The little fellow felt as lively as ever afterwards and complained of no pain.

And yet the Empire and World tells us that the N. P. has built up East York. It has to the extent that there is eight hundred less population in Markham township than there was ten years ago, and its 67,257 acres of land have decreased $1,500 000 at a very low estimate. important question raised by the condition of English trade as affected by hostile tariffs.... The Daily News, commenting on Lord Salisbury's speech at Hastings, ridicules what it terms the speaker's views on "protection by halves," and adds: "If protection is beneficial, farmers are equally entitled with manufacturers to be protected. If Mr. Goschen had any backbone he would resign to morrow." The Chronicle says: "The Gladstonians ought fervently to pray Lord Salisbury to deliver a series of addresses until the brink of the election. "Fair trade' is the inclined plane which has led European countries, like the Gadarene led European countries, like the Gadarene swine, into the sea of absolute prohibition.
We should not be surprised to hear that this speech brought about the dissolution of the unionist alliance. It will certainly modify the country's belief in Lord Salisbury's statesmanship."

> —A London cable says: The situation of the week is Lord Salisbury's protection speech. That Lord Salisbury should have journeyed to Hastings and to a watering place audience to deliver such an important manifesto is a subject of wonder on all sides. His speech, though very guarded and qualified by reservations that it really commits him to nothing, has produced a decided effect. The leading conservative rgan bluntly declares that he has done no good either to himself; or his party by his references to free trade, while the chief unionist organ in the province, the Birmingham Post, says that if such news is translated into deeds the unionist alliance is ended. The speech has caused the greatest excitement among the liberal newspapers, which harp at length upon the remier's indiscretions. In Manchester, Liverpool, Birmingham, Glasgow and other business centres the premier is most severely denounced.....The Manchester Guardian declares that if Lord Salisbury can have his way the free trade battle must be refought on one or two vital points and concludes: "Lord Salisbury himself admits that we cannot touch America, which is the worst offender, because we get food and raw material from there." -Advices from Mauritius state that a MOME AND FOREIGN ITEMS OF hurricane unprecedented in violence passed over the island on April 29, causing enor-Gamered from the Telegraph and Ex. mous damage to shipping. There could not be imagined a more baseless illusion. Throughout England scarcely any tory paper of position or intellectual worth has forborne to express its regret that such misleading nonsense should have been uttered by one in such an exalted position.
