PARTY.—A number of our young people surprised Mr. and Mrs. Johnathan Philip the other evening, but the genial couple were equal to the occasion, and soon the young people were all erjoying themselves, who are about to remove to their farm

The bride was Miss Ida M. Foreman; she looked very nice, wearing a travelling suit of brown. She was admirably supported by Miss Lena Maxwell. The groom, Mr. William Maxwell, of Eldon township, was assisted by Mr. Will. R. Foreman, brother of the bride, who discharged the duties pertaining to his office, in a very happy manner. The Rev. J. W. Wilkinson tied the mystic knot, doing it well and in a very short time, all parties being agreed. Congratulations and kisses was the programme for a while, after which the company sat cown to a most elaborate wedding dinner served in the dinning room. The wedding was small, just a few of the most intimate of the friends being present. There were a few nice and ing only brother, Mr. Henry Pollock. They were dressed much alike, in cream cashmere, with shot silk trimmings, wide silk collars, etc., and looked very attractive. There were no maids of honor, one bride assisting the other in the impressive service. Miss Minnie, the eldest daughter, was married to Mr. Walter D. Tree, of Carden township, the Rev. J. W. Shier officiating. Miss Lottie, the younger. was married to Mr. Mark H. Fisher, of Eldon township, the Rev. J. W. Wilkinson, of Woodville, a much-respected friend, officiating. Both of these reverand gentlemen acted in such a way as to convince one that they were experts at the business. ample justice had been done to these good things a choice program, consisting of vocal and instrumental music, recitations, etc., was rendered to the delight of all. The invited guests were not many; among these were the following—Rev. J. W. and Mrs. Wilkinson, Woodville; Rev. J. W. and Mrs. Shier, Victoria Road; Mr. John Fisher and Miss Annie Fisher, Argyle; Mr. Albert Magwood and Miss Maudie Magwood, Glenarm; Mr. Tree and Miss Tree, Carden: Mr. and Mrs. Courtney, Victoria Road. The presents were just lovely. Mr. and Mrs. H. Magwood, uncle and aunt of the brides, being unable to be present on account of the roads, sent to each of them a sett of chinaware, which was much admired. The Post joins in wishing these young couples happy and prosperous lives.
