Those whose business prevented them from leaving town repaired to the agricultural grounds in the afternoon to witness a game between the "Cygneta" of Toronto, and the "Athletes" of Lindsay. —"Once upon a time," as the legend runs, Lindsay had a base ball team—recognized as the champions of the Midland district; but after a couple of seasons' bad management discord crept in and the club dissolved. > -Mr. Thos, O'Neill, street superintendent, now opines somewhat to the belief that his position as a trusted servant of the corporation has its drawbacks, and his friends are urging him to demand an increase of salary or a special bedyguard while on duty. It seems that on Monday last, with a praiseworthy regard for the public health and despite the fact that it was a legal holiday, he made his way to the famous Tucker drain and set about removing erous complaints from citizens residing in the vicinity. While engaged at the work he was accosted by Mr. Edward Staunton, who lives near by, and who was then engaged in the peaceful occupation of gardening. It seems that a portion of the drain runs through Staunton's demesne, and the hot blood of his race boiled within him as he contemplated Mr. O'Neill's efforts to irrigate his property unasked, and finally it surged and overflowed. Ceasing his labor on the onion bed Mr. Staunton walked over to Mr. O'Neill and hit him hard. The sudden blow caused the latter to stagger, but he was on the point of placing another obstruction in the creek when he bethought himself that it was a grand opportunity for a test case. He was a grand opportunity for a test case. He accordingly released his opponent and summoned him to appear pefor P. M. O'Lesry Tuesday for assault and interfering with a town official in the performance of his duty. Mr. O'Leary imposed a fine of $5 ane $2.50 costs, with an added warning that any future case of a similar nature would be severely dealt with.
