His funeral was the largest witnessed here for some time, hundreds of sorrowing friends, both young and old, following his remains to Sebright cemetery. We but echo the thoughts of the whole community, when we say that words fall us in expressing our sympathy with the aged father and mother who have suffered a loss that no earthly presence can replace. Let them think of and rejoice in the fact that their son is at rest "forever with the Lord."

and Mrs F. Thompson and surprised them on the eve of their departure for their new home near Stayner. At the proper time Miss Minnie E Graham read the following address:-Mr. and Mrs Thompson: We, a few of our many friends and neighbors, embrace the opportunity of tendering you cur respects. It is with sad hearts that we have gathered here to-night to say good-bye, though we sincerely trust it shall not be forever, and that when you have they merely exhibited the length of their tired journeying in other lands you will again settle in our midst. We will miss you in our church, where you were always present and ready to do what you could; also in our homes when sickness laid low some poor sufferer, you were willing to lend a helping hand to relieve them. trust you will ever prove as zealous workers in your new neighborhood as you have been in this, and that luck and prosperity attend you in all your doings. have learned to love and respect you your sixteen years' sejourn amongst us, and we feel that we cannot let you depart without showing in some small degree our esteem for you, and we beg of you to accept those easy chairs merely as a small remembrance of your West Ops friends. We all join in wishing that God's richest blessing be bestowed upon you, and when your little bark has drifted over the sea of and faithful servant, enter thou into the joys of thy Lord. Signed on behalf of the neighborhood. Miss Minnie Willock. Miss Tressa Graham. Mr. Thompson was so completely taken by surprise that "in his own words" he scarcely knew what to say, but thanked his friends and neighbors heartily for the kind thoughtfulness shown Mrs. Thompson and himself and assured them that they should always be held in their fondest memory, when in after years they would look back with pleasure on the six-teen years they had spent in West Ops and his one desire was that they should find as kind neighbors in their new neighborhood as they had in this. The Rev. Mr. Emberson then made a a very touching response, echoing the words of the address; he then lead the rest in singing that old-time hymn Blest be the tie that binds Our hearts in christian love, etc. Some sixty-five then repaired to spacious dining-room and partook of the delicacies which only West Ops girls can provide. A very enjoyable evening was spent and the crowd dispersed by singing Auld Lang Syre.

The Wobblers pulled on neither end, they counted for nothing, new ears. They may think their constituents fools. They may have been once, but once will be enough. His own little motion. Bah! He withdrew it. Couldn't get anybody to second it. A motion to go to the moon would be as practicable. OUR NEW STORY. "Beyond the City" is the title of the new story to be commenced in next week's issue of THE POST. It is from the pen of that very popular writer, Dr. Conan Doyle, is written in his best vein, and will be found of absorbing interest. Intending subscribers will find this a favorable time to start, as liberal instalments will be given

A very pleasant gathering of friends from Lindsay and Ops assembled at the residence of Mr. Chas. Bartlett, Kent-st. on April 8th, to witness the marriage ceremony of Miss Jennie Munroe to Mr. James Moore, both esteemed residents of our town. At nine o'clock the bride entered the parior on the arm of her brother, to the strains of the wedding march played by Mr. Geo. Denison. The inter-esting ceremony was performed by Rev. C. H. Marsh, of St. Paul's church. The bride was attended by Miss Jennie Bart-lett, with little Miss Mabel as maid of honor, while Mr. Will. Fiavelle attended the groom. After the ceremony the company sat down to a sumptuous repast, after which the evening was spent in vocal and instrumental music. The presents were numerous and costly, showing the esteem in which the bride was held.

THE POST joins with many friends in offering congratulations.
