PORT PERRY. E THE LARGEST AND BEST .- On Tuesday last Mr. John Calder, near Seagrave, sold to the well known cattle buyers, Messrs. Wheeler & Bongard, an exceptionally large and choice bull. The animal was much admired by all who saw him, he was of solid proportions and tipped the scales at 2.800 lbs. This fine animal goes far to establish Mr. Calder's reputation as a feeder, and the advantageous sale of the great animal is an additional proof of having active and liberal purchasers around always - ready to pick up, at good prices, all cattle fitted for market. branches of agriculture, when the right kind of branches of agriculture, when the right kind of animals are produced. Many farmers heretofore have bred to inferior stallions that possessed neither breeding, style, action or size, the result being a class of course undersized, low carriaged, unsaleable stock, which could only be sold for less than the cost of raising and this ruinous course was pursued because the stallons patronized were low priced cheap ones. No stallons are cheap which produce undersized, common unsaleable stock. The BEST and CHEAPEST stallion to breed to is one which would improve and beautify your stock and give you a class of horses which have ample size to haul produce to market, to be fully equal to all farm labor, with action sufficient to draw the buggy or carriage in good style, and beauty and finish to attract purchasers at paying I unhestatingly say that STARLIGHT, both indivi-dually and as to family, is that character of stallion
