-greaves Bros', drug store in Toronto, but of late has been studying law in the Queen City. In solte of the fact that he has exhibited at time undescribable traits of character, the hope is general that he may be able to establish his innocence. The immense number of people who attended the inquest are, however, almost unanimous in the opinion that he is in a most serious

Crown Attorney Johnson of Bracebridge has the case in hand for the Crown and further developments will be eagerly watched for. There is noprisoner as guilty of administering the poison. Judging from the funeral cards issued to-day the parents of the dead girl ignore the alleged marriage, her maiden name only being used in the announcement.

Many Matters Dealt With by the Local House Yesterday.

Toronto, March 11 .- It is the intention of the Government to conclude the business of the session not later than Easter. Sir Oliver Mowat, answering Mr. Whitney yesterday, said he intended bringing down his bitt dealing with County Courts within three or four days.

Mr. Whitney asked if it was the me tention to close the session by Easter. Mr. Harcourt said by the first of April if possible.

Mr. Matheson thought that where the Public and High School Boards united but one building should be used for both schools.

Mr. Ross said there was nothing to prevent this under the act. Mr. Haycock said the act should make clear the law with respect to withdrawals of High schools. It appeared there was doubt at present, where a High school was once established, whether it could be withdrawn. The bill was then read a second time. These bills also were read a second

Before the Committees. Mr. H. K. Smith, game inspector, Belleville, appeared before the Public Accounts Committee yesterday morning, but his examination was deferred. Mr. Wm. Foster, Owen Sound, will be asked to explain certain lumber accounts before the committee.

The Government House Committee had a meeting yesterday. Mr. Kivas Tully, C.E., gave the total cost of the institution from 1870 to 1892 at $264.000 Mr. Haycock figured out the total expenditure down to 1894 at $496,000.

Winnipeg, March 10.-(Special)-Aithough the announcement by Sir Charles Tupper in the Commons on Monday that Premier Greenway would be invited to a conference with the Federal Government on the school question, after the second reading of the Remedial bill, caused a good deal of talk here, there is, on second thought, not much importance attached to the matter. Indeed, it is generally regarded as a petty political trick.

A strong supporter of the Greenway Government in the Legislature pointed out to your correspondent that Mr. Greenway's private telegram to Sir Donald Smith does not mean anything, nor does it indicate any change of opinion by the Manitoba Government; and for Sir Donald Smith to betray confidence in the manner he did is most discreditable to him. Sir Donald has all along asserted that his mission to Winnipeg was purely personal and assured Mr. Greenway so when here, Sir Chas. Tupper made the same statements for publication, but now Sir Charles parades Sir Donald as an agent of the Federal Government and produces a private telegram to Sir Donald as though it were sent to the Government. Mr. Greenway and his colleagues are indignant at the noble knight's action towards them, but, of course, they will not allow this feeling to interfere with any negotiations the Federal Government may open for the settlement of the school difficulty. Sir Charles Tupper's announcement in the Commons cannot be regarded as an official invitation to a conference and as yet there is no other intimation to that The Tribune, the Greenway organ in an editorial to-night, says the whole proceeding has trickery stamped on its face, and it is predoomed to failure. It concludes: "It has been suggested that the request for the conference after the second reading is passed is designed for the purpose of bringing unusual pressure upon the Greenway Government and forcing it to compromise. It is hinted that the Dominion Government see in the second reading of the bill a most potent argument to compel Mr. Greenway to capitulate. They evidently think that the Parliament of Canada, having passed the second reading of the bill and thereby affirmed the principle of Separate schools, will never hesitate a moment to go the full length and pass the third reading if the Greenway Government does no capitulate. If the Ottawa Government had desired to inspire public confidence in its proposition and had in reality perceptible traces, and that there was at heart an earnest desire to reach an nothing to indicate death from natural amicable settlement, it would have acted in such a way as to place its motives far above suspicion.

"That the Greenway Government will see through the trick it is im-possible to doubt. It is difficult for its members not to recognize that Sir Charles has at the very outset placed an almost insuperable obstacle in the path which might have led to a settlement. Manitoba will never consent to yield at the point of the pistol what she is not willing to concede for the purpose of solving a knotty problem. "In speaking as it does The Tribune is not influenced by any brief from the Local Government. It believes that it represents the views of nine-tenths of the peole of Manitoba, and it is confident in asserting that whatever may come of the proposed conference, our Government will never consent to the establishment of Separate schools in the province, and will never sacrifice the great principles of national schools as embodied in the school act of 1890." It is pointed out that Hon. Messrs. Greenway and Sifton were once in Ottawa, and came away again without having yielded, and it is more than likely that the same result will follow any further visit.

Tuesday night a well-attended meeting of baseball enthusiasts was held in Hamilton's hall for the purpose of re organizing the senior club for the coming season. Last year's president, Mr. Gec. Lytle occupied the chair, and opened the proceedings with a brief address in which he alluded to the improved prospects for the game, and said that the new teams organizing would tend to the building up of the senior team by the infusion of new blood now and then, as "star" players developed. He then called for nominations for the

The appointment of an advisory committee was suggested by Mr. Richardson, who is an old ball player. He said it often happens that some members of the club question the manager's wisdom in select-ing men to play the various positions in a match, and the vote of the committee will relieve him of much unmerited blame. Manager Hamilton objected to the composition of the committee, holding that old players should be appointed. He moved that Messrs.
