The census enumerators—Messrs. Bartholomew, Lennon and Mallon—are by long odds the busiest men in town at present. Mr.Mallon has visited 130 of the 300 or more houses in the east ward, and estimates that the population will total about 2,000....Mr.Philip McRae of Brechin, chief officer for the district, inspected the work of the enumerators Friday and had no fault to find with the method pursued.

-Several of our merchants have decided to do away with the ancient verandahs built over their dcorways and put up modern business-like awnings instead. It may take years to bring down the last of them unless the council, zealous for the appearance and good name of the town, steps into the breach, but the force of public opinion will accomplish it in time, and loafers will be forced to seek shelter elsewhere. -Remember "Aunt Jack" in Bradburn's opera house this evening. Kenny, Smith and Kennedy of the C. L. A., while the pegative had eloquent champions in Messrs. Bryson, Matthews and Blackwell. Want of space prevents extended mention, but we may say that the ora-torical powers displayed by the above-named gentlemen proved a veritable surprise to those assembled, and the addresses of several were worthy of delivery upon the floors of parliament. Judge Dean occupied the chair, and after a careful summing up of points made gave his decision in favor of the C. L. A. The collegiate debaters took their defeat in manly fashion,

Arch. Campbell.

"If you want to grow rich," said an aged thinker to a business man who was about to start a factory, "make it a rule to give the largest possible amount of goods for the least possible sum of money." The business man took the advice, and it worked so well that he soon bought out the factory of a rival, whose rule had been to get the largest possible sum of money for the least possible amount of goods of the poorest possible quality.

GOOD ADVICE

Is especially palatable when it outlines the course one has been steadily following, and it gives us keen satisfaction to know that a great many emphatically believe we have taken the first step towards the amassing of wealth.

IT HAS BEEN OUR CUSTOM

In the past to watch the markets closely and to buy largely when prices are low. In this way only is it possible for the retail dealer to secure decided bargains, and our customers invariably to get the benefit of our purchases.

HEADS OF FAMILIES

Take the first step towards saving money when they commence trading with us. We sell at the lowest possible notch of profit, depending upon our large sales to recoup us. The variety and extent of the Stock we carry offer every advantage to the purchaser, whose smallest order is given every attention.

DISSOLUTION OF PARTNERSHIP.

Notice is hereby given that the partner-ship heretofore subsisting between J. B. WARNER and J. R. PERRY as General Dry Goods Merchants, in the Town of Lindsay, in the County of Victoria, under the firm name of "WARNER & PERRY," has been dissolved by mutual consent.

The business will hereafter be carried on by J. B. WARNER under the name of "WARNER & CO.," who will collect the accounts owing to the late partnership, and pay all its liabilities.

appears here this evening, as follows:-"Miss Ffolliott Paget has never been seen here before, but she will in the future always be welcome. Her conception of Aunt Jack is extremely original, and while there must be an inclination to overdraw the part, she succeeds admirably in just going far enough to make the character original. The scene in which Brue makes love to her and when she addresses the judge and jury are very rich, and elicited not only hearty but uproarious laughter."

Resolution of Condolence At the last regular meeting of the Catholic Literary Association the following resolution of condolence was passed: "Whereas, it has pleased Almighty God to remove from our midst our steemed brother William A. Cahill: Be it therefore resolved, that whilst we bow in submission to the decrees of a wise and merciful Providence, we desire to express to the bereaved parents and relatives the great appreciation in which we held his many good qualities of mind and heart, and the sympathy we feel for them in their severe affliction."....Resolved that a copy of the above be sent to the parents of the deceased.

A most important point in curing stammering is permanency. Many so-called remedies are effective only for the time being if they succeed at all. Mr. Church's method-the Auto-Voce has steed the test of time. Little Millburn Sylvester of Lindsay, a bright boy of ten years, was over a year ago a very bad case indeed, but he became one of Mr. Church's first pupils and the distressing defect was quickly overcome. We had the pleasure this week of hearing the little fellow read his lessons and he spoke with remarkable clearness and smoothness. There was no difficulty or hesitation. He read as clearly as any other intelligent school boy. Mr. Church has several pupils now undergoing remedial training for this defect.

Caught at Last. The Barrie Gazette of April 8th says: In January last a man named Richard James and Mrs White of Linden Valley, near Lindsay, eloped, both leaving families behind. Detectives were placed on their track, but lost them. They went to Allandale and boarded a while, and finally took up housekeeping in Tollendal, James taking the assumed name of Dr. Nichol, which was Mrs. White's maiden name. On Good Friday James was walking along the road, when he was thunderstruck upon meeting one of his old Linden Valley neighbors driving. The neighbor wrote home, and on Friday two of the woman's brothers and Constable Sweeney proceeded to Tollendal and arrested the pair. They were brought before C. H. Ross. J P., on Saturday for trial. Mrs. White was let off to appear when called upon, and James will hear the sentence of the court next Saturday. tence of the court next Saturday.

The Canada Life-A Successful Year. The Montreal Gazette says:-"The story of the constantly enlarging business and prosperity of the Canada Life Assurance company has been told in the annual reports for now forty-four years, and with each recurring period a brighter and better tale is related to the proprietors. In the year which ended on December 31st last, the operations of the company were vast beyond precedent, 2,448 policies covering assurances of $4,583 121, and yielding annual premiums of $188,787 having been taken. The total business of the Canada Life is far in excess of that of any mense figure of $51,086 f01, as against a total only ten years ago of only $21 547 759. The income from this business is, of course, large, reaching above two millions, or about $7,000 daily, and as Last Friday a deputation from this town and county waited upon the Ontario government to Revolutionary War.
