> Forty Years Ago. (To the Editor of THE POST.)

SIR, - In a recent issue I noticed an item that brought to my mind the recollections of 40 years ago. The article spoke of a visit paid by Mr. Isaac Austin, reeve of Cardiff, to Lindsay. Mr. Austin referred to the first settler of that township-Mr. Kent-who was killed by the fall of a tree. For years I had forgotten all about poor Kent and his sad end. Mr. Kent had been a resident of Lindsay, and carried on the tailoring business in a little shop on the south side of Kent st. Myself and Mr. Kent had an adventure that I never will forget; it was the only time in my younger life when I was really played out and hardly able to walk home. Mr. Kent, although a small man, showed great to the Orange order, and had received the will rapidly become popular is equally degree of the Royal Arch the same night. Shortly after that an Orangeman died in Fenelop, and about a dozen members of our lodge elected to attend the funeral, Mr. Kent and myself being of the party. It was early in the spring, just after the snow had left, and roads were knee deep in mud. Mr. Kent and I undertook the job of carrying the flag, which was a very large and heavy one. We marched round on the Fenelon road to Bryson's Corner, then north on the Cambray road to Feneproceeded to the burying ground on John | an opportunity of doing so. Graham's farm.

knees in mud without one mouthful of nourishment. It was the first time we had ever gone over the road, and had no idea it was so bad. In all that day's tramp I never heard poor Kent complain or regret that he had decided to go to the funeral—he was the grittlest little man I ever saw, and his decision to leave his home in town and take his wife and fam. home in town and take his wife and family so far into the northern wilderness showed the indomitable pluck of the man. Some four or five families started together at the time to push their fortunes gether at the time to push their fortunes in the northern wilds, and one of the party was Malachi Campbell, who took his wife and family along also. No doubt there are a few yet living in Lindsay who will remember Campbell—one man in particular ought to remember him with regret. Campbell used to be a padlar and drove through the front townships; he had a beautiful span of horses and a rig, which he sold for $400, and lent all the money to the above party, who was doing money to the above party, who was doing husiness in town. The party falled, and Campbell never got one cent of his money.

He then opened a boxing school to teach the boys the manly art. Some may remember the day appointed for the meeting between him and the big man of Downeyville to fight for the championship of Lindsay. If I recollect aright the Downey ville champion's name was Pickett; he was a much heavier man than Campbell.
The fight was not left to the two champions, but turned into a general scrimmage, which were very common occur-rences in Lindsay those days.

Well do I remember the day "the forlorn hope" started for the wilderness of the

Who won't own to a little weakness for money. Housekeepers know that prices count in these times, when money is not any too plentiful. At our store you will get honest goods at honest prices, 16 ounces to the pound, and no sharp tricks.

TEAS and COFFEES.

In Teas you will find our prices about 25 per cent. lower than is usually charged for the same class of goods because we know how to buy right. Very few dealers carry the real fine qualities. We sell you the finest first-picked Tea and the young delicate leaves that give the delicious flavor found in English Breakfast, Young Hyson and Darjellings. The next grade ranges very close to the above in quality, but comes considerably cheaper. Then we can give you a really good blend of Indian and Ceylon, Young Hyson or New Japan for surprisingly little money. Our 25c. Tea is a wonder at the price.

In Coffees we have always led the trade for this district, which is due to the uniform excellent flavor. Our Blend at 45c. is a cup in perfection, and our 40c. Blend cannot be equalled.

Brandy, A Deadly Poison. The New York San says: "It is generally supposed that very old brandy of undoubted purity, the product solely of grapes, if consumed in moderation, is a delightful tonic, and possessed of great medicinal virtue, Brandies considered essentially harmful are those called 'commercial,' made from vegetables, and to their growing use in Earopa physicians and chemists attribute the accelerated progress of alcoholism. On the other read before the Parls Academy of Medicine, asserts that the very floest, oldest, and most carefully distilled brandles are actually deadly poisons, and more harmful than the common commerical sorts." "All that evil asks is to be let alone. The devil does not need assistance. Leave him alone, and he will do his own work. Weeds do not need to be cultivated. Briars only want standing room. Vice is well pleased to be 'regulated.' The saloon devil, the devil of impurity, of municipal corruption, of Sabbath desecration, all these unite in the prayer, 'Let us alone. The pity is that so many christian people are ready to grant the devil his prayer. —
