A Youthful Till-Tapper. Sunday mornining last Mr. Arch. Campbell, naturally surprised and pained to find that naturally surprised and pained to find that some $25 in change, always left in the till so as to be handy Monday morning, had disappeared with the exception of a small sum in silver and coppers. Upon examination the back door was found unfastened, showing how the thief had made his escape. Suspecting that some sly youth would be found to be the guilty party, Mr. Campbell questioned the staff Monday morning and learned that George Hughes, an English boy who had been adopted some years ago by Mr. C. Oryell, barber, had been in the shop Saturday evening just previous to closing up. Mr. Oryell was seen, and his statement that the boy had had not been home Saturday night or Sunday confirmed the suspicion that he was the guilty one. Chief Bell was informed of the affair, and after searchining the town telegraphed the authorities at adjacent points, with the result that he soon after received a despatch from Uxbridge stating that the boy had been apprehended. Chief Bell left on the two o'clock mixed and returned on the evening train with the precoclous 12-year-old, who took thing very coolly and laughed and chatted with some comranions on the platform... It appears that some three weeks ago he was whipped by his teacher for truancy, and Mr. Oryell being informed of it told him he would have to attend school or, he would have nothing more to do with him. He then decided to run away, and to procure the funds on Saturday evening strolled into Mr. Campbell's, and watching his opportunity stole down cellar and hid behind some sugar barrels until all had gone, when he secured the money, opened the back door and flitted, spending the time until Monday morning he boarded the Toronto train, buying his half-fare ticket from the conductor. So that he could not be traced at the station.....Tuesday he was brought before Police Magistrate O'Leary, who sentenced him to a term in the Penetanguishene reformatory, the length of which depends upon his good conduct under the rules of that institution. some $25 in change, always left in the till so as

-Pure maple sugar is a toothsome product of nature, and is liked by both young and old—when they can get it. We hasten to explain that we do not think anybody in this vicinity would be foolish enough to melt over old maple sugar and sell it as the present season's make, because our subscribers are so intelligent that they would at once detect and expose the fraud; but that unprincipled persons in other parts of the province do so is made plain by the passage of the following law during the last session of the Ontario legislature: Any person who shall adulterate maple sugar, maple syrup or bee's honey with cane sugar, glucose, or with any substance whatever for purpose of sale, or who knowingly sells maple sugar, maple syrup or bee's honey that has been adulterated, shall be punished by a fine of not less than $50 nor more than $200 for each offence; and one-half of such -As the result of enquiries made among the different mill-owners and steamboat men it is evident that a busy season lies before our man-
